"In view of the possibility of three-day adjournments by the House and the absence of a quorum from the city, I venture to write you this brief note to urge that the emergency power bill be pressed to passage, if possible, before adjournment, as it is of capital and immediate importance as a war measure. I hope that it will be possible for you to obtain the consent of the House to this action."

Chairman Padgett, of the Naval Committee, introduced a bill to appropriate $4,550,000 to take over dry docks and adjoining lands now being built by the State of Massachusetts in Boston.

WOMEN'S FIELD DIVISION OF COUNCIL OF NATIONAL DEFENSE

The Council of National Defense authorizes the following:

The Council of National Defense has created a field division of the council, merging the State councils section and the greater part of the machinery of the woman's committee of the council. The field division of the council will be headed by Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior and a member of the Council of National Defense, and there will act with him a governing committee of six men and six women, composed as follows:

Personnel of Committee.

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, Mrs. Joseph R. Lamar, Mrs. Stanley McCormick, Miss Ida M. Tarbell, Miss Agnes Nestor, Miss Hannah J. Patterson, all of the woman's committee of the council; Daniel Willard, chairman of the advisory commission of the Council of National Defense; Fuller Callaway, a business man of La Grange, Ga.; George L. Berry, of Pressmens Home, Tenn., president of the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union of North America; H. M. Robinson, of Pasadena, Cal., former assistant chief of the State councils' section and a director of the Southern California Edison Co., the Union Oil Co., and various banks in California; R. M. Bissell, chairman of the Connecticut State Council of Defense; and Grosvenor B. Clarkson, secretary of the council and of the advisory commission.

Mr. Clarkson Director.

Mr. Clarkson, in addition to his present duties as secretary of the council, will act as director of the field division, and Miss Hannah J. Patterson, who has been resident director of the woman's committee, is appointed associate director of the field division.

The woman's committee of the council will be held together to meet whatever emergencies may arise in connection with woman's part in the prosecution of the war that may fall outside the province of the field division.

This amalgamation of two of the most highly organized Federal war agencies has grown out of the need and desirability of bringing the women of the country more closely into the Government's war work and at the same time causing a more efficient guidance from Washington of the State defense activities.

The woman's committee was formed shortly after America entered the war and has performed a remarkable work in organizing the woman power of the country for the Nation's defense.

STATES WOOL REGULATIONS ARE WORKING OUT SATISFACTORILY

B. M. Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board, authorizes the following:

The wool regulations concerning the domestic clip for 1918 provided that the wool in the Western States, referred to as the "territories," could not be sold at all, except in amounts less than 1,000 pounds, but must be consigned to approved distributing centers, in which case there would be no expense on the part of the growers, except freight to Atlantic seaboard, the Government paying the commission of the dealers for handling the wool.

Fleece-Wool Sections.

In the Middle West, East, and Southeast, referred to as the "fleece-wool sections," where the clips are small, the growers were urged to pool their wools and consign to distributing centers, in which event the growers would receive the full Government price. The wool growers in the fleece-wool sections, however, were given the privilege of selling their wool if they so desired, the regulations providing that the local dealer or buying agent should buy it at a price which would only enable him to make 1½ cents per pound, which, of course, would come out of the grower. The regulations further provided that all dealers should be approved by the wool section of the War Industries Board, and if at the end of the season an examination of their books should disclose the fact that the country dealers had made in excess of 1½ cents per pound gross profit on the whole season's business, or the dealer in approved distributing center had made in excess of 5 per cent gross profit, exclusive of interest, on the whole season's business, then such excess would be disposed of as the Government should decide.

No Complaints Coming In.

The plan has worked out with apparent satisfaction in the territories, as there have been no complaints whatever coming into this office. On the contrary, in the fleece-wool sections wool dealers have in many cases paid too low a price, with the result that there will be substantial amounts to be taken over from them by the Government.

It is the purpose of the wool section of the War Industries Board to check up the dealers generally, and where possible distribute their excess profits back to the growers in as fair and equitable a manner as possible. It is possible in some cases the identity of the grower of the wool may be lost, but a very earnest effort will be made to do justice to all, and an endeavor will be made to so modify the regulations as to prevent such a situation arising in the future.

IMPORTS FROM BAHAMAS.

The War Trade Board, in a new ruling (W. T. B. R. 238), now permits the importation from the Bahamas of fruits and vegetables, and products of fruits and vegetables, fresh, canned or preserved, when brought from the Bahamas to east Florida ports on schooners or motor boats of approximately 100 tons or less register which are owned and operated by residents of the Bahamas.

Licenses will be issued for such shipments, when applications are otherwise in order, thereby preventing hardship to the inhabitants of these islands and permitting the continuance of an industry of vital importance to the islands.

War Department General Order Giving Regulations for Transfer Of Enlisted Men in United States

The War Department authorizes the following general order covering the transfer of enlisted men in the United States:

1. The indiscriminate transfer of enlisted men is becoming a serious menace to the efficiency of the service, a needless expense to the Government, and is productive of unrest and discontent.

The Adjutant General's Department has on file records of the qualifications of all enlisted men, and is prepared to fill all positions in the service in so far as they can be filled by enlisted men.

2. Enlisted men will not apply for transfers, and officers will not request by name the transfer of enlisted men except for cogent reasons; all such applications for transfer will be scrutinized by commanders, who will forward for action only such applications as have unmistakable merit. In the present emergency no reasons other than military are cogent.

Transfer of enlisted men will, as a rule, be obtained by requisition, which will call for men having certain qualifications and which will be filled by transfer or by original assignment as may be recommended by the personnel adjutant or corresponding official.

3. For the purpose of transfer on requisition the organizations and the enlisted personnel of the Army in the United States are divided into two classes:

Class 1. Those organizations and enlisted men over whom a division commander or a divisional cantonment commander has general court-martial jurisdiction.

Class 2. All other organizations and enlisted men except as noted in paragraph 5, this order.

4. At a divisional camp or cantonment or within a division, the commander thereof has authority to transfer, as the interest of the service may require, any enlisted men of class 1. Thus, when an organization of class 1 requires enlisted men, its commanding officer will submit to the division or camp commander, as the case may be, a requisition showing the qualifications of the men desired. The personnel adjutant, under the direction of his commander, will fill the requisition in so far as the enlisted personnel of class 1 allows. If the requisition can not be filled locally, it will be forwarded to The Adjutant General of the Army, showing vacancies still unfilled. The Adjutant General of the Army will supply the deficiency, in so far as enlisted men are available. Requisitions from organizations of class 2 will be forwarded to The Adjutant General of the Army and by him filled, as the interest of the service may require.

The provisions of subparagraph 1, paragraph 114, Army Regulations, remain in force.

5. Commanding officers of ports of embarkation and Fort Benjamin Harrison, Fort Sill, Kelly Field, Camp Humphreys, Forrest, Leach, Joseph E. Johnston, and Crane have the authority to transfer within their respective posts or camps the enlisted personnel thereof, as the interests of the service may require. Within their respective departments the commanders thereof have authority to transfer enlisted men over whom they have jurisdiction, as the interests of the service may require.

6. Depot brigades, development battalions, and United States guards are for the purpose of transfers excluded from the jurisdiction of local commanders. Previous orders as to transfer to and from these units will govern.

7. Except in tactical units, transfers affecting Staff Corps or departments or special troops will be made only upon approval by the Chief of Staff Corps, department, or special troops affected, unless the transfers are approved by the local commander of the Staff Corps, department, or special troops concerned.

Within any tactical unit not part of a division transfers of enlisted men of Staff Corps or departments or special troops will be made according to the necessities of the service by the commander of that separate unit.

8. Except as noted in paragraphs 5 and 6, this order, all previous orders and all paragraphs of Army Regulations in conflict with the provisions of this order are, for the period of the present emergency, rescinded. The provisions of this order apply only to that part of the Army within the continental limits of the United States.

WAR TRADE BOARD RULING ON IMPORTATION OF SILK NOILS

By a new ruling of the War Trade Board (W. T. B. R. 237), importers of silk noils, silk noil yarns, garnetted stock, and silk waste will hereafter be required to give to the United States Government an option to purchase all such commodities imported by them at a price 2 per cent above the cost at the foreign port of shipment as shown by the consular invoice, including all charges, except prepaid freight and prepaid insurance. All outstanding licenses for the importation of these commodities have been revoked as to ocean shipment after September 10, 1918.

Licenses for the importation of these commodities, where the application is otherwise in order, may be issued, but shall contain the provision that the bill of lading be indorsed to the Silk Association of America, 354 Fourth Avenue, New York. The Silk Association of America will procure the option above mentioned before releasing the goods to the importer.

FOOD PROGRAM FOR THE COMING YEAR AS DRAWN BY ADMINISTRATOR HOOVER CALLS FOR STILL GREATER ECONOMY

WAR'S CRITICAL PERIOD

"No Prospect of Proper Ending Before the Summer of 1919," He Says—Army of "Three and a Half Million Americans" Must Be Fed as Well as Allied Armies and Civil Populations—America's Promise Given to Nations Battling for Liberty.

The following statement by Mr. Hoover outlines the food conservation program recommended for the American people during the coming year:

There is no prospect of a proper ending of the war before the campaign of the summer of 1919. To attain victory we must place in France three and a half million fighting men with the greatest mechanical equipment that has ever been given to any army. While we expect the position on the western front may be improved, from a military point of view, between now and then, there can be no hope of a consummation of the end that we must secure until another year has gone by.

If we are to accomplish this end in 1919, we will save a million American lives that will be expended if we have to continue until 1920. To give this final blow in 1919 we have not only to find the men, shipping, and equipment for this gigantic army, but this army, the allied armies and the allied civil population must have ample food in the meantime if we are to maintain their strength. We can do all these things, and I believe we can bring this dreadful business to an end if every man, woman, and child in the United States tests every action every day and hour by the one touchstone—does this or that contribute to winning the war?

The food program is no small part of this issue. To provide ships for our Army, we have not only to build all that we can, but we must have the help of allied shipping. In order that the allies may provide this, they must take food ships from the more distant markets and place them upon the shorter run to the United States. We must decrease our imports of sugar, coffee, and tropical fruits.

Table of Requirements.

Under these conditions, the demand upon us is for larger supplies. The conferences on food supply and shipping we have held in Europe enable us to estimate our burden. Compared with previous years, the allied civilians and armies, our own armies, the Belgian Relief and certain neutrals who are dependent on us require the following round amounts from us:

	Average 3-year prewar shipments.	Shipped year ending July 1, 1918.	Must ship year ending July 1, 1919.	Increase this year over last year.
	Tons.	Tons.	Tons.	Tons.
Meats and fats (beef, pork, dairy, poultry and vegetable oil products)	645,000	1,550,000	2,600,000	1,050,000
Breadstuffs (wheat and substitutes in terms of grain)	3,320,000	6,800,000	10,400,000	3,600,000
Sugar (from United States and West Indies)	618,000	1,520,000	1,850,000	330,000
Feed grains (mostly Army oats)	950,000	1,950,000	2,700,000	750,000
Total	5,533,000	11,820,000	17,550,000	5,730,000

Further Self-Denial by Allies.

Even this program means further self-denial of the allies next year. They are making this sacrifice in the common cause. We must maintain the health and strength of every human being among them or they will be unable to put their ful strength alongside our own in the supreme effort. At the President's direction, I have assured them that "in this common cause we eat at a common table," and upon entering these conferences in Europe we promised them that whatever their war-food program called for from us we should fulfill.

If we survey our ability to meet this definite promise to them we find that while our wheat production this year is better than last year, our production of other cereals is less. We have had severe losses through drought in many sections. On balance our resources are no greater than last year. We find, however, that we can give this increase in food supplies of 5,730,000 tons over last year and still have a margin over the amount necessary to maintain our own health and strength.

Fill the Allies' Ships.

At best the allied table will be less than ours, for the allied peoples are denying themselves more in order to transport our soldiers. We can do no less than fill the ships they send us.

Of our imports, we shall apparently have sufficient sugar to maintain the present consumption and take care of the extra drain of the allies from our markets, instead of compelling them to send their ships to the Far East. We can secure in sailing vessels the coffee we need if no one makes an overbrew. Of our own products we must secure a reduction in consumption and waste in the two great groups of, first, breadstuffs, and second, meats and fats; that is, in all bread and cereals, beef, pork, poultry, dairy and vegetable-oil products. The average consumption of our people of breadstuffs amounts to about 6 pounds per week and of meats and fats to 4 pounds a week for each person. A reduction in consumption of less than one-half pound per week per person in each of these two great groups of foods would accomplish our purpose. We wish to emphasize, however, that we do not want curtailment in the use of milk for children.

Economy in the Homes.

Some of our homes, by reason of limited incomes, can not now provide more food than they should have to maintain health in the family. They can not rightfully be asked to make the suggested reduction in consumption. But the great majority of our homes can do more than suggested.

We need even greater simplicity of living than last year amongst all that section of the community to whom foodstuffs are a secondary item in expenditure.

We estimate that nearly 9,000,000 people eat at our public eating places—hotels, restaurants, boarding houses, clubs, dining cars, and so forth. The food consumption in these places is larger than in the average homes. We are asking the proprietors and employees of these institutions to undertake in many particulars a more strict program than last year, and we are confident that they will willingly do this.

Appeal to the Intelligence.

This is not rationing—a thing we will never have if our people continue to support us as in the past. We are simply making an appeal to the intelligence in the homes and public eating places of America to work out for themselves the means and manner of saving.

This year, as last, I believe we can accomplish the necessary ends by voluntary action of our own people. The willingness to assume individual responsibility in this matter by the vast majority is one of the greatest proofs of the character and idealism of our people, and I feel it can be constantly relied upon. Our simple formula for this year is to further reduce consumption and waste of all food. We have so arranged the international food program that, except for a moderate substitution of other cereals in bread, it will not, we hope, be necessary to substitute one foodstuff for another nor to resort to wheatless and meatless days. What we need is to reduce directly our consumption of all foodstuffs, laying especial emphasis on the staples. The allies are in need of all the surplus of the great staples that we can provide.

It is necessary that every family in the United States study its food budget and food ways to see if it can not buy less, serve less, return nothing to the kitchen, and practice the gospel of the clean plate.

GAP IN ALASKA ROAD CLOSED.

Secretary of the Interior Lane has been advised by Chairman Edes, of the Alaskan Engineering Commission that the part of the Government railroad in Alaska between Anchorage and Seward has been completed. This makes possible the shipment of coal from the Matanuska mines directly to Seward, a distance of 190 miles.

Bonds Buy Food For Soldiers. Buy Liberty Bonds.

MAY USE AUTOS ON SUNDAYS TO PROMOTE LIBERTY LOAN

The use of automobiles on Sunday for promoting the Liberty loan campaign, which begins on September 28, is regarded by the United States Fuel Administration as entirely within the spirit of the Sunday saving of gasoline request, according to a statement issued by Fuel Administrator Garfield.

It has been called to the attention of the United States Fuel Administration that there is considerable doubt in the minds of motorists as to the justification for using automobiles on Sunday, September 29, for the purpose of attending Liberty loan meetings or canvassing for the Liberty loan.

National Importance Realized.

The Fuel Administration realizes that there is nothing of greater national importance than the success of this loan, and there is nothing either in the letter or the spirit of the "Gasolineless Sunday" request which interferes in any way with the use of automobiles on Sunday to promote the success of the loan.

The intention of the request is that all motor pleasure riding be eliminated, but that the necessary use of the automobile be not interfered with. Certainly there can be no more necessary use of the automobile than to aid in the Liberty loan campaign.

Should Save During Week.

So the use of automobiles to drive considerable distances to church on Sundays or to enable workers to reach their war gardens, where other methods of transportation are not available, is in no sense a violation of the request. It is hoped that those who do make these necessary uses of automobiles on Sunday make an effort to save sufficient gasoline during the week days to offset that use, and, even if no gasoline is used on Sunday, an effort should be made to be as saving in its use as possible during week days.

It has been suggested that in cases where motorists are using their cars to promote the loan that such cars be identified by placard or posters as being on Liberty loan business. This will not only prevent a public misconception of the errand but will enhance the progress of the campaign by advertising it.

Industries Board Loan To Lorain Electric Co.

B. M. Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board, authorizes the following:

In order to help out the situation in the Lorain, Ohio, industrial district, where the present power is inadequate for the Government and other work placed there, the War Industries Board has decided that aid shall be extended the Lorain County Electric Co. in the construction of its power plants now under way.

To carry through the plans of the company the Government will make a loan of about $400,000 and will share with the company the war wastage. Officials of the company have shown complete willingness to agree with the Government officials as to conditions imposed in connection with Government aid.

There is much important War Department and Emergency Fleet Corporation war work under construction at Lorain, Ohio, and the Lorain County Electric Co. was building to meet the increased demands. Higher costs of material and labor upset the company's plans.

CONTROL OF ALL TIN STOCKS BY WAR INDUSTRIES BOARD

B. M. Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board, authorizes the following:

The War Industries Board is to take control of the domestic pig-tin situation under a license system. The following announcement to consumers of and dealers in pig tin is made by T. C. Cranwell, acting chief of the tin section of the board:

"All users and dealers in pig tin will be licensed, and a complete inventory of stocks on hand and contracts unfilled will be made, and, if necessary, supplies will be redistributed to equalize same according to essential uses. Full details of licensing plan will be announced later."

Questionnaires Being Sent.

In accordance with this decision of the War Industries Board questionnaires are being sent out to the 2,000-odd individuals and plants affected, calling for the information, under oath, demanded by the inventory. On the facts to be thus gathered as to the actual supply of pig-tin stocks and the unfilled contracts and the manner and quantities in which the pig tin is being held, the War Industries Board will decide whether essential uses demand an equalization of such stocks through redistribution and a matching up among the plants.

The tin section has been informed there is considerable uneasiness in the trade as to control by the War Industries Board of the pig-tin situation, and it is the belief of Mr. Cranwell that announcement of positive plans of control will prove beneficial. He says that the control plan will affect only the users and dealers in pig tin, and that the public, which uses tin plate, will be benefited by the licensing system of control.

London Pooling Plan.

This action by the War Industries Board was forecast when announcement was made by B. M. Baruch, chairman of the board, that an interallied pig-tin pool had been arranged in conferences held in London between the L. I. Summers Commission, representing the War Industries Board, and representatives of Great Britain and other allied nations. Under this pool, which is in the nature of a beneficent monopoly, the world's supply of pig tin is allocated, and distribution is made among the allied countries according to the supply and their needs. The United States will get about 80,000 tons of pig tin, or approximately two-thirds of the world production. The War Industries Board will supervise the allowance to this country. All imports of pig tin, tin ores, and concentrates will be consigned to the American Iron and Steel Institute and will be distributed to the licensees through the United States Steel Products Co. Prices will be regulated by the War Industries Board and will be uniform and at a level that will encourage production in the tin-mining countries, which are chiefly Great Britain and the Straits Settlements.

MOLASSES PACKERS WILL USE ONLY LARGE CANS TO SAVE TIN

Manufacturers of sirup and molasses have promised to do everything in their power to assist in the conservation of tin. Their product, until the need for conservation passes, will be packed in only three standard sized cans, they promised at a conference Thursday with the United States Food Administration. All small and odd sizes will be discontinued, only 2½, 5, and 10 pound containers being used.

Saving in Larger Cans.

Packing in small cans calls for needless consumption of steel, tin plate, labor and transportation facilities. A 1-pound can, for instance, represents a saving in tin of about 20 per cent over four 4-ounce cans. In addition, the expense of filling and handling the smaller container is practically equal to that of the larger one, which has the added advantage of requiring less shipping space for equal bulk of contents.

The manufacturers will, of course, be allowed to use containers now on hand before adopting the new schedule.

Present at Conference.

Those who attended the conference were:

DEFERRED CLASS FOR WORKERS IN HIGHWAY TRANSPORTATION OF NECESSARY COMMODITIES

The War Department authorizes the following from the office of the Provost Marshal General:

Concerns engaged in the transportation within cities and along the public highways elsewhere of necessary commodities may claim deferred classification for their necessary employees under the provisions of the recent act of Congress referring to "persons engaged in industries, occupations, or employments, including agriculture, found to be necessary to the maintenance of the Military Establishment, or the effective operation of the military forces, or the maintenance of national interest during the emergency."

In such cases, as in all others where claim for deferred classification is made on this ground, evidence must be submitted to the district board to show (1) that the particular concern making the claim is "necessary to the maintenance of the Military Establishment, or the effective operation of the military forces, or the maintenance of national interest during the emergency"; and (2) that the individual for whom the claim is made is a necessary employee of that concern.

STOP PACKING OF SPAGHETTI IN CANS AFTER OCTOBER 15

Packing of spaghetti and macaroni in cans will be discontinued after October 15. This action, in the form of a unanimous resolution, was taken by a committee representing practically every large American canner of alimentary pastes, in conference with the United States Food Administration. The manufacturers declared that they were willing to take any measures that might be suggested by the Food Administration for the conservation of tin.

Willing to Shut Down.

"We shut down upon recommendation about 4 months last year," the representatives of one company declared, "and if the Food Administration says the word, we will shut down to-day."

In order to allow the manufacturers to make use of the tins already in stock, and which are not suited for other purposes, it was finally decided that packing should be continued until present stocks of cans are exhausted, with October 15 as a limit.

Those at the Meeting.

The following representatives attended the conference: L. S. Dow, of Heinz Co., Pittsburgh; Frank L. Zerega, of A. Zerega's Sons Consolidated, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Thomas H. Toomey, Vineland Preserving Co., New York City; John Nevin, The Van Camp Packing Co., Indianapolis, Ind.; Edward McDougall, Libby, McNeill & Libby, Chicago, Ill.; Mr. Kerr, Wagner Co., Baltimore, Md.

Rules For Conservation of Material In the Manufacture of Straw Hats

B. M. Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board, authorizes the following:

With the announcement that it is the intention of the Government to curtail the output of straw hats to the point where the production will meet only the essential needs of the civilian population, the conservation division of the War Industries Board has prepared a conservation program for the manufacturers of men's straw and body hats restricting styles, height, width of brim, and trimmings.

The industry is asked to consider the program in the light of war conditions, and cooperation is urged as of assistance in the entire industrial reorganization made necessary by the requirements of the war program. Adoption of the plan will tend to stabilize the industry, it is believed, by reducing stocks and releasing capital, and by reducing the quantity of labor so the industry will be better able to maintain the framework of its organization after meeting the drafts for military service and for industries essential to the successful prosecution of the war.

Based on recommendation now submitted, a final program will be issued soon by the conservation division. It is understood, however, that materials not in accordance with these recommendations may be used now, but no orders should be placed hereafter for materials that do not come within the recommendations.

Text of Recommendations.

Following are the recommendations:

(1) No new blocks to be introduced in yacht, soft braid, body hats, or any other variety. This means that no designs are to be used by a manufacturer except designs used by that manufacturer in the selling seasons of 1917 and 1918.

(2) Dimensions:

	Inches.
Yacht hats:
Maximum height crown	3⅜
Minimum height crown	3¼
Maximum width brim	2⅝
Minimum width brim	2⅜
Soft braid hats (except harvest hats for farmers):
Maximum height crown	4
Minimum height crown	3¼
Maximum width brim	2¾
Minimum width brim	2¼
Alpine hats:
Maximum height crown (measured on the side)	5
Maximum width brim (measured flat)	2¾
Minimum width brim (measured flat)	2¼

Width of Bands.

(3) Band not to exceed 22 lignes in width. Length of band not to exceed 39 inches for a 7⅛ hat, this length to include the material used in the bow. Colors of bands to be restricted to black, tan, brown, blue, and green.

(4) Leathers in hats not to be jiggered or laced. Maximum width to be 1⅛ unturned.

(5) No elastics, cords, or buttons to be used and no eyelets except in harvest hats for farmers.

(6) For tips for braid hats and for Javas, Porto Ricans, and Manilas, no material other than lace or net to be used for the sides. Satin, silk, or wood silk used for these tips to be restricted to strips of not more than 42 lignes in width. No tips or linings to be used in any variety of hat other than those mentioned above.

(7) Six hats to be packed in a carton. (This does not mean that not more than one style may be packed in a carton.) In order that stocks in the hands of the hat manufacturers and paper manufacturers be fully utilized, no one special color or design of covering paper should be insisted upon by any manufacturer. It is suggested that wherever possible uncovered chip-board boxes be used. If a covering paper is used it should be unbleached.

(8) Salesmen to carry not more than one trunk to a line. (Braid hats and body hats are to be considered as separate lines.)

(9) Sales of ticket hats to be discontinued.

COMMITTEES NAMED TO ADVISE ON ENEMY INSURANCE AFFAIRS

A. Mitchell Palmer, Alien Property Custodian, has announced the appointment of two advisory committees for matters appertaining to the liquidation or sale of enemy insurance companies and other appropriate subjects arising in the division of insurance, the functions of these committees to be similar to that of the present advisory sales committee in connection with industrial enterprises which have been taken over by the Alien Property Custodian.

Mr. Palmer states that during the past ten months, since the foreign insurance companies were licensed under the provisions of the trading-with-the-enemy act, to liquidate their business and affairs in the United States, his office has been actively engaged, not merely with the supervision of the details of such liquidations but, more especially with plans for the final disposal of the corpus of each of the foreign insurance concerns involved, and the time is closely approaching when final steps must be taken. The advice and counsel of these committees will guide the action of the Alien Property Custodian's office in these matters.

Personnel of Committees.

The committee for Fire and Marine Insurance matters will comprise the following eminent authorities on such lines of business:

Jesse S. Phillips, Superintendent of Insurance of the State of New York; R. M. Bissell, President, Hartford Fire Insurance Co.; Benjamin Rush, President, Insurance Company of North America; Otho E. Lane, President, Niagara Insurance Company, and Allan McCulloh, of Alexander & Green.

The Committee for Life Insurance matters will comprise:

Thomas A. Buckner, Vice President, New York Life; Frederick H. Ecker, Treasurer, Metropolitan Life, and Lincoln K. Passmore, First Vice President, Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co.

All are recognized authorities in the life insurance community.

BELGIAN RELIEF COMMISSION FOOD AND CLOTHING PROGRAM ANNOUNCED FOR COMING YEAR

TEN MILLION PERSONS TO BE FED

Shipping Plans Arranged to Carry Staple Supplies to People in Territory Occupied by Germans—Cost About $280,000,000.

The Commission for Relief in Belgium issues the following:

Mr. Hoover stated to-day (Sept. 23) that the following program for the next 12 months had been arranged for the relief of the 10,000,000 Belgians and French people now within territory occupied by the Germans. In addition to the fleet of vessels controlled by the relief commission, the United States and allied Governments are placing at the disposal of the relief commission 200,000 tons of shipping recently secured from the Swedish Government for nonwar zone purposes.

Program for Twelve Months.

With this shipping capacity, together with some minor additions to be effected by the relief commission, the following amounts of foodstuffs are to be provided during the next 12 months:

Wheat, barley, rye, and corn for bread purposes_____bushels__	42, 500, 000
Beans_____do____	2, 200, 000
Rice_____do____	3, 200, 000
Corned beef_____pounds__	26, 400, 000
Pork products_____do____	277, 200, 000
Soap_____do____	66, 000, 000
Coffee_____do____	26, 000, 000
For the children:
Cocoa_____do____	18, 000, 000
Condensed milk_____do____	55, 000, 000
Sugar_____do____	40, 000, 000

This amount of food, together with the native produce, gives an average ration amounting to about 2,000 calories—about one-half the consumption of the American people.

To Cost $280,000,000.

This program is estimated to cost during the 12 months, for purchase and transportation, approximately $280,000,000. The finance has been arranged on the basis of advances to be made by loans from the United States to the Belgian and French Governments in amounts sufficient to pay for the material purchased in the United States. The British and French Governments are advancing in Europe the sums necessary to meet the expenditures made there for shipping and for foodstuffs coming from quarters other than the United States.

The administration of the relief work during the coming year will be, as heretofore, carried out under the guidance of the Commission for Relief in Belgium. The foodstuffs in the United States are

REIGN OF TERROR CONTINUES, RUSSIAN REFUGEES REPORT

State Department Informed of Wholesale Executions Going on Without Trials.

The Department of State is in receipt of further information concerning conditions in Russia.

All persons coming out of Russia report the existence of appalling conditions. Slaughter of representative people and former officers is taking place. These are shot without trial, and the only charge offered is that of being "dangerous to the Soviet." One detail is that officers are shot at night in the cellars, guns being muffled with silencers.

The report states that one Peters, head of the extraordinary commission against counter-revolutions, signs death warrants without reading the papers.

The latest reports indicate that the British and French consuls-general in Moscow are under arrest in their houses. Mr. Poole, the American Consul General, is at large and permitted to visit his colleagues. Mr. Poole is being generally praised for his courageous and vigorous action.

AMERICAN STEAM TRAWLER IS CAPTURED BY SUBMARINE

Crew Landed Off Halifax Heard Explosions But Did Not See Their Ship Sunk.

The Navy Department is in receipt of a report that the American steam trawler Kingfisher, reported torpedoed off Halifax, was captured by an enemy submarine at 9 a. m. September 20.

The crew, who were landed at Quoddy, Nova Scotia, did not see their ship sunk, but heard three explosions after they were out of sight of the vessel. They reported the submarine had a straight bow, carried two 6-inch guns and four smaller guns, shipped on the bridge as well as the conning tower.

Will Issue Gas Masks to Troops Before Embarking

Publication of the following circular from the office of The Adjutant General is authorized by the War Department:

Gas masks will be issued to all combatant troops, including total personnel of division, prior to embarkation. Issue will be made at embarkation camps, and masks must not have been used in training. Troops will be directed to exercise greatest care in handling them to prevent damage during voyage.

SITUATION IS OUTLINED

War Industries Board Issues Statement Indicating Scope, Powers and Duties—Thomas W. Page of the Tariff Commission, Chairman—Resolution Is Adopted for Allotments to All Domestic and Foreign Consumers as to Quantity and Grade.

The War Industries Board in behalf of the Cotton and Cotton Distribution Committees, selected by the War Industries Board and approved by the President, authorizes the following:

On September 14 the President issued a statement in connection with the present cotton situation to the effect that a committee would be appointed to devise methods for (a) broadening the channels of distribution and use of the great stock of low grades now practically unmarketable, (b) eliminating speculation and hoarding and (c) apportioning the foreign orders; and that it might be a part of this committee's duty to recommend basic prices on cotton, and that if, after investigation, it be found necessary a fair price would be fixed.

Members of Committee.

With the approval of the President, the following have been appointed members of this committee, which has been designated the cotton committee: Thomas W. Page, vice chairman, United States Tariff Commission, Washington, D. C., chairman; from 1906 to date, professor of economics, University of Virginia; member of the United States Tariff Board, 1911 and 1912; at present member of the Tariff Commission. W. R. 1. All officers in the Army below the grade of brigadier general on active duty and serving within the continental limits of the United States will hereafter be rerated according to the rating scale every three months, beginning October 15, 1918. Ratings will be recorded on the Quarterly Rating Report sheet (Form CCP–1105). After the "ratings," "reratings," and "items since last report" are recorded on the original Officer's Qualification Card on file at unit headquarters, the Quarterly Rating Report will within 10 days of the date specified for that quarterly rating be forwarded by the division, department, district, post, camp, or other station commander directly to The Adjutant General of the Army, except in the case of staff corps and departments, whose reports will be forwarded to the Chief of Staff Corps or department concerned.

2. All officers who have not been rated and all officers immediately upon being commissioned shall be rated in accordance with General Orders No. 46, War Department, 1918, and the duplicate qualification cards dispatched as therein specified.

3. Whenever the average of a rating and revised rating of any officer falls below 45 points, the rating will be reviewed by the personnel board appointed under the provisions of paragraph 2, General Orders, No. 78, War Department, 1918. If the rating in question is verified by this board as falling below 45, the commanding officer will recommend to The Adjutant General of the Army that the officer in question be either placed upon probation until next regular rating; or transferred; or discharged from the service. Any officer placed upon probation or transferred because of low ratings, the average of whose rating and revision at any subsequent time is less than 45 points, will be recommended for discharge from the Army.

4. In the execution of General Orders No. 78, War Department, 1918, commanding officers will be guided by the following instructions:

OPPOSES COERCIVE METHODS IN ENROLLMENT OF PHYSICIANS

Statement by Medical Section, Council of Defense, as to Recruiting for Volunteer Service Corps.

The medical section of the Council of National Defense issues the following:

No official or committeeman representing the Volunteer Medical Service Corps or the General Medical Board of the Council of National Defense is now authorized or has been authorized to favor any organized or unorganized method of coercion in inducing members of the medical profession to join the Medical Corps of the Army or Navy or the Volunteer Medical Service Corps. Our committeemen are especially urged against favoring any movement that would threaten to impair a medical man's standing in his local, State, or national society because he refused to enroll in the Army or Navy or the Volunteer Medical Service Corps.

It must be made clear that the Volunteer Medical Service Corps is a volunteer organization, which has for its object the enrollment and classification of the profession. Its members are entitled to wear an insignia which will clearly indicate that they have offered their services to the Government when such services are needed. Patriotism can not be created by coercion. It also must be made clear that the Volunteer Medical Service Corps has for its primary object furnishing its classification to the Army, the Navy, the Public Health Service, the Red Cross, and Provost Marshal, as well as to civilian institutions and communities, as a guide in providing for their needs to the best advantage.

The object of the corps is not to disturb any medical man in the performance of any duty to which he has been assigned by any governmental agency either for service at the front or at home.

EDWARD P. DAVIS,
President Volunteer Medical Service Corps.

FRANKLIN MARTIN,
Chairman General Medical Board, Council of National Defense.

IRON AND STEEL PRICES TO BE CONTINUED FOR THREE MONTHS

President Approves Agreement Made by Price-Fixing Committee with Interests Concerned.

The President has approved the agreement made by the price-fixing committee of the War Industries Board with the representatives of the iron ore, pig iron, and steel interests that the maximum prices now prevailing on iron ore, pig iron, and iron and steel products be continued in effect for the three months ending December 31, 1918, with the following exceptions:

1. Lake Superior iron ore.—Base prices of Lake Superior iron ore delivered to lower lake ports are increased 25 cents per gross ton on and after October 1, 1918, subject to the following condition: These increased prices are based on the rail freight rates now in effect and on the present lake rates, and in the event of any increase or decrease in either rail or lake rates said prices shall be increased or decreased accordingly on all deliveries made during the continuance of such increased or decreased freight rates.

2. Pig iron.—The base price on basic iron is increased to $33 f. o. b. furnace. The base price on No. 2 foundry iron is increased to $34 f. o. b. furnace. The price of standard Bessemer iron is fixed at $35.20 f. o. b. furnace. The above prices are subject to the following changes from previous practice as regards delivery:

(a) Pig iron produced in the Virginia, Tennessee, and Birmingham districts and scattering districts south of the Ohio and Potomac Rivers, including furnaces at St. Louis, Mo., but not including furnaces bordering on the Ohio River, shall be sold on an f. o. b. Birmingham, Ala., basis.

(b) Pig iron produced in the Eastern district, i. e., from all blast furnaces located east of the Allegheny Mountains and north of the Potomac River, shall be sold on an f. o. b. Pittsburgh basis.

(c) Pig iron from all other producing districts or furnaces shall be sold f. o. b. furnaces as heretofore.

No new contracts calling for delivery of any of the above commodities or articles on or after January 1, 1919, are to specify a price unless coupled with a clause making the price subject to revision by any authorized United States Government agency, so that all deliveries after that date shall not exceed the maximum price then in force, although ordered or contracted for in the meantime. It is expected that all manufacturers and producers will observe the maximum prices now fixed.

U. S. to Ship 409,320,000 Bushels Of Breadstuffs to Allies Next Year

The United States Food Administration issues the following:

Under the agreement entered into by the Food Administration with the food controllers of the Allied Nations, our breadstuffs export program for the coming year will be: wheat, rye, barley, and corn, or flours calculated as grain for breadstuffs, 409,320,000 bushels, of which from 100,000,000 to 165,000,000 bushels may be cereals other than wheat.

U. S. CARGO SHIP BUENAVENTURA SUNK BY U-BOAT; 21 MISSING

Secretary Daniels authorizes the following:

The Navy Department has received a report that the U. S. S. Buenaventura, an army cargo ship of 4,876 tons, has been torpedoed and sunk off the coast of Spain. Six officers and 39 men are reported to have been landed at Brest by a French destroyer and 2 officers and 27 men have been landed at Corona, Spain. Latest figures available place the total number on board the Buenaventura at 95, which leaves 21 still unaccounted for.

The attack was made at 8.25 p. m. September 20, and two torpedoes struck the vessel, which sank in 6 minutes. Nothing was seen of the submarine before the attack, but it emerged after the ship sank. It is described as about 350 feet long and as having 2 guns.

BELGIAN RELIEF COMMISSION FOOD AND CLOTHING PROGRAM

being purchased by the United States Food Administration in behalf of the relief commission. The following is the chief personnel of the commission: Herbert Hoover, chairman; W. L. Honnold, director in the United States; W. B. Poland, director in Europe; P. N. Gray, director of transportation; Walter L. Brown, director in Holland; Louis Chevrillon, director in France.

How Food is Distributed.

Foodstuffs are delivered through the commission up to the Belgian frontier, where the distribution and rationing is taken charge of by Belgian and French organizations, which were organized by the Americans in the early stages of the war.

The security of both imported and native food production from German requisition is guaranteed by the Dutch and Spanish Governments, who maintain agents in the occupied area to see that the production and distribution are not interfered with by the German Army.

The Belgian and French population in the occupied territory are in desperate need of clothing, as they have now been four years without the import of any textiles and there is, of course, no local production. The relief commission has from year to year been supplying large quantities of second-hand clothing and cloth, from which the deficients in the population have been supplied as well as could be.

Second-Hand Clothing Needed.

The difficulties in securing newly fabricated cloth, owing to the shortage of wool and the necessities of the armies, compels the commission to rely practically altogether upon second-hand clothing. Some 20,000 tons of this material are needed during the next 12 months. Through the kind offices of the American Red Cross over 5,000 tons have already been collected and further collections are going on. The commission hopes that the American people will continue to support the Red Cross in supplying this great human need.

CHEESE ADDED TO EXPORT LIST.

The War Trade Board announces, in a new ruling (W. T. B. R. 242), that cheese has been added to the Export Conservation List, effective September 24, 1918.

MARINE CORPS ENROLLMENTS UNDER NEW SPECIAL SYSTEM

The Navy Department authorizes the following:

Men are to be received into the Marine Corps under a special system beginning October 1. According to a plan agreed upon by Provost Marshal Crowder, the General Staff and officers of the Marine Corps, 5,000 men a month will be allotted the corps from the registration lists, for four months, following which an allotment of 1,500 a month will be allowed. The system to be followed will be this:

Marine Corps recruiting offices will be kept open for the examination of applicants who must fulfill all the physical and mental requirements of the Marine Corps. Examinations will be made by Marine Corps recruiting officers and naval medical officers.

In case of the acceptance of an applicant for the corps, the recruiting officer will send a request to the Provost Marshal General for this men's enrollment into the Marine Corps. The Provost Marshal General will then order the local board having jurisdiction to enroll him into the Marine Corps. The recruiting officer will administer to the applicant the regular oath for enlistment into the Marine Corps, and transfer him to a recruit depot for training.

All men supplied in this manner will be classed as enlisted men in the Marine Corps—with the exception that men for special limited service and for aviation duties will be enrolled in the Marine Corps Reserve.

Two of his party were killed, but the staunch defense of the others drove off the raiders. He personally killed three of the enemy in hand-to-hand fighting."

Private PASQUALE DIGIACOMO, Infantry. "For extraordinary heroism in action east of Baccarat, France, August 15, 1918. He was one of four men who successfully held a small advanced post against a raid by 80 of the enemy. Two of the defenders were killed, but the staunch work of the others drove off the raiders. He engaged in a hand-to-hand encounter with the assailants with hand grenades and his rifle."

Corpl. JEAN BAPTISTE CARRERE, Infantry, French Army. "For extraordinary heroism in action near Ammertzmiller, Alsace, July 1, 1918, while serving under the command of an American divisional commander. When the advanced posts were ordered to withdraw and join the combat groups in anticipation of a raid, Corpl. Carrere and the four men of his squad were cut off by the enemy barrage. This little group made a stand and by the use of an automatic rifle and grenades repulsed the attack made on them by two parties of Germans, each party estimated to be between 15 and 20 men. Corpl. Carrere displayed splendid courage and initiative, especially in exploring the surrounding terrain. Although completely isolated, he and his men continued the resistance against the enemy until they finally drove them back. To him and to his four men, to whom he knew how to communicate his spirit, is due the credit for the failure of the raid, although it was supported by heavy artillery and executed in force."

Capt. PIERRE H. HENDRICK, French Army, attached to ——— Brigade, ——— Division, American Expeditionary Forces. "For extraordinary heroism in action at Courmellen Ferme and at Berzy-Le-Sec, south of Sissons, France, July 20–21, 1918. He gallantly crossed a zone under heavy fire to verify liaison with adjoining French troops and during the attack on Berzy-Le-Sec showed extraordinary heroism by his fearless exposure under heavy machine and artillery fire."

The emergency addresses of the foregoing are:

Corpl. George Hadnett, 145th Infantry, Company F. Ellen Hadnett, mother, 251 Wayne Avenue, Youngstown, Ohio.

Pvt. Pasquale Digiacomo, 325th Infantry, Company C. Mrs. Marie DiGiacomo, Mother, 21 Cleveland Place, New York, N. Y.

Corpl. Jean J. Carrere, 363d Infantry, Company L. Mrs. May Hazel Carrere, wife, 1618 Shafter Avenue, San Francisco, Cal.

HEADQUARTERS, AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCES.
September 23, 1918.

Section B.—The Commander in Chief has awarded the Distintinguished Service Cross to the following noncommissioned officer for the act of extraordinary heroism set forth after his name:

Sergt. JOHN B. GARNER, Infantry. "For extraordinary heroism in action north of Clemery, in Lorraine, France, on the night of 16–17 August, 1918. Although wounded in the face and hand, he went 50 meters up a road in the face of fire from two German machine guns and of exploding grenades to rescue a lieutenant who lay 100 meters within the German wire, so severely wounded as to be unable to move without assistance. Sergt. Garner put the officer on his back, crawled through the enemy's wire, and from there carried him 500 meters across open ground, under fire, to safety."

Lieut. A. F. BONNALIE, an American attached to the Royal Air Force, has been awarded the British Distinguished Service Order. On August 13, this officer led two other machines on a long photographic reconnaissance. In spite of the presence of numerous enemy aircraft they were able to take all the photographs required, but were attacked by six Fokker biplanes.

During the combat Lieut. Bonnalie saw that one of his accompanying machines was in difficulty and that an enemy airplane was nearly on its tail. He at once broke off combat with the enemy with whom he was engaged and dived to the assistance of the machine in trouble. He drove off the enemy plane, regardless of the bullets which were ripping up his own machine.

Eventually, however, his tail planes and his elevator wires were shot away and his machine began to fall in side-dash slips. Lieut. Bonnalie managed to keep his machine

PROCEEDINGS OF THE CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES BRIEFLY TOLD

SENATE.

Following a discussion that continued throughout much of yesterday afternoon the Senate sent the water-power bill to conference by a vote of 42 to 9. Senator Cummins, of Iowa, chief opponent of this action, took the ground that as the House had substituted for the Senate bill what practically was an entirely new measure, it should be first referred to the proper committee for investigation and report. Three members each of the Committees on Commerce and Public Lands will be designated as conferees. A motion to accept the House bill was rejected by a vote of 48 to 2. Owing to the marked differences of opinion regarding what should be the national policy on this question, Senators participating in the debate contended that it would be many weeks before differences so radical could be reconciled, and that perhaps the question could not be settled without another vote in the Senate.

Senator Thomas, Democrat, of Colorado, member of the Finance Committee, which is now considering the war-revenue bill, addressed the Senate at length in opposition to some of the features of the measure. "This bill," he said, "is obnoxious to the Constitution in not less than three important particulars. They are the proposed taxation on presidential and judicial salaries, of State and municipal securities and salaries, and the alternative method of assessing and levying taxes by the war-profits method or the excess-profits method, which would clothe the Government with authority, as stated in the bill, to resort to 'which of the two methods will yield the highest amount of taxes.' It may be that the constitutional principle of uniformity in taxation is seriously jeopardized by the restriction of these taxes to corporations only."

Senator Jones, of New Mexico, chairman of the Suffrage Committee, announced that he would ask for a vote on the pending resolution for a suffrage constitutional amendment on Thursday next. This statement was made to meet reports that a postponement was in view. "I desire to state," said the Senator, "that so far as I know the bill will be reached that day. There is no plan of which I have any knowledge, to postpone the consideration of that measure, and from all the information I can gather, I know of no obstacle which will prevent its consideration at that time."

Accepts French Vases.

The Senate this afternoon officially accepted from the French Government two beautiful vases made at the national factory at Sevres, presented to that body by the French Government as an expression of its appreciation of the reception tendered the French Mission on the occasion of its visit to Washington shortly after the United States entered the war. Ambassador Jusserand made the presentation speech and Vice President Marshall replied on behalf of the Senate. The vases which stand 6 feet high on bronze bases, were displayed in the chamber.

The Judiciary Committee yesterday designated a subcommittee consisting of Senator Overman, chairman, and Senators King, Wolcott, Sterling and Nelson to investigate the alleged political and propaganda activities of brewers, and particularly the purchase of a newspaper with funds supplied by brewing interests. The subcommittee will meet later this week to map out a program of action.

Believing that the Emergency Fleet Corporation and the Provost Marshal General are taking the steps necessary to cope with individuals not doing a fair day's work where employed by the Government, Chairman Fletcher announced yesterday that the Commerce Committee has decided that no further investigation was planned at this time of so-called "labor slacking" in Government shipyards.

Conservation was applied to the Congressional Record yesterday. Senator Smoot, speaking for the Printing Committee, stated to the Senate that the daily Congressional Record and the daily calendar of the Senate hereafter would be printed on ordinary news-print paper instead of heavily calendared paper, as in the past. This will result in a daily saving of between $2,000 and $3,000 a day.

Agreement on Bond Bill.

After several days of discussion the conferees on the bond bill, designed to stimulate the sale of Liberty bonds, reached a final agreement yesterday. Their compromise was promptly reported to both Houses and adopted and the bill sent to the President before the close of the day. The bond bill exempts from the provisions of the income-surtax tax and war excess-profits taxes the interest on such bonds held either by individuals or corporations in amounts not to exceed $30,000 of the fourth Liberty loan issue and $5,000 of the first, second, and third issues. The bill also authorizes an increase in the issue of war savings stamps from $2,000,000,000, authorized under existing law, to $4,000,000,000. The Senate would not agree to the House provision giving the President authority to regulate or prohibit any and all transactions in Government securities. The compromise on the section authorizing the President in his discretion to prohibit all transactions in Liberty bonds was so amended that there will be no prohibition against the sale of Liberty bonds by the holders for cash or offered as collateral for loans. All improper use of the bonds, however, are provided against, and the Treasury will be given full power to put an end to the practice of exchanging these bonds for merchandise and their use in ways that manifestly would tend to reduce their value as an investment.

HOUSE.

After protracted debate the House late last evening adopted the Senate war-time prohibition amendment to the food stimulation bill by a vote of 134 to 27. The measure was then sent to conference by a vote of 171 to 34, where the differences on items of appropriation will be threshed out. The Agricultural Committee favorably reported an amendment urged by the State Department, under which the importation of wines would be permitted until May 1 next. This amendment was approved in Committee of the Whole, but later, when the measure reached the House proper this action was reversed and all imported wines except those in transit on a specific date, will be prohibited on and after [illegible] act.

The bill as finally passed prohibits the manufacture and sale of all intoxicating liquors after June 30 next. The manufacture of beer and wine must cease on May 1 next. The amendment recommended by the State Department was the result of protests by the Governments of France, Italy, Spain, and Portugal that the contemplated embargo was in contravention of the treaty rights of those countries. Friends of the wine industry made a determined but ineffectual effort to postpone the date of the prohibition against the sale of wine until December 31, 1919, but an amendment to that effect was rejected—112 to 52. All efforts to amend the Senate provision were defeated by practically the same vote.

Assails "Slackers" in Public Service.

Representative Madden, of Illinois, in a speech again attacked what he charged to be "slackers and slickers" in the public service. He criticized exemptions that, he said, had been claimed for civil employees of draft age and charged that various departments were filled with clerks who were not giving the Government real service.

The House yesterday afternoon took from the hands of the Agricultural Committee and passed a resolution calling upon the Agricultural Department to furnish Congress with copies of reports of the Agricultural Advisory Board and a report by Secretary Houston to the President covering the price of wheat.

A congressional investigation of the National Security League, which has opposed the nomination of a number of Members of the House on grounds of disloyalty, was proposed in a resolution introduced by Representative Frear, of Wisconsin, yesterday afternoon. Mr. Frear charged that the organization named by him was "a group of Wall street profiteers."

In asking Congress for further appropriations for the support of the State Department, Secretary Lansing said that increased duties resulting from war make an additional appropriation of $1,501,000 for the fiscal year 1919 necessary.

Registration Figures From 4 Western States

The War Department authorizes the following statement from the Provost Marshal General:

Complete final returns have been received from the registration September 12 in California and Minnesota. California shows an actual registration of 478,410 as against an estimate of 398,552. Minnesota's actual registration was 286,243, as against an estimate of 296,856.

Comp'ete final figures for the State of Washington show that the actual registration in that State on September 12 was 192,573, as against an estimate of 146,853. This shows the largest excess over estimate thus fas recorded.

Complete final returns from Idaho show that the registration in that State was 58,169, as against the estimate of 55,461.

RESIGNS POST AS ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE

The Department of Agriculture issues the following statement:

Dr. R. A. Pearson has resigned from the position as Assistant Secretary of Agriculture in order that he may resume his duties as president of the Iowa State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts. Dr. Pearson came to Washington at the urgent request of Secretary Houston shortly after the United States entered the war, the college having very generously consented to have him assist the department in the handling of the many emergency problems that had arisen. After an absence from the college of nearly a year and a half, Dr. Pearson felt that it was necessary for him to return to his former position and to give his entire time and attention to the affairs of the college.

Secretary Expresses Gratitude.

Secretary Houston, especially in view of the generous action of the college authorities and of Dr. Pearson's prompt response to the call for service, did not feel that he could consistently ask either the college or Dr. Pearson to make further sacrifices and permit him to remain here longer. The Secretary expressed his gratitude to the Iowa State College for its kindness and consideration in temporarily releasing Dr. Pearson for service in the department and to Dr. Pearson for his loyal, zealous, highly intelligent, and efficient service. He requested Dr. Pearson before actively resuming his former duties to join, as president of the Iowa State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, a small committee of men familiar with food production and agricultural organizations and activities in this country which the department is sending to England, France, and Italy for the purpose of securing general information regarding agricultural problems and conditions in those countries. Dr. Pearson consented to do this and is now in England with the party.

Mr. Christie Named Successor.

The nomination of Mr. G. I. Christie, of Indiana, to succeed Mr. Pearson, has been transmitted to the Senate. In April of this year Mr. Christie came to Washington as Assistant to the Secretary to aid the department in further organizing and developing its farm-labor activities. More recently he has been representing the Secretary in the field in connection with loans from the President's special fund to farmers in Montana, North Dakota, and Washington.

Mr. Christie was graduated from the Ontario Agricultural College, receiving the degree of B. S. A. He also received the degree of B. S. A. from the Iowa Agricultural College. He was assistant in agronomy, Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa, 1903–1905; assistant in soils and crops, 1905–1906; and he has been superintendent of agricultural extension work in Indiana since 1906. He is a member of the National Educational Association, the Indiana Corn Growers' Association, the National Seed Analysts Association, and the Association for the Promotion of Agricultural Teaching. He was superintendent of the Indiana Agricultural Exhibits at the Panama Exposition, and was chairman of the Agricultural Committee of the Indiana Centennial Celebration in 1916.

Cotton Committees Appointed

Farnum Greene, Boston, Mass., a cotton spinner and former president of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers; at present treasurer of the Pacific Mills. J. C. Redmon, St. Mathews, S. C., a cotton grower and member of the State Legislature of South Carolina. M. P. Sturdivant, Glendora, Miss., an active cotton grower on a large scale, and the executive manager of a cottonseed oil mill owned and operated by planters. S. W. Weis, New Orleans, La., a cotton factor and member of the firm of Julius Weis & Co., one of the oldest in the New Orleans cotton trade. D. S. Murph, Department of Agriculture, secretary; specialist in cotton marketing and warehousing in the Bureau of Markets.

Separate Committee Named.

The President further stated that during investigation by the Cotton committee and in order to avoid stagnation a separate committee would be set up with authority to buy cotton for the use of the United States Government and the allies, at prices to be approved by the President. With the approval of the President the following have been appointed members of this committee, which has been designated the Committee on Cotton Distribution: Charles J. Brand, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., chairman. Mr. Brand has been chief of the Bureau of Markets of the Department of Agriculture since its establishment, and as such is in charge of all of the cotton handling and marketing activities of the Government, including the enforcement of the United States cotton futures act. William L. Clayton, Houston, Tex., member of one of the large and well-known cotton firms of the Southwest, Anderson, Clayton & Co., which operates extensively in Oklahoma and Texas; J. Temple Gwathmey, New York City, member of the firm of George H. McFadden & Bro., cotton merchants, engaged in the conduct of a large domestic and foreign business with headquarters at Philadelphia and New York City, and with branches at many points in the United States and at numerous points in foreign countries; Edward H. Inman, Atlanta, Ga. Mr. Inman was formerly a member of the well-known firm of cotton merchants—Inman, Howard & Inman, of Atlanta, but since the declaration of war he has severed his connection with that firm and has been active as a purchasing agent for the United States Government.

Messrs. Clayton, Gwathmey, and Inman are disassociating themselves from their business and will remain so disassociated as long as they continue in the service of the Government as members of this committee.

Resolution Adopted.

After full discussion, the cotton committee unanimously passed the following:

"Resolved, That the Committee on Cotton Distribution be authorized immediately to allot cotton as to quantity and grade to all domestic and foreign consumers, and that they also be authorized to buy cotton if and when necessary for the requirements of the United States and allied Governments.

"Resolved further, That the cotton committee feels that this will have an important effect in stabilizing prices, but in the meantime they will keep in close touch with the whole situation with a view of determining the effect of this action and whether price-fixing or any other measure will be necessary."

American Communiques

facing toward the British lines by means of the rudder control, while his observer and the third machine drove off the enemy aircraft which was still attacking.

In its damaged condition Lieut. Bonnalie's machine was tail heavy, and he therefore had his observer leave the cockpit and lie out along the cowl in front of the pilot. In this manner he recrossed the British trenches at a low altitude and righted his machine sufficiently to avoid a fatal crash.

Had it not been for the gallantry of Lieut. Bonnalie, the injured machine to whose assistance he went would have fallen into enemy territory, as its pilot had been wounded and its observer killed. Lieut. Bonnalie's own machine was riddled with bullets, and it was a marvelous performance to bring it safely to the ground.

The emergency addresses of the foregoing are:

Sergt. John B. Garner, 325th Infantry, Company F. Mrs. John C. Garner, mother, Cedartown, Ga.

Lieut. A. F. Bonnalie, Aviation Section, Signal Corps. (We list Pvt. (first class) Allen F.) Mrs. Ellen Bonnalie, mother, 2521 Mission Street, San Francisco, Cal.

FARMERS NEED NOT SELL WHEAT BELOW U. S. GUARANTEED PRICE

The Food Administration issues the following:

Reports reach the Food Administration that some farmers are selling their wheat at less than the guaranteed price because of the railway embargoes placed in parts of the country against wheat shipment. While the elevators are temporarily overstocked because seaboard movement has not kept pace with internal movement, this condition should be improved during the next 30 or 60 days.

No farmer who will have patience until the situation improves need sell below the guaranteed price, for the Government will buy all wheat as fast as it can be moved.

WEEKLY BANK STATEMENT OF FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD

Further increases in loans supported by Government war securities in connection with the 600 million issue on September 17 of Treasury certificates, also substantial additions to outstanding note circulation, are indicated by the Federal Reserve Board's weekly statement issued as at close of business on September 20, 1918.

Investments.—The statement for the first time segregates war paper from other discounts. The former includes member banks' notes and customers' paper secured by Liberty bonds and Treasury certificates, and the latter holdings of all other secured and unsecured paper discounted by the Federal Reserve banks. It is seen that whereas the holdings of war paper increased about 75 millions during the week, other discounts on hand fell off 28.1 millions. Acceptances on hand show an increase of 10.3 millions, largely at the New York Reserve bank. The increase of 8.1 millions in United States short-term securities is made up largely of 1-year Treasury certificates deposited by the Reserve banks with the United States Treasurer to secure bank-note circulation. Total earning assets show an increase of 64.7 millions.

Deposits.—Net withdrawals of Government funds totaled 37.6 millions, Minneapolis and Boston reporting the largest reductions for the week. Members' reserve deposits increased 54.9 millions, and net deposits 7.1 millions.

Reserves.—Gold reserves declined about 1 million, and total cash reserves 1.7 millions. Considerable shifting of reserves away from New York and Minneapolis, largely in connection with the transfer of Government funds is noted. The banks' reserve percentage shows a decline for the week from 53.7 to 52.9 per cent.

Note circulation.—Federal Reserve note issues during the week totaled 57.3 millions net. The banks report a total Federal Reserve note circulation of 2,295 millions, an increase for the week of 49.6 millions. Federal Reserve bank notes have been issued by all Reserve banks, their aggregate liabilities on these notes amounting to 33.2 millions, an increase for the week of 5.5 millions.

Capital.—An increase of $136,000 in paid-in capital is due largely to payment for Federal reserve bank stock by newly admitted banks, the Chicago bank alone reporting an increase of $79,000 in its paid-in capital.

Amended Export Conservation List in Effect September 21 Showing Additions to and Modifications of Old Lists

Below is given the Export Conservation List of September 21, 1918, containing additions and modifications of the Export Conservation List as at present in effect. This list as amended became effective September 21, 1918. The attention of shippers is called to the fact that the commodities on the Export Conservation List are in many cases being strictly conserved on account of the limited supply and the needs of the United States and the allies for the successful prosecution of the war. Before making purchases or sales for export or engaging freight space or tonnage for these commodities, shippers are advised to obtain licenses for their exportation.

Articles Under General Headings.

It will be observed that certain items on the following list of conserved commodities have been referred to in a general way; for example, "Lac and all varieties thereof." In other parts of the list, for the convenience of the shipping public, certain of the better known lacs have been specified; for example, "Shellac" and "Gum lac." No attempt has been made to list all the various kinds of lac, but the public will understand from the heading "Lac and all varieties thereof" that all lacs are covered by the list, although specific reference is not made to each kind. The same understanding applies to all other commodities on this list which have been covered by a general heading. The notations X-1, X-2, X-3, X-4, X-5, X-6 indicate the supplementary information forms to be used.

Issue of Licenses.

Shippers are reminded that all commodities covered by the Export Conservation List require individual licenses when shipped to all countries, including Canada and Newfoundland, except when specifically stated to the contrary in the list. They are also reminded that the collectors of customs have no authority to issue licenses even for small amounts of these commodities, and consequently individual licenses must be procured for all destinations.

Commodities not covered by the Export Conservation List may be shipped to Canada and Newfoundland at present without individual export licenses. A special export license number RAC-8 has been issued to the customs service authorizing collectors of customs to allow such shipments to be exported without individual export licenses provided each shipment is accompanied by shipper's export declaration (Customs Cat. No. 7525, Form WTB 105) in quadruplicate.

"The contractor expressly warrants that he has employed no third person to solicit or obtain this contract in his behalf, or to cause or procure the same to be obtained upon compensation in any way contingent, in whole or in part, upon such procurement; and that he has not paid, or promised or agreed to pay, to any third person, in consideration of such procurement, or in compensation for services in connection therewith, any brokerage, commission, or percentage upon the amount receivable by him hereunder; and that he has not, in estimating the contract price demanded by him, included any sum by reason of any such brokerage, commission, or percentage; and that all money payable to him hereunder is free from obligation to any other person for services rendered, or supposed to have been rendered, in the procurement of this contract. CAUSES WHICH LED CUBA TO ENTER THE WAR ARE REVIEWED IN A DETAILED STATEMENT ISSUED BY PRESIDENT MENOCAL; NO RECOMMENDATIONS BY THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT

HABANA, September 15.

Gen. Mario G. Menocal, President of Cuba, authorizes the following statement:

The same day President Wilson sent to the Congress of the United States his famous message relative to the declaration of war against Germany; that is to say, on the 6th of April, 1917, and almost at the same time that the Congress passed, with exceptional solemnity, that memorable declaration, Cuba spontaneously and resolutely took the same attitude. Inspired by the unanimous sentiment of the people of Cuba, as revealed by unmistakable signs, I had the honor to send to the Cuban Congress my message of April 7, in which I surveyed the unheeded protests against repeated violations of international law by the German Empire, and especially against the submarine campaign, made by the United States, and added:

Cuba's Position Defined.

"Such acts of war without quarter against all nations whose ships or subjects sail or may sail the seas, which the Imperial German Government seeks, without any vestige of right, to close to the commerce of the world under terrible penalties, can not be tolerated or consented to without accepting them, ipso facto, as lawful for the present and for all time.

"The Republic of Cuba ought not to remain indifferent in the face of such stupendous violations of international law, which at any moment might be committed, as indeed has already happened, at the cost of life and property of her own nationals. Nor can she by any means decorously remain aloof from the stand nobly and courageously taken by the United States, to whom we are bound by sacred ties of gratitude and fraternity.

"Cuba can not remain neutral in this supreme conflict, for a declaration of neutrality would compel her to treat both belligerents alike, denying them with equal rigor access to her ports, and imposing upon them like restrictions and prohibitions, which would, in the present instance, be contrary to public sentiment, to the spirit of pacts and obligations, rather more moral than legal, which bind us to the United States, and would eventually, because of her geographical situation, be a source of inevitable conflict, the consequence of which can be readily foreseen, with her friend and ally, and a proof of inexcusable weakness and condescendence toward the attitude of implacable and unconditional aggression proclaimed by the Imperial German Government against the rights of all neutrals and against the principles of humanity and justice, which are the greatest glory of modern civilization.

State of War Existent.

"For these reasons, and in the clear and firm conviction that I am performing one of my most sacred duties, I appeal to Congress, in whom the power is exclusively vested by article 59, paragraph 12, of the Constitution, to determine, with a full knowledge of the facts and with that mature deliberation which such an action demands, that the acts of unjustifiable aggression repeatedly committed by the naval submarines of the Imperial German Government on the high seas against neutral shipping, notwithstanding the protests of all neutral nations, including Cuba, have brought about, and there exists, a state of war between the Republic of Cuba and the Imperial German Government, formally declaring this, and to adopt all measures which may be necessary, and which I shall in due course propose and recommend to you, for the maintenance of our rights, for the defense of our territory, for insuring our safety, for preventing any acts which may be committed or attempted to our detriment, and for earnestly cooperating to these ends with the Government of the United States, lending it all the assistance in our power for defending the freedom of the seas, the rights of neutrals, and international justice."

The Cuban House of Representatives and Senate, unanimously and in the midst of utmost enthusiasm, adopted, in conformity with the recommendations of the Presidential message, the following

JOINT RESOLUTION.

"ARTICLE 1. A state of war is hereby formally declared as from this date between the Republic of Cuba and the Imperial German Government, and the President of the Republic is authorized and directed by this resolution to employ all the forces of the nation and all the resources of our Government for making war upon the Imperial German Government, in order to maintain our rights, to protect our territory, to provide for our safety, to prevent any acts which may be committed or attempted in our detriment, and to defend the navigation of the seas, the freedom of commerce, the rights of neutrals, and international justice.

"ART. 2. The President of the Republic is hereby authorized to dispose of the land and water forces in such measure as he may deem necessary, utilizing the existing forces, reorganizing them or creating new ones, and to dispose of the economic resources of the nation in such measure as necessity may require."

The spontaneity and decision of these acts impart to them a very high and patriotic significance. No recommendation of the Government of the United States moved the will of the Government of Cuba nor excited the generous passions of her people. None was necessary. The horror universally inspired by the haughty and violent attitude in which an imperialistic power, vain of its might, attempted to impose upon the world an intolerable domination, was joined in the Cuban people with the energetic will, the noble ambition to cooperate with all their strength and with all their resources in the sacred defense of the liberty and sovereignty of all peoples against the malignant and menacing military power.

There was no discrepancy of opinion among any portion of the people nor any opposition to these unanimous determinations. Party discord and animosity ran very high in consequence of the seditious movement brought about in February by the leaders of the Liberty Party, and which I had put down with all necessary energy. It might well have been feared that this political situation would be an obstacle to the declaration of war, to the policy of action to be adopted therewith. It did not turn out thus, for public opinion unanimously decided for war and it was unanimously proclaimed in both houses of Congress by the representatives of the people, and all needed powers and authority to wage war were granted me.

This declaration was soon vigorously put into practice, within the limits of the possibilities of the country, sparsely populated but of great spirit and proverbial wealth derived from its immense production of sugar and tobacco.

A relatively considerable number of large German steamships were held by the war in Cuban ports. I ordered their immediate seizure, as the Governments of all the belligerent nations have done in similar cases, and turned them over to the United States to freely use them in the prosecution of the war. The Red Cross had been established in Cuba years before, but in a very modest way and with very limited resources. Without loss of time steps were taken to reorganize it, and it was very soon reconstituted under the active presidency and direction of my wife, Sra. Mariana Seva de Menocal, who succeeded in gathering around her a considerable number of ladies and gentlemen of distinguished social position for that purpose, and measures were taken immediately to raise funds, which now amount to a large sum and which have been applied, and are being applied, strictly in the aid of similar institutions of the nations at war and their gallant soldiers. Conformably with this noble inspiration a law recently approved by me—to which I gave my support both before and after its enactment—provides a fund for aiding the allies, out of which the public treasury has remitted a quarter of a million dollars to different countries.

Cuban Bond Issue.

Upon my express recommendation the Congress authorized an issue of $30,000,000 in bonds for raising necessary funds and new taxes to meet interests and amortization charges of the bonds—taxes which have produced more revenue than all calculations, leaving a large surplus. It having been declared by the Government of the United States, in accord with the allied Governments, that sugar was a commodity of prime necessity, the production and consumption of which should be regulated, the Government of Cuba lent its cooperation in the control of production and price and to a plan for the exportation and shipment of the entire crop, which amounted this year to 3,500,000 tons, the greatest in our industrial history. Food distribution was also subjected to severe regulations in agreement with the food authorities of the United States.

In several messages I recommended to Congress in connection with the declaration of war the implanting of obligatory military service in order that the country might dispose of all the military forces necessary for its defense and for repairing to the theater of war which might be assigned in case the participation of its armed forces should be considered necessary. The obligatory military service bill has been passed. It is now a law and will soon be put in force, and the country equipped with a military organization consistent with its means and its aims.

To the same end of frank cooperation the Government of Cuba authorized the sending of American troops to different points in Cuba for military instructions and preparations. For the same purpose a goodly number of officers and enlisted men of the Cuban Army were sent to the United States to complete and perfect their training for war.

Sending of Troops Abroad.

The law establishing obligatory military service empowers the President to take steps for sending a contingent of our present Regular Army to the European battle fields, reinforced by such volunteers who wish to go and who have already, indeed, begun to enlist in considerable number. The President is also authorized to send military missions to the United States, England, France, and Italy.

Effective measures were adopted by executive decree against espionage and enemy propaganda, and a large number of German and Austrian subjects were on specific charges or reasonable suspicion interned in a camp provided ad hoc. And in the contingency that these decrees might prove deficient for the purpose sought the passage of a law of ample scope has recently been obtained, giving the Government a strong repressive hand.

With the assistance of American experts the censorship of mail and telegraphic correspondence has been established and is operating with full rigor and efficiency.

The Fourth of July, anniversary of the independence of the United States, and the 14th and 21st of July, celebrated in France and in Belgium as patriotic fetes, have been declared legal holidays.

Great public and official manifestations have been held in honor of Italy.

War Against Austria.

On December 6, 1917, I sent a message to Congress requesting a declaration of war between the Republic of Cuba and Imperial and Royal Government of Austria-Hungary, predicated upon the same ground as my message of April 7 and upon the important consideration that the Austro-Hungarian Government, intimately allied with that of Germany, had not ceased to second both on land and on sea the unjustifiable conduct of the latter, thus meriting equally with the latter the just reprobations of nations allied for the maintenance of international law and the rights of civilization and humanity; a course in which I was influenced also by the similar action of the Government of the United States. The Congress responded to my request by adopting the joint resolution of December 16 by which the existence of a state of war between the Republic of Cuba and the Imperial and Royal Government of Austria-Hungary was declared, and the same powers vested in me as conferred by the joint resolution of April 7, 1917.

Cuba is showing her decided purpose to cooperate, to the extent of her power and by all means within her reach, in the triumph of the cause of liberty, democracy, and international justice, and to support without reserve the noble and disinterested action of the United States in this glorious effort. Near neighbors as we are of the great North American Nation, we Cubans are able to observe with our own eyes the civic enthusiasm, the heroic decision, and the unparalleled effort of the United States in men, in war material, and in resources of all kinds which exceed anything that has ever before been seen in the world. This very proximity to the United States, and the constant intercourse between the two peoples growing out of the strong bonds of gratitude which join Cuba with the great Nation which helped her decisively 20 years ago to gain her independence after long and devastating wars, and which on two occasions—that is, after two interventions, left her in full possession of her independence, her sovereignty, and her laws, without interfering with her administration or government, gives Cubans a peculiar insight into the high and disinterested motives with which the United States is already taking a predominant part in the war, which events have reserved for that country in order to uphold and save the principles of liberty and justice, and consequently the existence and sovereignty of small states, the freedom of the seas, the rights of neutrals, the faithful observance of international treaties, free self-determination of all peoples, and the free cooperation of all nations in the maintenance of peace and international law, through a decisive victory over the Central Powers of Europe, and over the military despotism which they seek to impose upon the civilized world.

Example of United States.

The people of Cuba have before their eyes the splendid picture afforded by the Americans from one extreme to the other of their immense territory, overflowing with faith, enthusiasm, and decision for the great causes whose defense they have assumed without a thought for any material interest, without any aim of conquest of territory, nor of advantages or compensations which in no event could offset their incomparable sacrifices. Neutrality afforded them gigantic profits for their trade and capital, most solicitously sought by Europe, without incurring extraordinary expenditures nor loss of life nor exceptional effort; and they did not hesitate to abandon that neutral position, impelled by the noble purpose of defending the freedom of the seas, the inviolability of right, and the respect due the sovereignty of states, incurring enormous expenditures, contracting internal debts of stupendous figures never equaled, in order to lend financial assistance to the allied nations through heavy advances, imposing upon their people severe restrictions in consumption, with the consequent privations, in order to send to Europe vast quantities of supplies and munitions; limiting the freedom of domestic traffic with unrivaled abnegation in order to supply all kinds of war material to Europe; and, finally, accomplishing the greatest maritime and military effort on record in transporting in a few months, despite the enemy submarines, a million and a half soldiers splendidly equipped for war and ready to enter immediately into action 3,000 miles away from home and decide with their most valiant cooperation the destinies of the world.

With this great and noble example before them the people of Cuba feel themselves more and more intimately convinced that all the democracies of America have their place of honor at the side of the great American Nation which, with her allies in Europe, defend at the cost of the hardest sacrifices the ideals of modern civilization, the right of all peoples, strong or weak, great or small, to a life of freedom and the full exercise of their sovereignty.

NAVY ACCEPTS MINIMUM WEIGHT LIMIT ON BEEF SPECIFICATIONS

The United States Navy has finally accepted the recommendation of the Food Administration to reduce the minimum weight limit on beef specifications until the larger arrivals of prime beef later in the year. This now brings the Navy in the line of the Army and the allied armies and is expected to relax the pressure on high specification beef and thus to ameliorate high price levels in prime cattle at present maintained. It also gives a more equitable position to the lighter weight cattle. No positive minimum weight is to be specified, but the Army and Navy and allied authorities will mark the beef at slaughter rails at selected slaughter points from 850 pounds downward in weight to a sufficient minimum to secure desired supplies.

Thousands Needed to Help Uncle Sam Collect Taxes

Thousands of new employees will be needed by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, the largest collection agency in the world, in the administration of the new revenue bill now pending.

For the year ended June 30, 1918, the bureau collected nearly $3,700,000,000 from more than 4,000,000 individuals and corporations. The pending bill makes the Commissioner of Internal Revenue responsible for the collection in 1919 of not less than $8,000,000,000.

Taxpayers all over the country must be told all about the new law and how, when, and where to pay their taxes. New forms must be prepared and millions of copies printed and distributed by January 1, 1919. In addition, the vast number of returns filed by taxpayers must be carefully audited and, in many instances, checked against the original books of account.

UNITED STATES NOW WORLD'S GREATEST SHIPBUILDING COUNTRY; LEAPS FROM THIRD TO FIRST PLACE IN LITTLE OVER A YEAR

ALL RECORDS EXCEEDED

More Yards, Ways, and Workers Than Any Other Nation—Number of Ships Under Our Flag 2,185, With Total Dead-Weight Tonnage of 9,511,915—Over 200 Yards at Work On 1,020 Ways.

The Shipping Board authorizes the following:

Within the jurisdiction of the United States Shipping Board at the present time (Sept. 1, 1918) there are 2,185 seagoing vessels, totaling 9,511,915 dead-weight tons. Of these, 1,294, totaling 6,596.405 dead-weight tons, fly the American flag. Under charter to the Shipping Board and to American citizens there are 891 foreign vessels, totaling 2,915.510 dead-weight tons. At the time the United States entered the war the American merchant marine included approximately only 2,750,000 dead-weight tons of seagoing vessels of over 1,500 dead-weight tons. The expansion of the fleet within the jurisdiction of the Shipping Board has come about for the most part during the past year.

This fleet lists as follows on September 1, 1918:

	Number.	Dead-weight tons.
Requisitioned American merchant ships	449	2,909,525
Ex-German and ex-Austrian ships taken over by the United States Government	100	644,713
New ships owned by United States Shipping Board	256	1,465,963
Old Lake steamers transferred	31	117,800
American merchant ships not yet requisitioned (of over 1,500 dead-weight tons)	377	980,459
Dutch steamers requisitioned	81	486,945
Foreign ships chartered to United States Shipping Board	291	1,208,411
Foreign ships chartered to American citizens	600	1,707,099

Expansion of Our Merchant Marine.

The American merchant marine is today expanding more rapidly than any other in the world. In August of this year the United States took rank as the leading shipbuilding nation in the world. It now has more shipyards, more shipways, more shipworkers, more ships under construction, and is building more ships every month than any other country, not excepting the United Kingdom, hitherto easily the first shipbuilding power. Prior to the war the United States stood a poor third among the shipbuilding nations.

Since August, 1917, more seagoing tonnage has been launched from American shipyards than was ever launched before in a similar period anywhere. The total, as of September 1, 1918, 574 vessels, of 3,017,238 dead-weight tons, is nearly four times all the seagoing tonnage (of over 1,500 dead-weight tons) built in the United States in any four prewar years. The total launchings since the first of this year, 482 vessels, of 2,392.692 dead-weight tons, are more than eight times the seagoing tonnage (of over 1,500 dead-weight tons) produced in this country in any prewar year.

Deliveries During the Year.

More than 2,000,000 dead-weight tons of new ships have been completed and delivered to the Shipping Board during the past year. The first delivery was made on August 30, 1917, by the Toledo Shipbuilding Co., of Toledo, Ohio. The first million tons of completed ships were obtained in May; the second million in August. The deliveries to the Shipping Board in August broke all world's records in the production of ocean-going tonnage and established the United States as the leading shipbuilding nation of the world. They totaled 349,783 dead-weight tons. Those from American shipyards to the Shipping Board in August totaled 324,180 dead-weight tons, exceeding the previous world's record for any month, which had been made by British shipyards in May, 1918, by 28,669 dead-weight tons. The deliveries to the Shipping Board by American shipyards from August 30, 1917, to and including August 31, 1918, totaled 327 seagoing vessels of 1,952,675 dead-weight tons. Adding 8 vessels of 66.357 dead-weight tons delivered by Japanese shipyards, the grand total of deliveries to the Shipping Board up to September 1, 1918, was 335 vessels of 2,019,032 dead-weight tons:

Records Made By Shipyards.

The most spectacular achievement in the history of shipbuilding, in this or any other country, was the launching from American shipyards on Independence Day of 95 steel, wood, and composite vessels, totaling 474,464 deadweight tons; thus in one day there were launched 188,909 more deadweight tons than was the output of seagoing tonnage (of over 1,500 dead-weight tons) in the best prewar year of American shipbuilding.

Another world's record was made by American shipyards for the month of July. There were launched in that month 126 steel, wood, and composite vessels, totaling 634,411 deadweight tons. This total more than doubles the launching totals for any month in the history of British shipyards. Prior to this year British shipyards launched more vessels annually than all the others in the world.

Thus an unprecedented pace of construction marks the rapidly increasing output of tonnage from American shipyards. All records for fast shipbuilding are now held by them.

A world's record was made when the Tuckahoe was launched 90 per cent complete on June 5 in 27 days 2 hours and 50 minutes from keel laying. Another world's record was made 10 days later when the Tuckahoe, ready for service, was delivered to the Shipping Board. The Tuckahoe was carrying coal to New England on the fortieth day.

Shipyards and Shipways.

When the present Shipping Board began its work, in August, 1917, there were only 61 shipyards in the United States. There were 37 steel shipyards with 162 ways.

The largest shipyards in the world in September, 1918, are those of the United States. The Clyde River, in Scotland, historically famous as the greatest of all shipbuilding localities, is already surpassed by two shipbuilding districts on the Atlantic coast and by two on the Pacific coast.

There are now 203 shipyards in the United States. The list comprises 77 steel, 117 wood, 2 composite, and 7 con-

WAR TRADE BOARD CHANGES ANNOUNCED IN PROCEDURE FOR EXPORTS TO SWEDEN

The War Trade Board announces in a new ruling (W. T. B. R. 236), the adoption of the following regulations governing the procedure with respect to the issuance of licenses for the exportation of commodities to Sweden. Previous announcement with respect to such regulations (W. T. B. R. 191, Aug. 9, 1918) is hereby withdrawn.

1. Exporters should apply for licenses to the Bureau of Exports, Washington, D. C., using Application Form X and such supplemental information sheets concerning the commodity as are required.

Must Obtain Advice.

2. Exporters in the United States, before filing applications for export licenses, must obtain from the prospective importer in Sweden advice that there has been issued by an appropriate importing association, or by the Statens Handel's Kommission, a certificate covering the proposed consignment. The number of the certificate should be forwarded by the importer in Sweden to the American exporter. This number should be specified on Supplemental Information Sheet X-104, which must be duly executed and annexed to the application for an export license.

3. Applications for licenses to export to Sweden commodities for which an importing association certificate or a Statens Handel's Kommission certificate is required will be considered only in the event that the said certificate has been issued subsequently to June 28, 1918. Certificates issued prior to that date will be treated as void, and exporters in the United States should not apply for licenses to export to Sweden on the basis of import certificates issued prior to June 28, 1918. The correct serial numbers of certificates issued subsequently to June 28, 1918, will be higher than 10832.

Example of Application.

4. In filing applications for license to ship commodities which are controlled by an import association, the shipment must be consigned to the association that issued the certificate, and exporters are required to state on the application the name of the person or firm in whose favor the import certificate was issued; as, for example—

(13) Consignee: Wool Import Association, Stockholm, Sweden.
(14) Purchaser abroad: (Here state person or firm to whom certificate was issued. Address of such person or firm.)

5. The import certificates for commodities which are not controlled by Swedish import associations will be furnished by the Statens Handel's Kommission, and the goods may be consigned directly to the importer.

6. Commodities to be exported to Sweden may be shipped only on vessels flying the Swedish flag.

7. The War Trade Board further announces that no purchases for export to Sweden, nor arrangements for the manufacture of any article for export to that country, should be made before an export license has been secured.

8. The War Trade Board has been advised that the following import associations in Sweden will accept, on behalf of the Swedish importer actually interested, consignments of the articles mentioned below. Other import associations may be formed in the near future, in which case due announcement will be made.

(1) Wool import association.—Wool and other raw material for the wool industry.
(2) Cotton import association.—Cotton and cotton yarn, excluding sewing cotton.
(3) Jute and hemp manufacturers' import association.—Jute, hemp, manila, flax, sisal, and other soft and hard fibers, binder twine, coconut yarn, and similar commodities.
(4) Textile import association.—Sewing cotton, silk yarn, textiles of silk, wool, cotton, and other materials, and sundry manufactures of hair and feather, manufactures of bone and horn, other manufactures from vegetable materials (excluding tanning materials), and similar commodities.
(5) Corkwood import association.—Cork and manufactures thereof.
(6) Leather trade import association.—Hides and leathers, furs, manufactures of hides and leather, tanning material, chrome, alum, chrome sulphate, bichromate of sodium and potassium for tanning purposes, and similar commodities.
(7) Metal import association.—Mica, graphite, metals not worked, metal manufactures, lead, tin, tin plate and terne plates, graphite crucibles, aluminum, nickel, and similar commodities.
(8) Raw phosphate import association.—Raw phosphates.
(9) Brush makers' and horsehair spinners' raw material import association.—Hair and feathers, bast, bamboo, rattan, cane, rice-root, and similar commodities.
(10) Margarine manufacturers' raw material import association.—Edible oil and fats for the manufacture of margarine.

(12) Tobacco import association.—Tobacco.
(13) Chemical industries import associations.—Technical oils, camphor, paraffine wax, other waxes, varnishes, fats, and tallows for technical use, asbestos waste, dyes, wood pulp, paper, stone, and clay (excluding mica and coal), phosphates, rosin, soda anodes, paints, antimony sulphide, sulphur, and similar commodities.

crete shipyards. Of these, 155 are completed, 35 more than half completed, and only 13 less than half completed.

Every month of the past year has added to the number of American shipways, until to-day the impressive total is 1,020—more than double the total of shipways in all the rest of the world.

Nearly 400,000 Employees.

The records of the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation show that there are now approximately 386,000 employees in the shipyards. There were less than 50,000 shipworkers in July, 1916.

The weekly pay roll of the shipyards building ships for the United States Shipping Board is $10,500,000.

Here is the program of ship construction which the Shipping Board has placed with the rapidly expanding shipyards of the country.

	Dead-weight tons.
2,249 contract ships, totaling	13,212,712
42 concrete ships, totaling	301,500
402 requisitioned ships, totaling	2,790,792
2,693 ships	16,305,004

The Shipping Board has also contracted for the construction of 170 wood barges, 279 steel, wood, and concrete tugs, 100 trawlers, and 25 harbor oil barges, totaling 50,000 dead-weight tons.

Pacific Coast Delivers First Million Ship Tons

Figures compiled by the Shipping Board show that up to and including the first two weeks of September the Pacific coast shipyards have delivered their first 1,000,000 tons of completed new vessels. The Pacific coast yards lead those of the Atlantic coast by 376,300 dead-weight tons, and those of the Great Lakes by 611,305 dead-weight tons. The Pacific coast yards have delivered about one-half of all the new tonnage.

Here are the deliveries of completed ships up to and including September 14 from the four principal shipbuilding sections building for the Shipping Board:

	Vessels.	Dead-weight tonnage.
Pacific coast	137	1,011,160
Atlantic coast	87	634,860
Great Lakes	131	399,855
Gulf coast	1	3,500
Total	356	2,045,875

The Pacific coast also leads in vessels launched, but not yet completed and delivered. More than half a million dead-weight tons of new ships are off the ways of Pacific coast shipyards approaching completion. The vessels launched but not yet delivered in the four principal shipbuilding sections are:

	Vessels.	Dead-weight tonnage.
Pacific coast	134	610,900
Atlantic coast	69	392,816
Great Lakes	33	117,050
Gulf coast	28	102,800

SYNOPSIS OF DRAFT MANUAL BEING SENT OUT AS GUIDE TO LEGAL ADVISORY BOARDS

IMPORTANT POINTS MADE CLEAR

Deductions Cited Covering Each of the Twelve Series of Interrogations in Questionnaire—Rights of Registrants Plainly Stated.

The War Department authorizes the following from the office of the Provost Marshal General:

The office of the Provost Marshal General began to-day (Tuesday) the distribution of printed copies of a manual that has been prepared from pamphlets compiled by the legal advisory boards of the City of New York and the District of Columbia to aid members of legal advisory boards throughout the country in giving advice and assistance to registrants, particularly in the filling out of the questionnaire. The manual is in the form of a pamphlet containing 14 printed pages. General instructions are followed by detailed deductions covering each of the 12 series of questions contained in the questionnaire.

Obligation on Registrant.

After setting forth that there should always be at least one member of the legal advisory board in attendance where a local board is sitting during the time the questionnaires are required to be filled out and filed; and recalling the age limits (18 to 45, both inclusive) of those who, not previously registered, were required to register on September 12, the legal advisers are cautioned to warn any man, who for any reason failed to register September 12, to go at once to the proper board for registration. Attention is also called to the fact that the obligation rests upon the individual registrant to make sure that he receives his questionnaire promptly, and he is advised frequently to consult the list posted in the office of his local board giving the names, or the numbers representing the names, of those to whom questionnaires have been sent. It is emphasized that mere failure to receive the document is no excuse for not filing it within the specified period of seven days after it is mailed to the registrant, nor as a reason for extending the time. If, in order to get the required supporting affidavits for claims for deferred classification on grounds of dependency or industrial or agricultural necessity, the

CALL TO MEET ACID TEST

Every American Must Rise To Sublimest Heights of Patriotism and Sacrifice, New Yorkers Are Told—U. S. Must Maintain Standards Set and Surpass Them Whenever It is Necessary.

The following address was delivered by Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo to the Liberty loan organizations and workers of the second Federal reserve district at Carnegie Hall, New York, on Wednesday, September 24, 1918:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN: It is a great pleasure to meet the Liberty loan workers of this important Federal reserve district, the greatest in population and in resources of any Federal reserve district in the country, and therefore responsible for the largest part of every Liberty loan required of the American people.

Greatest Loan Yet Offered.

The fourth Liberty loan is the greatest yet offered—$6,000,000,000, a colossal sum in itself—a sum so great that it is difficult for the human mind to measure it or to conceive of its vast power when transmuted into American might and thrown into the battle scale in France.

New York's allotment is $1,800,000,000, or 30 per cent of the entire loan. You have the privilege, the opportunity, of a glorious service in connection with this work. It is no less an essential part of war operations than the actual fighting on the front, although it involves no similar measure of sacrifice and carries with it no comparable share of labor and suffering.

Armies in Field and at Home.

No great army can fight in the field under modern conditions of warfare unless it is supported by other great armies at home, equally strong for the various parts they must perform, and equally coordinated and synchronized in effort with the fighting forces. These home armies must be organized for every part of essential war work. We must have an effective army of transportation, an effective army of war industries, an effective army of food and fuel production, and we must have and maintain all the time an effective army for Liberty loans.

Things Basic to the War.

While no one thing will win this war, certain things are basic to the war, and therefore are of outstanding importance. The Treasury of the United States is basic to the war. There is no activity of the Government engaged in war work and there are few activities of private enterprise engaged in war work which do not ultimately transmute their requirements into demands upon the United States Treasury. The Treasury must at all times be prepared to meet those demands, which invariably take the form of money payments.

Our great national army of Liberty loan workers composed of men and women alike, spreading over every State of the Union and responding each time to the call to the colors is, therefore, basically one of the most important of all the armies in the field. As I review the work they have done in the past 18 months, the unselfish patriotism with which they have responded to each call, and their splendid achievements in the three Liberty loans already subscribed and oversubscribed, I am proud to be a member of that army, and more than proud to be its commander. No historian who writes in the future the record of these times can overexaggerate the importance and effectiveness of the work done by the Liberty loan army of the United States and by the bankers of America who constitute so large a part of that army.

Must Have Money to Win.

The Treasury of the United States asks the American people to subscribe to the fourth Liberty loan $6,000,000,000. This money is needed to carry on the war. We can not lick the Kaiser without it. We can not restore peace to the world and reestablish liberty and democracy without it. The money is required for food and clothing and munitions for our Army and Navy; for the ships that must transport these supplies to them; for airplanes to blot out the vision of the Huns in the skies; for the support of the dependent wives and children of our gallant soldiers and sailors who have gone to the front, for the payment of the life insurance which the Government issues to its heroic men; for the construction of wharves and docks and facilities at home and in France for the military and naval operations; and for loans to our gallant comrades who are fighting shoulder to shoulder with us in this war.

Not All for Destructive Uses.

The huge amounts expended by America in this war are not wholly used for destructive purposes. Great sums are used for constructive work which will be of permanent value to the American people.

We are building a great merchant marine. Upon completion it will be the largest, most efficient, and modern merchant fleet in the world. The wharves and terminal facilities we are constructing in America for the accommodation of this merchant marine are an essential part of it. Our commerce after the war will be facilitated by these great national

Cooperation Between the Liberty Loan And the War Savings Organizations Under New Treasury Department Plan

To the executives and workers of the Liberty loan and war-savings organizations:

In order to secure a better coordination of existing war-loan activities and to bring the war-savings organizations into the same close relation with the Treasury Department as exists in the case of the Liberty loan organization, the war-savings organizations have recently been placed under the general supervision of the Federal reserve banks. This will place them on a permanent basis and bring them into the closest harmony with the Liberty loan work. Far from this plan resulting in any diminution of war-savings activities, it is the intention to enlarge these activities and I desire to assure the members of the war-savings organizations that even greater and more important work is before them.

The country is now confronted with a problem of raising in an intensive campaign within a short space of time billions of dollars to meet the requirements of the Government. The fine work of the war-savings organizations in directing the attention of every patriotic man, woman, and child in the country to the vital work of conserving goods and labor and of converting the resulting savings into loans to the Government will, I believe, be found of inestimable assistance during the coming Liberty loan drive.

During this drive every member of the war-savings organizations should devote his utmost efforts to the sale of Liberty loan bonds and should offer and render every possible assistance to the Liberty loan organization desired by it to insure the success of the drive. During this period I hope the war-savings organizations will also continue their efforts in the formation of war-savings societies so that in accordance with the President's request, every c tizen in this country will be a member of an active and earnest war-savings society, and so that every citizen shall be enrolled in the army of war savers at home so necessary for the support of our gallant Army in France.

I am sure that I may count on every member of each organization to render the same enthusiastic, efficient, and unselfish service which they have rendered so splendidly in the past.

W. G. McADOO.

FUEL ADMINISTRATION RULES AMENDED REGULATING COMMISSIONS TO DEALERS

U. S. FUEL ADMINISTRATION,
Washington, September 14, 1918.

The United States Fuel Administrator, acting under authority of an Executive order of the President of the United States dated August 23, 1917, appointing said administrator, and of subsequent Executive orders, and in furtherance of the purpose of said orders and of the act of Congress therein referred to and approved August 10, 1917,

"Rule 2. A licensee who acts as purchasing agent of coal for and by authority of a retail dealer or consumer without becoming the owner thereof may charge a purchasing commission not exceeding (a) the sum of 15 cents per ton of 2,000 pounds of bituminous coal, (b) 5 per cent of the delivered price of cannel coal and smithing coal when the latter is certified in writing by the retail dealer or consumer that such smithing coal is to be used for smithing purposes only, (c) the sum of 20 cents per ton of 2,240 pounds of anthracite coal when delivery of such coal is to be effected at or east of Buffalo, or (d) the sum of 30 cents per ton of 2,240 pounds of anthracite coal when delivery of such coal is to be effected west of Buffalo, provided that such licensee may add to such purchasing commission 5 cents per ton of 2,240 pounds of anthracite coal when such licensee incurs the expense of rescreening such coal at Atlantic or Lake ports for transshipment by water. The combined purchasing commissions of any number of licensees who act for a retail dealer or consumer in the purchase of a given shipment or shipments of coal shall not exceed the commissions herein allowed for one licensee. No licensee shall charge any purchasing commission as purchasing agent of coke for a retail dealer or consumer. Any coal or coke purchased by a licensee for any consumer or retail dealer may be charged and invoiced to such licensee as agent."

The above order effective this 16th day of September, 1918.

H. A. GARFIELD,
United States Fuel Administrator.

ASSIGNED TO GENERAL STAFF.

Special Orders, No. 207:

197. Col. Edwin G. Davis, Judge Advocate General's Department, is assigned to duty with the General Staff Corps.

Standardization of Contract Clauses In All Future Government Purchases Completed by the War Department

The War Department authorizes the following statement:

Standardization of contract clauses which will be incorporated in all future contracts made by the various purchasing agencies of the War Department has been completed. The clauses are designed principally to speed up production, to guard against fraud, to protect the interests of labor and to guard and assure the interests of the Government and the contractors and thereby prevent legal complications.

Work of Special Committee.

The work of preparing the clauses has occupied the attention of a special committee of the General Staff for months. During this time all the various forms of contracts which have been used by the Government as well as dozens of others used between private individuals were examined in order that the best possible means of protection could be incorporated in the new clauses. Owing to the possibility of conditions arising which heretofore have never been a factor between contracting parties, it was necessary to prepare special clauses for such eventualities.

With the idea of speeding up the settlement of disputes arising between the Government and the contractor regarding the adjustment of claims which might delay production during the settlement and further to make unnecessary the filing of lawsuits in the Court of Claims, a clause provides the means for the immediate adjustment of all such differences.

Adjustment of Disputes.

In the event of the arising of any claims, doubts, or disputes as to the performance or nonperformance of the contract which can not be settled by mutual agreement, the question is placed before the Secretary of War or his duly authorized representative or representatives for adjustment. In the event that the matter is placed before a board, a majority decision of the latter shall be final, but permission to appeal directly to the Secretary of War within a limited time is allowed.

Right to Terminate Contracts.

The Government retains the right to terminate any contract in the public interest. If the Government finds that the need for any contracted supplies no longer exists, it can terminate the contract within a specified time. Definite provision is made for the payment of existing stocks and raw materials on hand for the completion of the contract, and provision is made for the adjustment of all obligations assumed by the contractor for fulfilling this agreement. Arrangements are also made for the disposal of special facilities provided for the execution of the contract.

Three clauses are devoted to labor. One provides that in the cases specified by law the wages of laborers, operatives, and mechanics doing any part of the work contemplated by the contract, in the employ of the contractor, shall be computed upon a basic day rate of eight hours work with overtime rates to be paid for at not less than time and one-half time for all time in excess of eight hours.

Settlement in Labor Troubles.

In the event that labor disputes should arise directly affecting the performance of the contract or delaying its execution, the contractor may appeal to the Secretary of War for adjustment of the difficulty. The contractor is obligated to comply with such adjustment as may be made by the Secretary. If such a settlement involves an increase of wages thereby placing a burden on the contractor he will be compensated for the extra outlay. Likewise in the event of a reduction of labor cost, the amount involved will be deducted from the cost in favor of the Government.

Contractors are obliged to comply with existing State laws, and are also obligated not to employ in War Department contracts, any minor under the age of 14 years or permit any minor between the ages of 14 and 16 years to work more than eight hours in any one day, more than six days in any one week, or before 6 a. m. or after 7 p. m. The employment of convict labor is prohibited, except in the event of an Executive order and then only under the terms of such an order.

Inspection of Costs.

On cost-plus contracts provision is made for a rigid inspection of costs and the Government retains at all times the right to make checks and audits on materials and prices as well as setting up machinery of inspection to insure full value received. The accounting books of the contractor are always to be open to the Government's officers. The decision of the accounting officer in regard to proper costs shall prevail. The right to appeal directly to the Secretary of War is given to the contractor. The contractor must comply with the ruling that in all cost-plus contracts, proposed expenditures for labor and materials shall be approved in advance.

Fixed-Price Contracts.

In this connection the War Department will follow its policy that wherever possible fixed-price contracts shall be used, but where it is to the advantage of the Government to use a cost-plus contract, a cost-plus fixed compensation contract will be used. All such contracts are subject to review by the Superior Board of Contract Review of the General Staff. The covenant against contingent fees as prescribed by executive direction will be incorporated in the new contracts. In this the contractor expressly warrants that he has not employed a third person to solicit or obtain the contract in his behalf and that he has paid no fee to secure it.

Protection of Plants.

Contractors are obliged to provide protection to their plants against espionage, fire, explosion, acts of war, and acts of enemy aliens. The contractor shall, when required, report to the Government the citizenship, country of birth, or alien status of any or all of his employees. The Government retains the right to prevent the employment of suspected persons or to demand their discharge from the employment of the contractor.

If at any time the Government is able to provide materials to the contractor, the latter is obliged to accept them, if he has not already made commitments, arrangements being made for satisfactory compensation.

The various supply bureaus of the Army are now preparing to adopt the new contract form.

SKILLED OFFICE MEN WANTED BY THE ARMY GENERAL STAFF

The War Department authorizes the following statement:

Manufacturers and business men have been requested to cooperate with the General Staff in securing for it skilled office men. At the present time there is a pressing need for men who have demonstrated their qualifications and ability in commercial life, especially those possessing experience in statistical work, factory production, accountancy, purchasing, merchandizing, and warehousing.

Circular Letter Issued.

In a circular letter which was sent to many prominent individuals and firms, the attention of manufacturers has been called to the fact that the readjustment process in business following the draft registration of September 12 has placed business and industry more fully on a war basis. It is pointed out that the operations of the War Department will be strengthened by utilizing men in its organization in positions and work similar to that which they had followed in commercial life.

Names of Men Asked.

The manufacturers are asked to submit to the office of the director of purchase, storage, and traffic of the General Staff the names of men who come into the early draft classifications who possess the business qualifications set forth in the letter. It is urged that employers should give the full names, addresses, and occupations of the men who will be separated from their present occupations by the operation of the draft law, as well as the names of the local boards with which the men are registered. Any other information which employers believe will be of value to the General Staff about these men should be forwarded.

HEADQUARTERS, AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCES,
September 22, 1918.

Section B.—The following details have been reported of repulse of one of the enemy raids reported in American Official Communique, No. 129, September 20: "At 5 o'clock, morning, September 20, an enemy combat party of 2 officers and 100 men, armed with six heavy and two light machine guns, and preceded by 15 minutes' artillery preparation, came from Dampvitoux to the cross roads southeast of Champ-Fontaine farm to establish an outpost, locate our front line and identify our troops. Our artillery barrage, quickly regulated to a concentration fire, scattered the enemy and inflicted casualties. Our Infantry captured three prisoners and one heavy machine gun. Our only casualty was one officer wounded."

RULING ON WOOL DEMURRAGE BY THE WAR INDUSTRIES BOARD

B. M. Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board, authorizes the following:

To all woolgrowers and approved dealers:

The wool section of the War Industries Board has had many inquiries as to whether the woolgrower or approved dealer in distributing centers should be charged with necessary demurrage on wool shipped to distributing centers. It has ruled as follows:

In all cases where demurrage accrues at point of origin, it is to be borne by woolgrower.

Demurrage assessed against wool at destination should also be charged against the wool and considered a part of the freight charges, unless it be shown that approved dealers in distributing centers had not exercised due diligence in unloading wool after cars had been set on unloading tracks by the railroad or steamship line at destination.

All approved dealers are earnestly requested to use the utmost care to the end that cars are unloaded without unnecessary delay, as all demurrage charges due to negligence of approved dealers will be charged against them.

The War Department authorizes the following:

Arrangements have been completed for the leasing of 251,000 square feet of the building now used for the manufacture of "Bevo" for the Anheuser Busch Co. at St. Louis, Mo., to be used for the storage of ordnance supplies and for supplies for the depot quartermaster at St. Louis. The annual rental is to be on the basis of 34 cents a square foot, including the operation, heat, and light of the building.

Luxuries as usual means a victorious Germany. Save and buy war-savings stamps.

SECRETARY LANSING CABLES COMMENDING CONSUL POOLE

The Secretary of State has sent the following telegram to be delivered to Consul Poole upon his arrival at Stockholm:

"The department has appreciated the grave responsibilities which devolved upon you with the death of Mr. Summers and the distressing local conditions which added to the difficulties of your task. Your work has therefore been followed with anxious interest. You proved equal to the emergency, and I wish to convey to you, at the first opportunity following your safe departure from Russia, my commendation for the capacity and sound judgment with which you have discharged your duties, not omitting your courageous determination to remain in Moscow in order to give moral support to your French and British colleagues, and where you would still be were it not for the orders sent you by the department.

"LANSING."

Registration Returns Received from 3 States

The War Department authorizes the following statement from the office of the Provost Marshal General:

The following additional official returns on the registration September 12 were received up to noon to-day:

Arizona, 52,870 against estimate of 49,794.

Sales Warehouse Leased For Officers' Uniforms

The War Department authorizes the following:

The three-story building owned by the Harper Overland Co., located at 1128–30 Connecticut Avenue, Washington, has been leased by the War Department for use of the depot quartermaster as a commissary and clothing sales department for officers stationed in the District of Columbia.

The building, which has a rear entrance on Eighteenth Street, has a total of 36,000 square feet. The Government will pay an annual rental of 50 cents per square foot.

This is the first building leased by the Government for the purpose of carrying out the terms of section 9 of the draft act, which was approved by the President on August 31, 1918, directing that hereafter uniforms, accouterment, and equipment shall be furnished by the Government at cost to any officer of the Army or cadet at the Military Academy.

For the carrying out of the provisions of this act, the Quartermaster General has also advertised for sealed proposals to be opened October 1 for manufacturing officers' uniforms.

WORK OF CONGRESS BRIEFLY TOLD

SENATE.

The Finance Committee yesterday began consideration of the war-revenue bill in executive session. The subject of revision of rates imposed by the bill was not taken up and probably will not be for several days. The time was occupied yesterday in a careful study of the House bill paragraph by paragraph, and but little progress was made. Chairman Simmons said the committee probably would follow its custom of the past when it got actively into the subject of determining rates, of making an announcement of definite conclusions reached, so the public could be advised concerning the progress of the measure.

The Agricultural Committee, which is considering a measure in line with the recent recommendations of the Federal Trade Commission, yesterday had before it as a witness Harry A. Wheeler, of Chicago, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, which issued a report criticising the report of the commission on the meat packers. The witness denied that the Union Trust Co., of Chicago, of which he is vice president, is an "Armour bank" as charged by the commission, and said that this bank carries many packers' accounts and has made loans to packers.

For the third time the Committee of Elections yesterday was unable to obtain a quorum for the consideration of the pending resolution providing for an investigation of campaign expenditures in the recent Senatorial primaries in Michigan. The committee will endeavor to get together again tomorrow.

Senator Thompson, of Kansas, yesterday gave the Senate the result of his observations while on his recent visit to the European battle front. He said the general opinion abroad was that it would require another year to end the war in the way the allies intend that it shall end.

The Senate adjourned until tomorrow, at which time the suffrage constitutional amendment resolution will be called up for consideration. It was the expectation of the leaders that the question would be finally disposed of before adjournment on that day.

HOUSE.

The Nolan minimum-wage bill was passed by a vote of 252 to 17, with five Members voting "present." The bill now goes to the Senate. It is designed to apply to all Federal employees except those specifically exempted and to employees of the District of Columbia. Employees in the classified postal service and railway employees are exempted. The bill does not apply to any employees who have been in the Government service less than two years, nor to employees in the Philippines, Porto Rico, Hawaii, Alaska, or the Panama Canal Zone. Persons in the Army and Navy and all postmasters also are excluded. All other employees will be entitled to receive a minimum of $3 a day, or, if paid by the hour, 37½ cents an hour, or $90 a month, or $1,080 a year.

The Naval Committee ordered a favorable report on the bill for the Government purchase of a drydock under construction at Boston for the State of Massachusetts. Secretary Daniels, appearing before the committee, explained the need for a big naval dry dock north of Philadelphia. Its estimated cost is $4,550,000.

Schedule for Bicycle Manufacturers Issued by the War Industries Board

B. M. Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board, authorizes the following:

The Conservation Division of the War Industries Board, after conferences with the manufacturers, has outlined a conservation program for the bicycle industry to go into effect October 1. This will result in the saving during the next year of 2,500 tons of steel, one-third of the quantity used by the industry in the last 12 months. Additional savings will be made in other essential materials, production will be simplified, and large amounts of capital now tied up in manufacturers' and dealers' stocks will be released.

Reduction in Types.

These results are to be secured through a substantial reduction in the number of types and models of bicycles and saddles, handle bars, rims, tires, sprockets, pedals, etc. The manufactures are to discontinue, wherever possible, the use of metal, rubber, and leather for all purposes. The production of racing and juvenile models is to be discontinued. Drop-side steel guards, metal stands, metal tanks, and tool boxes are no longer to be made and tool bags and tools are not to be supplied by the bicycle manufacturers. There will be no more rubber grips and nickel finish on frames or forks during the war. These plans for conservation are very similar to those that the division has put into effect in many other industries in order to facilitate the war program.

The manufacturers of bicycles may continue to use partly fabricated materials, etc., until present stocks are exhausted, providing that no bicycles are made or equipment used later than December 31, 1918, for the manufacture of models or equipment which are to be dropped in accordance with the program now announced.

The Program in Detail.

Following is the program in full:

SCHEDULE FOR BICYCLE MANUFACTURERS.

BICYCLES.

1. The manufacture of racing models, including the so-called light roadster models of ⅞-inch tubing, to be discontinued.

2. The manufacture of juvenile models to be discontinued.

3. Each manufacturer to reduce his line of bicycles to the following: Two single bar men's models with either straight or bend top tube, in two sizes, 20 and 22 inch frames only; one ladies' model—20-inch frame only; one heavy service model with one extra bar only; each manufacturer to adopt one type of the latter in one size and frame only—20 inches. This type to be either motorcycle construction, arch bar, double bar, or such other reinforced or heavy service construction as may be selected; each manufacturer to announce the type adopted which in design and construction consumes the least practicable amount of steel.

4. The use of the truss-type fork to be discontinued. Forks to be supplied with single sides only.

Drop Side Steel Guards.

5. The manufacture of drop-side steel guards to be discontinued entirely and plain guards only continued. Double-guard braces may be used on rear wheel, but single brace only to be supplied on front wheel. No steel heavier than 24-gauge to be used for mud guards.

6. The use of metal stands, including spring steel clips, and rivets to be discontinued.

7. The manufacture of metal tanks or tool boxes to be discontinued. Manufacturers to discontinue supplying tool bags and tools.

8. Each manufacturer to restrict his line of colors or finishes to not more than six. Nickel finish on frames or forks to be discontinued.

BICYCLE EQUIPMENT.

9. Each manufacturer to confine his use of handlebars to the following types: Regular forward extension, regular straight adjustable stems. Tops may be supplied in either of the following styles: 22-inch wide, 6-inch drop, no forward bend, or 20-inch wide, 3¾-inch drop, 2½-inch forward bend.

10. The use of rubber grips to be discontinued. The use of grips consisting in part of nickel, aluminum, or having other metal ferrule to be discontinued. Wooden-core leather-wound grips without metal ferrules may be continued.

11. Each manufacturer to confine his use of pedals to the following: One type men's pedal, rubber; one type men's pedal, rat trap; one type ladies' pedal, rubber.

Styles in Saddles.

12. Each manufacturer to confine his use of saddles to the following: One full-size men's saddle, padded top with truss spring, tilting clamp; one medium-size men's saddle, padded top with truss spring, standard clamp; one ladies' saddle, padded top with truss spring, with two small spirals, standard clamp. The tree or base of all the above to be made of wood. The use of steel for this purpose to be discontinued. The use of the so-called all-spring saddles to be eliminated.

13. Each manufacturer to confine his use of rims to the following: One clincher type, 28 by 1$\frac{5}{16}$; one single-tube type, 28 by 1$\frac{7}{16}$; both types to be drilled 36 holes for spokes. Rims to be supplied only in the following finishes: Full enamel black, double fine line gold stripes; enamel black base with red center, edge with fine line gold stripe; aluminum with double fine line black stripe; enameled olive-drab with double fine line black stripes. Front and rear hubs to be drilled 36 holes for spokes.

The Use of Tires.

14. Each manufacturer to confine his use of tires to the following: One clincher type in two sizes, either 28 by 1½ or 28 by 1⅝; one single-tube type, 28 by 1½ or 28

Synopsis of Draft Manual Prepared As a Guide to Legal Advisory Boards

registrant finds it imperative to get an extension of time, he should apply at once to his local board for such an extension. This will require a brief affidavit stating the facts. The request must be made before the seven-day period has expired, not afterward.

Give All Relevant Facts.

The making of complete answer to any question, the legal advisers are instructed, is not to be hampered by limitations of space in the questionnaire. Inasmuch as the entire purpose of the questionnaire is to provide local and district boards with the facts in the case of each registrant, the most important consideration in filling out the questionnaire is to present all the relevant facts, which, under the selective-service law and the regulations, affect each registrant's status and bear upon his proper classification. To this end, if a complete presentation of the registrant's case, or explanation of any answer requires the submission with the questionnaire of additional information by way of certificates, additional affidavits, etc., these should be obtained and made part of the questionnaire. In the preparation and procurement of such affidavits the legal advisory boards are instructed to give assistance.

The questionnaire should be filled in with black ink, and not with pencil. Additional affidavits may be typewritten or legibly written in black ink on one side only on white paper of the approximate size of a page of the questionnaire.

Not Limited to One Claim.

Paragraphs 13 and 14 of the instructions to the legal advisory boards read: "13. Where deferred classification is claimed, the registrant should not place a cross in any of the divisions of Class 1. He should, however, indicate his claims for deferred classification in the various other classes, and is not limited to one claim for deferred classification. The claimant should indicate every claim for deferred classification, even though his claim of deferment in a less-deferred class may seem inconsistent with his claim of deferment in a more-deferred class."

"14. It must be borne in mind, however, that local and district boards are obliged to pass upon each claim made by the registrant. Therefore, members of legal advisory boards should take care that registrants make only such claims as on their face appear to be legitimate. * * *"

Waiver of Exemption.

Paragraph 21 reads:

"21. Whenever the facts with relation to dependents show that the registrant is entitled to be classified in Class II, III, or IV, and he does not desire to claim deferred classification on such ground after being advised of his right to do so, the member of the legal advisory board should advise him that he may sign the waiver of exemption at the bottom of the first page of the questionnaire, and if the registrant signs the waiver he should also obtain a similar waiver for his dependents. The practice of securing such waiver will prevent the claim being subsequently made that the registrant and his dependents were not properly advised as to their rights. * * *"

Paragraph 39 adds that where "a registrant does not claim deferred classification the claim may be made by dependents or employers. However, the claim must be made and the required information furnished within the seven-day period within which the questionnaire must be filed. * * * The information necessary to establish the claim must be furnished by the claimant in affidavits. If the registrant fails to furnish the personal information required from him, he and other persons may be summoned before the local board and required to give it."

Paragraph 25 reads:

"25. None of the records relative to the health of a registrant under the head of 'physical fitness' or relative to 'dependency' (except the names and addresses of the dependents) is permitted to be disclosed to any person other than the proper Government officials. A heavy penalty is provided for any person who discloses any of this confidential information."

Advice Free of Cost.

Attention is called to the fact, and it is emphasized repeatedly throughout the instructions, that the advice to be obtained by registrants from members of the legal advisory boards, and all assistance given by the latter in connection with the filling out of the questionnaires and preparing and taking oath to the necessary affidavits, is obtainable free of cost to the registrant.

"Every lawyer," says the manual, "should deem it a privilege and a patriotic duty to stand ready and willing to advise registrants. Registrants should be free to go into any law office and there freely receive the same attention and consideration which the lawyer would give to any client. The lawyers can not forecast the decision of local or district boards upon individual cases. They can merely advise generally and aid a registrant in preparing his papers in a conscientious effort to put all the facts before the board in an intelligent way, so that the board may reach the proper decision in each case.

Regulations Regarding Claims.

NOTE.—With regard to claims for deferred classification on the ground of dependency, the Selective-Service Regulations (sec. 71) says:

"Section 4 of the selective-service law exempts no person from military service on the ground of dependency. It only authorizes the exclusion or discharge from draft of 'those in a status with respect to persons dependent upon them for support which renders their exclusion or discharge advisable.' The present plan is designed by the creation of several classes, arranged in the order of their availability for military service, to defer the induction into the Army of registrants upon whom other persons are mainly dependent for support until persons without actual dependents have been called. There are certain conditions of dependency which it is advisable to recognize to a fuller extent than others. The present classification is designed to afford the maximum of protection to dependents consistent with the military necessities of the Nation.

"Reasonably Adequate Support."

"It is to be recognized that war must bring inconvenience and sacrifice to all. No person has a right to refuse to sacrifice luxuries; on the other hand it is not the intent of the law to deprive the dependents, whom the law and regulations are designed to protect, of a reasonably adequate support. No definite meaning can be given to the term 'reasonably adequate support' as used in the classification rules and schedule. The determination of this question must be left to local boards, who have abundantly shown that they will approach each case with sympathy and common sense, and, while defending the Nation from selfish and thoughtless claimants on the one hand, will afford the decent protection here designed for meritorious claimants on the other."

Postmasters Not to Undertake Work At Request of Other Departments

The Post Office Department issues the following:

OFFICE OF FIRST ASSISTANT
POSTMASTER GENERAL,
Washington, September 16, 1918.

POSTMASTERS: The attention of all postmasters is directed to the notice emanating from this office, published in the Postal Bulletin of February 18, 1918, and the March, 1918, Supplement to the Postal Guide, concerning information furnished Government departments, reading as follows:

"It has been brought to the attention of the department that other Government departments are making requests direct, or through field agents, on postmasters throughout the country for various information and data, and because of the great burden of work thrown upon postmasters at this time such information should not be furnished unless specific authority has been granted by the department."

It has come to the notice of the department that many postmasters are violating these instructions, and undertaking work and inquiries upon the request of other executive departments of the Government and their representatives which interfere seriously with the proper performance of the Postal Service and nowise connected therewith.

Postmasters and employees are instructed to comply strictly with the instructions in this notice, and are directed not to undertake inquiries or work for other departments or their representatives which are not authorized by this department.

J. C. KOONS,
First Assl. Postmaster General.

SECRETARY M'ADOO ADDRESSES FOURTH LIBERTY BOND WORKERS

undertakings, and the money used for these purposes is an investment of immeasurable value to the American people. The loans to the allied Governments are represented by obligations of great nations who will in time repay them. Out of the $30,000,000,000 of appropriations made by the Congress for the fiscal year 1919, it is probable that $8,000,000,000 to $9,000,000,000 will represent loans to the allied Governments and expenditures for ships, shipyards, docks, wharves, and other facilities which will be salvaged to the American people.

The bonds of the fourth Liberty loan bear 4¼ per cent per annum. They will mature on October 15, 1938, unless the United States should exercise its reserved right to redeem them on or after October 15, 1933.

Exempt From Surtaxes.

The interest on $30,000 of bonds of the fourth Liberty loan is exempt, until two years after the termination of the war, from surtaxes and excess profits and war profits taxes. The taxpayer who subscribes for $30,000 of these bonds and still holds them at the time of making his tax return will also receive an exemption from such taxes for a like period as to the interest on an aggregate amount of $45,000 of bonds of previous Liberty loans, and subscribers in lesser amounts will receive a proportionate similar exemption. These bonds of the fourth Liberty loan are also permanently exempt from all other Federal, State, and municipal taxations, except estate and inheritance taxes.

Every dollar saved now and invested in Liberty bonds will be worth much more when peace comes again. Every provident man and woman in the United States may find their savings worth twice as much in purchasing power after the war as now. How can anyone more certainly make money than by saving it now with assurance of its enormous enhancement in value when normal conditions are restored?

Provision for Rainy Day.

The improvident men and women who fail now to save money may find themselves unprovided for if a rainy day accompanies the return of peace, and everyone who fails to make provision for this time will add to the difficulty of readjusting the industrial and commercial situation so as to preserve prosperity under peace conditions, whereas everyone who has saved and provided for that readjustment will ease the process and contribute to the continued prosperity of the Nation as well as to the individual welfare of every citizen.

The highest duty of every man and woman in the land, therefore, is to save to protect themselves and their children against the possibilities of the future.

Duty of Business Men.

The business men and the men of comfortable means and incomes who fail to buy to the limit of their ability, even though it involves the payment for their Liberty bonds on the installment plan, are not only failing to do their full duty, but they are negligent of their own and their country's interest. Their business and welfare depend upon the success of America's Army, and they must omit no duty to support that Army.

In the third Liberty loan, 18,000,000 Americans subscribed for Liberty bonds. It is a very remarkable fact that of this vast number of patriotic Americans, all but 22,500 bought bonds in amounts ranging from $50 to $10,000. Only 22,500, including corporations, bought Liberty bonds of the third loan in excess of $10,000. It would be preposterous to say that there are only 22,500 men, women, and corporations in America able to lend more than $10,000 each to their Government on Liberty bonds. The record of the third Liberty loan conclusively shows that the great mass of the American people, the men and women of small and moderate means, were highly patriotic and did their duty splendidly, whereas only 22,500 persons and corporations among America's wealthier classes bought bonds above the $10,000 mark. I would not intentionally draw any inferences from these facts which would do injustice to wealthy corporations and to the men and women in America of large and easy circumstances, but these figures at least indicate that they did not respond to the call of the Government in the third Liberty loan commensurately with their ability to help. An earnest appeal should be made to them to do more in the fourth Liberty loan, not only for their own good, but for the welfare of the Nation. We must largely increase the number of subscribers to the fourth loan between $10,000 and $100,000.

This brings up the point of a more effective and intelligent organization of the bankers and Liberty loan committees of the country for the purpose of securing a secondary distribution of Liberty bonds after the completion of each loan, and of stabilizing their value. We must provide the machinery and the means through which those who have to sell their bonds may do so and get the highest possible price for them, while at the same time protecting the innocent investor against swindlers and unscrupulous and unpatriotic people, who, contrary to the earnest request of the Treasury Department, have induced holders of Liberty bonds to exchange them for stocks or investments of doubtful value.

Protection From Speculators.

The effect of these operations is to force the Treasury to buy the Liberty bonds which these unscrupulous or unpatriotic people acquire and throw upon the market. The Treasury, therefore, must take a part of the money it has borrowed from the American people after so much difficult and patriotic work on the part of bankers and Liberty loan organizations and buy back these Liberty bonds, in order to protect the market and the credit of the Government. Thus the Treasury's available resources from the loans are depleted and forced into unworthy channels, oftentimes in wildcat enterprises, to the injury of the American people and to the detriment of the war. We must create a healthy public opinion, which will reprehend such practices.

I have repeatedly said that no objection could or should be raised to the sale of Liberty bonds where imperative necessity or adversity make such sales unavoidable, but we should constantly appeal to the intelligent self-interest and patriotism of those who buy Liberty bonds to keep them to the utmost limit of their ability as one of the sacred duties they have to perform in this war.

"Keep the Pressure High."

What we must do in America is to keep the pressure high. Now that we have the Kaiser and his brutal hordes on the run, let us not relax effort, but intensify effort. Keep hitting hard and smashing harder. That is the way to win surely and quickly. That is the way to eliminate the Rhine; that is the way to open an American parade on Unter den Linden.

We must maintain steadfastly the standards we have already set and surpass these standards whenever it is necessary to do so. By self-abnegation and sacrifice we must match, as far as we possibly may, the deeds of our sons upon the field of battle and thereby contribute to the victory which we are determined to secure regardless of the time required or the price paid, either in blood or in treasure, because without that victory there is neither security for the world nor hope for the future.

Acid Test for All.

One can not fail to do his duty in this supreme time and expect to save his soul in the eternity before us. No man can shirk his duty without incurring the just reprehension of public opinion. The acid test will be applied and the shirker, whether from military service or in the field of labor or in the ranks of the wealthy, will be unable to withstand the finger of scorn which will be unerringly pointed at him. We must rise to the sublimest heights of patriotism, of sacrifice, of devotion, of love of country, if we would not deserve to be cast into the depths of defeat and oblivion.

Glorious America, glorious for what she has already done, more glorious for what she is now doing, and glorified she shall be for what she is determined to and will achieve!

The Department of Labor authorizes the following:

ALL RECRUITS FOR NAVY HEREAFTER TO BE OBTAINED THROUGH THE DRAFT

New Plan Expected to Add 15,000 Men Each Month In Special Places.

Recruiting to Be Done by "Mobilization Officers" At Designated Centers.

Secretary Daniels authorizes the following:

At a conference between representatives of the Navy, Marine Corps, Army, and the Provost Marshal General, arrangements were completed whereby the Navy will obtain through the draft all the recruits needed.

By this arrangement the Navy will have an average monthly allotment of 15,000 men, which is not to be exceeded except in cases of emergency. Of this allotment the Navy is to enlist or enroll when needed men who have special qualifications to fill the Navy's requirements for those skilled in particular naval service. The majority of the 15,000 men will be taken from the run of the draft. Of these the Navy officials will sort out the skilled men and will apply them to the following month's demand for skilled men.

Title of Recruiting Officers.

Under the new arrangement the recruiting officers will be known as mobilization officers, and mobilization centers are being established at central points. Men of draft age who have qualifications that make them valuable to the Navy and who are desirous of entering that branch of the service can apply to the officers at these mobilization centers. If applicants measure up to the required standards and demonstrate their fitness and qualifications, the mobilization officers will apply for them through their local registration boards. This selective system will apply only to the skilled men needed.

Individual enlistment for the Navy may be made from deferred classifications on the grounds of dependency, in view of the higher pay of the Navy, which does away with the possibility of hardship for the dependents.

Qualifications Required.

In selecting men under a Navy call, local boards will not accept any registrant who can not read, write, and speak the English language, or who is not a citizen of the United States. Under such calls no declarants or conscientious objectors will be received.

It also provides that men who have served in the Navy of the United States shall, upon their own application, be permitted to reenlist in the Navy, with the approval of the Secretary of the Navy. This provision specifically states that the service in the Navy must have been prior to the date of registration. It will therefore not be necessary to accord registrants received and thereafter rejected the privileges of this provision.

Under this arrangement all Navy recruiting centers will hereafter be known as mobilization points. They are as follows:

Boston, Mass.: Mobilization point for Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut.
New York, N. Y.: Mobilization point for New York, New Jersey.
Philadelphia, Pa.: Mobilization point for Delaware, Pennsylvania.
Washington, D. C.: Mobilization point for District of Columbia, Maryland.
Norfolk, Va.: Mobilization point for Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina.
Atlanta, Ga.: Mobilization point for Georgia, Alabama, Florida.
New Orleans, La.: Mobilization point for Louisiana, Mississippi.
Oklahoma City, Okla.: Mobilization point for Oklahoma, New Mexico, Texas.
Chicago, Ill.: Mobilization point for Michigan, Illinois, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Iowa.
Minneapolis, Minn.: Mobilization point for Minnesota, South Dakota, North Dakota.
Cincinnati, Ohio: Mobilization point for Ohio, Indiana, Tennessee, Kentucky.
St. Louis, Mo.: Mobilization point for Arkansas, Missouri, Kansas.
San Francisco, Cal.: Mobilization point for California, Nevada, Arizona.
Seattle, Wash.: Mobilization point for Idaho, Oregon, Montana, Washington.
Salt Lake City, Utah: Mobilization point for Colorado, Wyoming, Utah.

Location of Inspectors.

The Navy mobilization inspectors will be located as follows:

Eastern division, New York, N. Y.
Southern division, New Orleans, La.
Central division, Chicago, Ill.
Western division, San Francisco, Cal.

Washington, September 20, 1918.

To all telegraph and telephone companies:

With reference to Bulletin No. 7, dated September 10, 1918, authorizing telegraph and telephone companies to file claims with local boards for deferred classification for employees who are absolutely indispensable to the operation of the service, telegraph and telephone companies are directed to instruct supervisory officers to incorporate in such affidavits for deferred classification Bulletin No. 7 of the Postmaster General on this subject.

A. S. BURLESON,

WOOL CONSUMED IN AUGUST.

Manufacturers used a million and a half more pounds of wool in August than in July, 1918, the Department of Agriculture reports, August figures being 63,900,000 pounds, grease equivalent, compared to 62,300,000 in July. Monthly consumption has averaged about 67,000,000 pounds, grease equivalent, since January 1, 1918.

ZONE ORDER IN EFFECT OCT. 5 BARS GERMAN ALIEN FEMALES FROM CAMPS AND FACTORIES

PUT IN SAME CLASS WITH MALES

None Over 14 Years Old Allowed Within Half-Mile Area Without a Permit or Except as Passengers on a Public Carrier.

The Attorney General has fixed midnight of October 5, 1918, as the time when the regulation establishing a one-half mile prohibited area around Federal or State forts, camps, arsenals, aircraft stations, Government or naval vessels, navy yards, factories or workshops for the manufacture of munitions of war or any products for the use of the Army or Navy, shall become effective as to German alien females. This date is fixed by the Attorney General under authority granted to him in the President's proclamation of April 19, 1918, which extended the scope of the regulations affecting alien enemy males to include alien enemy females.

Applies to All Over 14.

The effect of the act of the Attorney General in fixing this date is to make it unlawful for any German alien female 14 years of age and upward to be found within one-half mile of any of the places mentioned, except on public carriers, without a proper permit from the United States marshal. Every woman or girl of 14 years of age and upward who is a native, citizen, denizen, or subject of Germany and not actually naturalized as an American citizen is affected by this act and must obtain a permit to enter any prohibited area established by this regulation for any purpose, except as stated, when passing through such area on a public carrier. Females coming within the foregoing definition, including the wives of citizens or subjects of Germany, must comply with the order of the Attorney General.

Applications for Permits.

Permits to reside in or to enter the prohibited area must be obtained from the United States marshal. Applications for these permits may be made in the same manner as applications for similar permits have been made by German alien enemy males.

The fact that the husband or father of a German alien female has obtained a permit or that she has registered does not relieve her from the obligation of obtaining a permit.

It is not intended by this order to disturb unnecessarily the residence or occupation of German alien females. Permits to continue to reside or work within the prohibited area will be granted wherever this may be done consistently with the welfare and safety of the country and the successful prosecution of the war.

Penalty for Violations.

Failure to comply with this regulation by refusing to leave the prohibited area or to procure a permit to remain may result in the arrest and detention of the person and the possible internment for the duration of the war.

All mail matter originating in the United States or any of its possessions or places where the domestic mail service is in operation for transmission to soldiers and others, including civilians, connected with the United States Expeditionary Forces in Siberia, and all mail originating with those forces for transmission to the United States or its possessions or places where the domestic mail service is in operation, is subject to the United States domestic classification, conditions, and rates of postage. TYPEWRITER INDUSTRY IS RECOGNIZED AS ESSENTIAL

B. M. Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board, authorizes the following:

The typewriter industry has been recognized by the War Industries Board as essential, but no automatic rating will be given the industry for its materials, equipment, and supplies. Consideration will be given to applications for priorities covering specific orders as such applications are presented by the manufacturers.

Plants Given Preferential Treatment.

Claims of the industry to preferential treatment in the matter of priorities were presented to Judge Edwin B. Parker, priorities commissioner, by the war service committee representing the typewriter manufacturers. Existing contracts made with individual manufacturing concerns by the Government and for war work direct were exhibited in support of the demand. The priorities division of the War Industries Board decided that because of the large demands made on them by the Government and by the war work, including production of typewriters which they now have in hand, the following plants be accorded preferential treatment, and given a class 3 rating: Underwood Typewriter Co., Hartford, Conn.; Royal Typewriter Co., Hartford, Conn.; Corona Typewriter Co., Groton, N. Y.; L. C. Smith & Bros. Typewriter Co., Syracuse, N. Y.; Stenotype Co., Indianapolis, Ind.; and the Remington Typewriter Co. plants at Ilion, N. Y., Syracuse, N. Y., and Bridgeport, Conn.

President Will Speak In New York To-morrow Night for Liberty Loan

Secretary McAdoo announces that the President has consented to speak for the Liberty loan in New York City to-morrow (Friday) night. The meeting will be held at the Metropolitan Opera House under the auspices of the Liberty loan committee of the second Federal reserve district, of which Gov. Strong, of the Federal Reserve Bank, is chairman. Gov. Strong will preside at the meeting.

PLACED ON WAR CREDITS BOARD.

The Acting Secretary of War, Benedict Crowell, has appointed Albert W. Russel a member of the War Credits Board to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Fernando P. Neal. Mr. Russel has been connected with Mr. Crowell's office since January, 1918, and was formerly in the manufacturing business as president of the Russel Motor Axle Co. and treasurer of the Russel Wheel & Foundry Co. of Detroit.

PROPOSES TIME LIMITATION FOR BRINGING WAR CLAIMS AGAINST THE UNITED STATES

BILL RECOMMENDED TO CONGRESS

Secretary of War Points Out Advisability of Early Disposition of Suits Over Property Taken—The Court of Claims Docket Clear.

A limitation of time for the bringing of certain suits against the United States for property taken for war purposes has been recommended to Congress by the Secretary of War, with a draft of a bill for that purpose. Several of the emergency acts provide that in case of disagreement as to the value of property taken the Government shall pay a certain percentage of the estimated value and that the owner may sue the United States for such sum as shall represent the difference between the amount thus paid and the reasonable value of the property.

Points in Recommendation.

The Secretary points out that some of these claimants who are now reluctant to press their claims in the court owing to the fact that they would be open to criticism as exorbitant would have no such feeling at the end of the war. Another reason stated is that such suits ought to be brought while the Government is able to secure necessary witnesses who are now temporarily in Government service but will scatter at the end of the war. Four months from notice of the amount awarded is the time limited in the proposed bill for the bringing of suit.

Court of Claims Docket.

It was ascertained to-day from Assistant Attorney General Huston Thompson, in charge of the defense of suits against the United States, that the docket of the Court of Claims is in such condition that prompt action may be had by plaintiffs. Although there are many cases pending, there are none in which the plaintiff must await action by the Government. This is a realization of a condition for which the court and the Government attorneys have been making special effort.

Clear of Historical Cases.

The Civil War cases have been finished within the last few years. Two years ago the docket was cleared of the last of the French spoliation claims. In the present year the last of the Indian depredations cases was disposed of. With the passing of these various historical classes of cases the way is clear for prompt action upon current matters.

CUT DOWN ON WRAPPING PAPER, ORDER TO ALL RETAIL STORES

Bernard M. Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board, has issued the following order, which affects every retail store throughout the United States:

Notice to Retail Merchants.

Paper conservation is essential as a war measure. Every retail store is, therefore, directed to discontinue the unnecessary wrapping of merchandise, and to reduce its consumption of wrapping paper, bags, paper boxes, office stationery, etc., to that which is absolutely necessary.

Public Asked to Cooperate.

The officials of the War Industries Board feel confident that the public will cooperate with the stores in making this order effective. Economy in the use of paper will release chemicals, fuel, cars and men—all necessary to win the war—and will also enable the Government to secure its requirements of paper, which are increasing rapidly.

The necessity for this order became apparent this week when it was realized that the Government would soon be obliged to divert to the ammunition manufacturers a large quantity of chemical pulp formerly used in making wrapping, tissue, book, and other strong papers. The increasing production of ammunition and the short cotton crop make this necessary.

Administration of the Order.

The administration of this order has been placed in the hands of the pulp and paper section and Dr. E. O. Merchant, in charge of the economy program, has prepared a set of instructions for retail merchants and designed a placard, which will be of assistance to them in complying with the Government's order.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
THIRD ASSISTANT POSTMASTER GENERAL,
Washington, September 21, 1918.

In connection with Departmental Order No. 329 of March 28, 1918, requiring an approved request to accompany parcels for members of the American Expeditionary Forces in Europe, postmasters are informed that officers in immediate command of detached units of those forces are authorized to approve requests for articles desired by the members. Therefore, parcels of the kind mailable, addressed to members of the American Expeditionary Forces in Europe, may be accepted when the request required to be inclosed therein is approved by the addressees' regimental or higher commander, including a major as set forth in the instructions of this office embodied in paragraph 6 (a), article 55, pages 15 and 16 of the August, 1918, Supplement to the Postal Guide, or by an officer in command of a detached unit in such manner as to show that fact, as for example, "Approved, Lieut. John Doe, Post Commander," "Train Commander," or "Battalion Commander," etc., as the case may be.

No Change in the Draft Regulations Regarding Deferred Classification Claimed on the Ground of Dependency

The War Department authorizes the following from the office of the Provost Marshal General:

STATEMENT BY GEN. CROWDER.

In order once again to correct erroneous impressions which appear to exist in some quarters, this office desires to reassert that there has been no change made in the regulations regarding the authority of local boards to grant deferred classification to registrants on the ground of dependency. Local boards have always had the right to extend deferred classification to registrants, irrespective of whether the registrants do or do not make claims. A registrant is, therefore, at liberty, if he sees fit, to trust to the scrutiny of the boards to discover by examination of his questionnaire the necessity for his deferment. But, pressed as they have been in their work, boards have been, and will be, prone to defer to the judgment of the individual himself on the point that he has no dependents who require that he continue in civil life, and to refrain in such cases from giving deferred classification on the ground of dependency.

As I explained in my statement of September 9, addressed to employers and other representatives of industry, the boards will welcome and need all the aid that can be furnished by the indication of a claim made for deferment. With this aid, the process will become a simple and speedy one. Time and labor will not be wasted on needless search, and ample time will be gained for attention to those cases where the claim is explicitly raised.

It should be borne in mind by the individual registrant that the military program of this country, built around the desire of all concerned to win victory for our cause as quickly as possible, demands of the selective system the utmost speed in classifying the 13,000,000, approximately, who registered on September 12. If all these 13,000,000 registrants were to decline to aid the boards by indicating their own attitude regarding deferment and were to rely entirely on the ability of the boards to perceive the propriety of making deferment, the whole process of raising the army would be seriously hampered and delayed. This applies equally to those entitled to deferment on the grounds of dependency and those on the ground of necessary occupational employment. Either the claim should be made by the registrant or by a competent third person in his behalf.

Dummy Gun Explosion Kills Two at Air School

The War Department authorizes the following:

At the Air Service Balloon School, Arcadia, Cal., September 20, at 5.30 p. m., due to an explosion of a dummy gun used by a bombing detail to simulate artillery fire, Guy Wehland, private, first class, Sixty-fifth Balloon Company, was killed, and Ray Bailey Thompson, private, first class, Sixty-fifth Balloon Company, and James Lockwood Rumney, private, first class, Fifty-second Balloon Company, were seriously injured. Pvt. Thompson Thompson died at 7 p. m. the same date. He is a son of Mrs Nettie B. Thompson, Clay, N. Y.

Save for Your Country or Slave for the Hun.

Salt Packers Agree to Use Only Standard-Size Sacks

Salt producers, at a conference with officials of the Food Administration, lined up solidly in the campaign for conservation of war necessities. Their product, which has been packed in almost countless sizes and styles of package, will be put up in only a few standard-sized sacks and when packed in wood the barrels, where possible, will be hooped with wood instead of steel.

The first measure will save large quantities of cotton; the other will conserve steel. Salt hereafter, when packed in cotton, may be had in only 5, 10, 25 pound or larger sacks. Proportionately, a 1-pound sack will contain 50 per cent more cotton than a 5-pound sack, and in addition makes a needless drain upon labor.

AGENTS NOT NEEDED TO DEAL WITH WAR INDUSTRIES BOARD

Mr. Baruch Opposed to Employment of Attorneys for That Purpose by Business Interests.

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

B. M. Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board, at his regular conference with the Washington newspaper correspondents yesterday emphasized the desire of the board to get the view of every citizen as to business conditions and matters affecting the welfare of his special industry, but asserted that the employment by such citizens of attorneys or agents to present their cases was both unnecessary and undesired.

He called attention to the fact that some time ago the War Industries Board had issued a special bulletin on the subject warning business men against employment of men as representatives who claim influence with members of the War Industries Board or divisions of the board. He denied that such influence existed to the extent of value to business men. Mr. Baruch said that with the War Industries Board every citizen is on an equal footing and any cause that needs special pleading is liable to prejudice. The board wants to hear everybody on matters of importance and Mr. Baruch stated he saw as many as he could.

Trying to Decentralize Work.

An effort is being made by Mr. Baruch to decentralize the work of the board where possible so that each individual citizen interested can get his hearing locally and not be forced to come to Washington. The local organization of the resources and conversion section of the War Industries Board is being used in this connection.

Mr. Baruch said that there existed some confusion in the minds of business men as to the functions of the War Industries Board in the matter of contracts. He pointed out that the board did not originate any contracts and that it simply cleared contracts originating elsewhere with the Government by directing the flow of materials to fill those contracts.

Profiteering Charge.

Another point touched on by Mr. Baruch in his conference was in connection with some reports that certain allies of the United States in the present war were profiteering at the expense of the United States through sales made to various agencies of this Government. Mr. Baruch said he did not believe this to be true. Quoting figures obtained from the War Trade Board he showed that the reexport business of Great Britain in 1918 had decreased 86 per cent from the reexport business of 1913, and that there was a falling off of 70 per cent in the direct export business of the United Kingdom between 1913 and 1918.

POSTAL FRAUD ORDERS.

The Postmaster General has issued fraud orders against A. L. Britton, at 327 West Fifty-seventh Street, New York, and W. C. McMaster, at Holly Bluff, Miss.

LIST OF CURTAILMENTS MADE TO DATE IN CONSUMPTION BY MANUFACTURERS OF STEEL, IRON AND OTHER MATERIALS BY ORDER OF WAR INDUSTRIES BOARD

B. M. Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board, authorizes the following:

The steady development of plans of the War Industries Board for the conservation of material, labor, fuel, transportation, and other essential elements to the end that the maximum resources and energy of this country shall be put forth in the winning of the war has resulted in the curtailment of several industries.

The greatest drive by the War Industries Board is in the conservation of iron and steel, of which the shortage is heavy now and growing heavier. In connection with the plans of conservation through curtailment of supply to industries not manufacturing for the war purposes, B. M. Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board; J. Leonard Replogle, steel administrator, and other officials of the board have presented to representatives of the steel and iron industry plans for stimulating production that will assist in reducing the shortage and meeting the war demands. But there is to be a continuance of conservation measures, and curtailment of industries will continue and be extended so long as shortage in essential war material exists.

LIST OF CURTAILMENTS SO FAR MADE.

The Priorities Division of the War Industries Board has compiled this list of industry curtailments so far made:

Passenger automobiles.—For the last six months of 1918 curtailed to 25 per cent of 1917 production, provided the manufacturer will limit his purchases of materials, equipment, and supplies to such as are absolutely necessary to match up stocks on hand.

Cutlery.—For the last four months of 1918 curtailed to 70 per cent of the production of the last four months of 1917, which 70 per cent shall include Government orders.

Stoves.—For the last four months of 1918 curtailed to 50 per cent of the production of the last four months of 1917, which 50 per cent shall include Government orders.

Black galvanized and enameled ware.—For the last four months of 1918 curtailed to 50 per cent of the production of the last four months of 1917, which 50 per cent shall include Government orders.

Burial goods.—Curtailed to 2,200 tons of the iron and steel for the 12 months' schedule.

Clothes wringers.—For the last four months of 1918 curtailed to two-thirds of the production of the last four months of 1917.

Corsets.—For the last four months of 1918 curtailed to 40 per cent of the production of the last four months of 1917.

Metal beds.—For the last four months of 1918 curtailed to 50 per cent of the production of the last four months of 1917, which 50 per cent shall include Government and allies' orders, and that no brass beds be built except from stock now on hand and no brass or brass scrap be purchased.

Boilers and radiators.—For the last four months of 1918 curtailed to 40 per cent of the production of the last four months of 1917 and all production and sale shall be under license from the War Industries Board or for Government buildings.

Breweries.—All brewery products cease on and after December 1, 1918.

Baby buggies.—For the last four months of 1918 curtailed 50 per cent of the production of the last four months of 1917, and that they be given a Class "C" rating for enough metal to match up stocks now on hand, provided discard steel only shall be used.

Composite roofing.—Manufacturers restricted to production and sale to buildings built by the Government and the allies or under license from the War Industries Board.

Sporting goods.—For the last four months of 1918 curtailed as compared with production for the last four months of 1917, as follows: Tennis balls, 40 per cent; footballs and equipment, 60 per cent; baseballs, bats, and equipment, 60 per cent; golf balls and golf clubs, 40 per cent; no athletic clothing manufactured after the stocks on hand have been used up.

U. S. Marine Missing From the Missanabie

The Navy Department is advised by Admiral Sims that Corpl. Ezra J. Miller, United States Marine Corps, is reported missing from the steamship Missanabie, which was sunk on September 10. No other casualties among Navy or Marine personnel on board this ship. Next of kin, father, Jacob Miller, Tamaroa, Ill.

Press dispatches on September 11 told of the sinking of the Missanabie, a Canadian Pacific passenger liner, westbound from an English port with passengers and mail for the United States.

French and British Navy Officials Congratulate U. S. on New Radio Station

Secretary Daniels has received the following dispatch from the French minister of marine, in response to the message sent on the opening of the new high-power radio station at Annapolis:

"It is with great satisfaction that I hear about the completion of the radio station at Annapolis, that will render closer the communications between our two countries. I am glad that the first message I am sending your Excellency is a message of victory; that the United States and France, which destiny brings together at each great crisis of humanity, are once more united for the defense of democracy and right. Their splendid soldiers and sailors are triumphing on all the battlefields, and are saving the liberty of the world."

Secretary Daniels also has received the following message from Sir Eric Geddes, first lord of the British Admiralty:

"I congratulate you warmly on the completion of the Annapolis wireless station, which forms another valuable link between the allied countries in Europe. It is symbolic of our close union, and will be invaluable as a reinforcement of present cables in event of a breakdown."

NO CHANGE IN FREIGHT RATES ON SAND, GRAVEL AND STONE

Director General McAdoo authorizes the following:

The Railroad Administration has given very careful and thorough consideration to applications from shippers of sand, gravel, and crushed stone to modify the increases in freight rates brought about by General Order No. 28, by substituting some other basis for the uniform advance of 1 per cent per 100 pounds provided in the order.

Will Consider Individual Cases.

The conclusion has been reached that no other general basis can consistently be applied, but that in line with the announcement made by the Director General at the time General Order No. 28 was issued, consideration will be immediately given to all individual cases where the increases under the general order have brought about unnecessary hardships, or excessive rates, under existing conditions.

Will Receive Preferred Attention.

It is expected that the shippers who feel that the increased rates brought about by the application of General Order No. 28 are excessive in specific instances will present applications for modification of such rates on these commodities to one of the several district freight traffic committees on which the shipping public is represented; these committees having been created since these applications were filed with the administration. The committees will be requested to give preferred attention to these applications.

"The postmaster will display this poster conspicuously in the post-office lobby—A. S. Burleson, Postmaster General."

PROCEDURE FOR EXECUTING SHIPPERS' EXPORT DECLARATION

The War Trade Board announces, in a new ruling (W. T. B. R. 219), that the following procedure must be followed in executing shipper's export declarations for shipments which are covered in part by individual export licenses and which as to the balance are to be licensed by a collector of customs:

Immediately under the export license number must be listed the goods covered by that license. If the number of items is too great to list individually, a general description may be used to conform with Schedule B (Department of Commerce—Classification of Commodities).

Immediately under the items covered by individual licenses will be written a statement similar to the following: "To be licensed by a collector of customs." Immediately following this statement will be either a detailed list of the commodities or a general description to conform with Schedule B.

In every instance where a general description is used there must be attached to one copy of the shipper's export declaration an invoice describing the goods in detail, and such invoice must be divided to show what items are to be licensed by the collector and what items are covered by individual licenses and the number of such licenses.

This invoice will be attached to and returned with that copy of the shipper's export declaration which is rendered to the War Trade Board by the collector of customs.

Liberty Bond or Liberty Bound, which will you have it?

WORK OF CONGRESS BRIEFLY TOLD

SENATE.

The finance committee now considering the war revenue bill yesterday amended the House measure so as to exempt from income taxes the whole salary of officers on active duty in the field or at sea. The House bill granted an exemption only up to $3,500. The normal tax rates on individual incomes as provided for by the House were adopted, the rates being 6 per cent on the taxable income not in excess of $4,000, and 12 per cent on the taxable income above that sum. House definitions of "net income" were agreed to and practically the entire definition of "gross income." This morning the committee heard Vice Chairman Piez, of the Shipping Board, on certain provisions of the bill which he believes will affect shipyard workers.

The subcommittee of the judiciary committee appointed to investigate the circumstances attending the purchase of a newspaper with funds alleged to have been supplied by brewing interests, as provided for in the Jones resolution, held its first meeting this morning. The investigation proper will not begin until the subcommittee determines the authority it has and the scope of the inquiry.

HOUSE.

Government control during the war of the price, supply, production, and distribution of certain metals essential to war work progressed another step yesterday when the House adopted the conference report on the pending bill and sent it to the Senate.

The resolution authorizing the readmission to the United States of resident aliens who have joined the military forces of the allies was passed.

A bill was passed under which wire tapping, interference with the delivery of telegraph messages, and embezzlement or theft of funds from telegraph and telephone companies while they are under Government control are made offenses against the Federal Government and punishment provided. Under existing law such offenses are punishable only under State statutes.

An appropriation was asked by the War Department amounting to $7,800 to reimburse civilians for arms and ammunition seized by the United States troops during labor troubles in Colorado in 1914.

The War Trade Board, after consultation with the United States Food Administration, announces in a new ruling (W. T. B. R. 239) that applications for licenses to export the following commodity will be considered when presented in accordance with the rules and regulations of the War Trade Board:

CURTAILMENTS TO DATE

Gas stoves and gas appliances.—For the last four months of 1918 curtailed to 50 per cent of the production for the last four months of 1917, all copper eliminated except that on hand, which should be conserved for repairs to existing installation.

Automobile pneumatic tires.—War Industries Board will deal with rubber industry as a controlled industry. Using as a basis the production for the 18 months ending June 30, 1918, the maximum production of each manufacturer for the last 4 months of 1918 is fixed at 50 per cent of the average 4 months' period production during the 18 months' period.

Tin plate.—For the last three months of 1918 curtailed the use of steel 30 per cent from consumption of the last three months of 1917, an estimated saving of approximately 150,000 tons of steel.

Soft drinks and mineral waters—Effective November 1, the production of non-alcoholic beverages (other than near beers which have been prohibited after December 1) including the manufacture of fruit juices, water, concentrated extracts, syrups, and carbonic acid gas, courtailed on the basis of 50 per cent per annum based on the production for the calendar year of 1917; that is, no month's production shall exceed 50 per cent of the production of the corresponding month of the previous year. Grape juice, cider and loganberry juice products of this year's harvest may be produced, but the restriction must apply to the year 1919.

Refrigerators—For the last four months of 1918 curtailed 33 1/3 per cent in iron and steel of the consumption for the last four months of 1917, with order for substitution of zinc plate where possible.

OUTLINES COMMITTEE PROGRAM FOR DISTRIBUTION OF COTTON

The following statement is authorized by Charles J. Brand, chairman of the Committee on Cotton Distribution selected by the War Industries Board with the approval of the President:

The Committee on Cotton Distribution will establish offices immediately.

The committee plans to exercise its supervision through existing customary channels by controlling the quantity and quality of cotton used by domestic and foreign consumers. This they believe can be done without disturbing to any appreciable extent the existing facilities and organizations for marketing and distributing the crop.

The committee will require both domestic and foreign consumers to take a fair and equitable proportion of the grades below middling.

BRITISH STANDARD CLOTHS.

Commercial Attache Philip B. Kennedy, of London, has transmitted particulars of the cost of British standard cloths. These specifications may be inspected at the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce or its district offices upon referring to file No. 20166.—Commerce Reports.

CAMPAIGN STARTS TO CONSERVE TIN AS PRIME WAR ESSENTIAL

B. M. Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board, authorizes the following:

Centralizing efforts for the conservation of tin as a prime war essential, the War Industries Board has campaigns on throughout its subdivisions for reductions in alloys and substitutions of other material and mineral for tin wherever such is possible.

The pulp and paper section has undertaken its part of this campaign along two lines—saving of pulp and paper by reduction of supplies to lesser essential industries, and encouragement of the greater use of pulp and paper in the manufacture of cardboard substitutes for containers heretofore made from tin plate. It is hoped to have the results of these lines of endeavor balance each other, with the effect of making better provision for the soldiers fighting the war, and of protecting and preserving the many industries dependent on the use of containers to carry products to civilian consumers.

Success is Gratifying.

In their efforts the officials of the pulp and paper section are meeting with gratifying success through the single plan of bringing together the users of containers and the makers of paper and cardboard boxes for consultation as to the needs of the former, in the character of container required, and the ability of the latter to supply such a container from their material. Whys and methods of substitution are progressing rapidly.

Complete reports covering all details of their business have been requested by the Pulp and Paper Section from set-up box manufacturers, folding-box manufacturers, manufacturers of medical drug and chemical boxes, fiber container manufacturers, corrugated container manufacturers, manufacturers of fiber cans, manufacturers of egg cartons, fiber specialists, private or consumer plants, and consumers of cardboard not otherwise classified. The purpose is to gain accurate knowledge of the uses to which the cardboard is put by the box manufacturers.

Called on to Report.

Board mills are called on also to report complete statistics for the current and previous month of tonnage shipped and percentage of total tonnage on file under this classification:

Class 1.—Board or board fabricated into containers, boxes, or other products for shipment to the War and Navy Departments, the Emergency Fleet Corporation, or the equivalent of allied Governments.

Class 2.—Board or board fabricated into containers, boxes, and other products for shipment to other branches of the United States Government, Liberty loan committees, war-savings stamp committees, and for war work of the Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., Knights of Columbus, the Salvation Army, and other institutions recognized by the Government in connection with overseas or other war work.

Class 3.—Board or board fabricated into containers, boxes, or other products used for the operation of or transportation of materials required by railroads, merchant marine, public-service companies, coal or other mines, oil wells and refineries producing material required for war work, surgical instruments, medical drug and chemical, foodstuff, feed, and food seed concerns.

Class 4—Board or board fabricated into containers, boxes or other products used in the manufacture and transportation of commodities required for the winning of the war or for the public welfare during the war, such as soaps, laundry supplies, necessary wearing apparel, etc.

Class 5—Board or board fabricated into containers, boxes or other products required for all other purposes.

Priorities Certificates.

Priorities certificates will be issued to the board mills based on these classifications in the order given as measuring essentiality and shortage which determines preference treatment by the priorities division of the War Industries Board.

Each mill will report also whether all freight cars leaving its plant have been loaded to utmost capacity consistent with good delivery; whether the board machines are supplemented with standard save-all systems kept in reasonably good condition, and what conservation has been effected in fuel, labor, and raw materials. These reports are to be made monthly under the ruling of the priorities division placing board mills provisionally on the preference list for coal and supplies.

STUDENTS TO BEGIN TRAINING IN ARMY CORPS ON OCTOBER 1

The War Department authorizes the following:

On October 1, in the Hawaiian Islands and Porto Rico and all parts of the United States, under the direction of the commanding officers assigned by the War Department, an inception of the new army, the Students' Army Training Corps, will be celebrated with a patriotic program. The new soldiers will on that date take up their active share of the responsibility of protecting the ideals of democracy. It is not to be underemphasized that the two sections of the Students' Army Training Corps are parts of the active branch of the Army.

Induction into this organization brings with it no guarantee of deferred service. It was not organized for the purpose of detaining soldiers in classrooms until they could be given degrees, certificates, or diplomas. Its purpose is to utilize with economy the educational machinery of the United States in the training of soldiers. In some instances these men may be ready for foreign service before the civilians who await the day of their selection.

To meet the war emergency of using this invaluable equipment of 500 colleges and 147 technical institutions as preofficer schools, and also to give thousands of young boys additional intellectual and technical training, which will make of them not only better soldiers, but better men, the usual regulations which have surrounded the matriculation of students have been considerably relaxed. To-day the colleges with units of the Students' Army Training Corps have been advised to admit registrants who have been graduated from four-year high-school courses, or who have had the educational equivalent.

Not Confined to Larger Colleges.

The S. A. T. C. is not confined to the larger colleges. It includes the smaller ones and also normal schools which offer 2 years of collegiate work. The units are authorized upon the basis of both the normal enrollment of able-bodied students of 18 years and over, and upon academic standards. The approved schools must have an enrollment of 100 or more such students to have assigned to them commanding officers and military instructors. Approved colleges having a normal enrollment of 50, whenever possible, have been combined with nearby institutions according to their geographic location, and share the same staff of Army officers.

The vocational section of the Students' Corps has been operating since April of this year. At this time in 147 schools soldiers voluntarily inducted through their draft boards or selected in answer to a call from the Provost Marshal General are being trained in trades essential to war. Some are grammar-school graduates or men having the equivalent of that education. Others have additional education, but have asked for this service in which they are already half-trained or skilled. These soldiers are being trained 55,000 at a time. The courses last two months. At the end of each two months, fresh contingents are assigned to the vocational section.

ASKS CONGRESS TO SUSPEND MIXED FLOUR CLAUSE IN ACT

The Food Administration makes public the following letter from Mr. Hoover to Representative Henry T. Rainey:

SEPTEMBER 13, 1918.

DEAR MR. RAINEY: I inclose herewith an amendment that I would like to suggest to the revenue act providing for the suspension of the mixed-flour laws during the period of the war. You will recollect that this is a tax measure, and, while it yields practically no result from taxation, from a revenue point of view, it is seriously cumbering the international food program in this emergency, in that, at the recent conference of the food administrators of all the allied countries in which the food resources of all countries were carefully considered, it was decided that it would be necessary to mix 20 per cent of other cereal flours with the wheat flour during the coming year, and probably for the duration of the war, if we are to provide an ample bread supply and to enable ourselves to carry over any resources as against the possible deficiencies in next year's harvest.

Common Duty of All.

I entered these conferences with the instructions of the President that it was the duty of all those fighting against Germany to eat at a common table, and it appears to us that it is only a portion of our national duty that our peoples should undertake the same loaf as that provided in the allied countries. Furthermore, our people are anxious to participate with the allies in such sacrifices as are necessary to win the war. You will recognize that a wheat bread made with a mixture of some 20 per cent of other cereals is a wholly nutritious and palatable loaf. In allied countries they compel the mixture of cereals in the flour, and, whereas our transportation conditions do not make it desirable for us to compel this issue, we could provide to a large portion of our population a mixed flour of this character. Under the existing law it is practically impossible to secure such a mixture, as the detailed requirements under the act are such that no miller can in principle comply with the tax requirements without such expense as to make the operation prohibitive.

Voluntary at Present.

At the present moment we are compelled to rely upon the voluntary action of the individual consumer to mix these flours for bread making. Not only does it impose difficulties in household management, but, while the great majority will follow, to the best of their ability, many will not comply, and in any event it imposes an unnecessary difficulty on the householder. As to the actual character of the mixture of different flours, this can be provided by regulations under the food act so that anything in the nature of adulteration can be prevented.

I am extremely anxious that the committee should entertain this matter favorably, as it not only will result in great practical conservation, but also will enable us to carry out in practical good faith the obligations that we have entered upon. This is entirely for the period of the war and simply as a necessary war measure, and it seems to me, therefore, that all of the technical disputes over this question can be suspended in the face of national necessity.

Yours, faithfully,

HERBERT HOOVER.

HON. HENRY T. RAINEY,
Ways and Means Committee,
House of Representatives,
Washington, D. C.

"LABOR MUST BE HIRED INTELLIGENTLY" WARNING BY WAR INDUSTRIES CHAIRMAN

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

The inauguration of the United States Employment Service as a branch of the Labor Department does not relieve the employer of the responsibility of keeping his own house in order, declared B. M. Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board.

If the Government assists in finding men it lies with the employer to do his part in putting his employment practice on a scientific basis. It will certainly be no recommendation for an employer, in the eyes of his local employment board, if he admits that he still continues the antiquated hiring-and-firing process, or that he has a high labor turnover, or that he has no department charged with responsibility for maintaining proper working conditions. Industrial experience proves that employment problems can best be solved by having a separate organization in a factory prepared and equipped to deal with questions of personnel by themselves. The prompt discovery and analysis of unfavorable working conditions can only be made by a central employment bureau.

Courses in Instruction.

Even at this point, however, the Government has not deserted the employer. Realizing that even before the war the demand for well-trained employment managers was increasing faster than the supply and that the exigencies of war work have emphasized the tendency, the several departments of the Government, the Department of Labor, the War Department, the Navy Department, and the United States Shipping Board, through the War Industries Board, have arranged for courses in employment management to be given in some of the leading schools of the country. The courses of instruction have been outlined by Capt. Boyd Fisher, who before entering the Army was vice president of the Executive Club of Detroit. To these courses the employer may send men or women from his organization who will be drilled in the latest and best employment management practice by some of the leading authorities in the country.

The course consists of lectures, the discussion of case materials, assigned readings, the preparation of executive reports, and practical research in an employment department. The time is divided about equally between study and practice. In the lectures the major part of the time is devoted to the systematic review of present standard practice in employment management and personnel supervision. A small amount of time is given to the general bearings of the labor problems, to various topics in business management, and to the preparation and interpretation of business statistics. Emphasis is laid upon the shop studies. In the offices of carefully chosen establishments the students are placed under the supervision of employment managers, and are expected to assist in selecting men, making job analysis, rating employees, determining standard working conditions, and in keeping records. Such a program requires the full time of the student for six weeks, and necessitates the earnest and intelligent use of his energies. Nine hours a day are definitely scheduled.

Arrangements have been completed with nine universities in or near industrial centers for the institution of courses in employment management; other schools will be added as the demand justifies. The colleges now conducting classes are: Harvard, in cooperation with Boston University and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Boston; Columbia University, New York; Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh; University of Rochester, Rochester, N. Y.; University of Washington, Seattle; and the University of California, Berkeley.

There is no charge for tuition in these courses, aside from necessary living expenses and a small sum for books and supplies. The War Industries Board, acting for the governmental departments listed above, urges employers to take advantage of these courses and develop an employment department. Of the 172 students who have been graduated in the courses already finished many were mature employment managers, coming to the course with a solid background of industrial experience and with the problems of their own plants constantly in mind. These experienced men, eager to learn of new methods and new devices, broadened their own points of view and discovered new avenues of approach to the solution of their own problems.

Understanding With Candidates.

It will be understood that such candidates furnished by employers are to return to their sponsors, and be utilized by them in employment work. In each of the courses conducted thus far there have been present men of wide experience, who have taken the opportunity to review their policies in the light of systematic knowledge. There have been present also younger men intending to specialize upon interviewing, labor accounting, wage setting, or other branches of practice, so as to fit themselves for special positions in employment departments.

To employers who have no representatives to send, but who desire to have persons trained for them, the employment management division offers its services in suggesting men or women of satisfactory ability and experience. For a limited number of persons, who desire to become employment executives, but who have not a definite connection, the division will open its courses. Such registered students constitute a reserve, which the division recruits for the purpose of satisfying the demands made upon it by Government departments and private employers. To be accepted as a reserve, an applicant must possess exceptional qualifications.

Secretary of State.

WARNING BY MR. BARUCH.

Where employment departments have been established under competent executives, the waste of turnover has been uniformly reduced, and employees have been rendered more efficient through proper selection, assignment, training, and supervision. In no case, of which there is record, has an establishment which once tested the benefits of employment work of this character, ever returned to the old methods of permitting employment functions to be handled by a variety of minor executives.

Employers as well as individual applicants will be furnished complete information regarding these war emergency courses in employment management by writing to Capt. Boyd Fisher, 717 Thirteenth Street NW., Washington, D. C.

Acting Quartermaster General Wood in Press Interview Explains in Detail the Operation of Army Allotments Clearing Up Some Points That Have Been Misunderstood

Interview by Brig. Gen. R. E. Wood, Acting Quartermaster General, on Army allotments, September 23, 1918:

There has been a great deal of confusion and misunderstanding regarding soldiers' allotments, the public finding difficulty in drawing the line between the regular Army allotment, which is paid by the War Department, and which has been a well-established War Department activity since 1899, and the allotments which, supplemented by a Government allowance, are paid by the Treasury Department, through the Bureau of War-Risk Insurance, an activity created by the war-risk insurance act of October 6, 1917. The Army allotment system is entirely separate and distinct from the war-risk insurance allotment and allowance system, and the two should not be confounded.

The Original Allotment Law.

March 2, 1899, Congress, in response to request from the War Department, made provision so that an enlisted man could have a designated portion of his pay turned over regularly to his family, wherever he, the enlisted man, might be serving. This need was made urgent by the fact that a large portion of the United States Army at that time was serving in the Philippines. There was then no generous provision like the war-risk insurance act to care for a soldier's dependents, so it was found necessary to provide for the payment of a certain portion of the money due him to his family monthly and to obviate the awkward method which had prevailed up to that time of compelling a soldier to draw his pay in the Philippines, secure a Government check or money order, and then forward it to the family back in the States, which would require from 40 to 60 days. The regulations which were issued putting this law into effect limited the allotment privilege in the States solely to the soldier who wished to make allotments to his dependents, but it permitted soldiers on duty outside of the limits of the United States to make allotments to savings institutions and allotments for other general purposes. This provision was very generally used by the soldiers at that time and resulted in great benefit to the men and their families.

Law As First Drawn.

The law, as originally drawn, provided that a full month should intervene between the date of the accruing of the pay and the date of payment to the dependent or designated allottee. This provision was made in order that the disbursing officer might be able to establish the fact that the money had been actually withheld from the soldier's pay. With the great increase of the Army in 1917 and the extraordinary increase in the number of allotments it was felt that this requirement of the intervention of a complete month before the money which had been earned by the soldier could be paid to the dependent would work a great hardship and was, in fact, an injustice to the men themselves, and steps were taken to have the law so amended that the payment could be made promptly at the end of the month in which the money was earned. This amendment was secured and became a law October 6, 1917. Steps were taken at once to apply the new method of payment. The money due for September, 1917, was paid, under the provisions of the old law, November 1. Another payment was made in the latter part of November in the endeavor to take up the slack; the payment for November was made on or about the middle of December; payment for December was made January 16, 1918, and so on until the intervening month was completely absorbed.

Payments of allotments to soldiers' families made by the War Department during 1918 have been made as follows: January 22, February 16, March 15, April 11, May 8, June 7, July 3, August 5, and September 9. The issuance of checks begins in each case with the first of the month, and the dates given are the dates when payments are completed. The delay in the payment of September is due to the very large increase in allotments, amounting to something more than 200,000, received because of the change in the law and regulations governing the war-risk insurance act which limit allotments to the Treasury Department to the amounts necessary to support allowances, i. e., $15 and $20, respectively. Another reason for the delay is that the first day of the month occurred on Sunday and the second was Labor Day, which interposed two workless days at the beginning of the payments.

It is planned to make the complete payment of these allotments with the last day of the month in which they become due. This desired result will be attained when the disbursing office is provided with sufficient space and facilities. Because of this lack of space, in order to make the payments at the dates given above, it is necessary to work portions of the force in such night shifts as to make 24 hours continuous work each day.

Distinct From War Risk.

Attention is invited to the fact that these War Department allotments, which are paid by the central disbursing division of the office of the Quartermaster General, are entirely distinct from and have no connection with the War Risk allotments which are handled by and paid by the Treasury Department. The War Department receives hundreds of inquiries relative to allotments which are made by soldiers under the provisions of the war risk insurance act, which is a matter that pertains exclusively to the Treasury Department and not to the War Department. These cases when they are received, however, are put in the proper channels for the necessary action and the War Department has cheerfully cooperated with the War Risk Insurance Bureau of the Treasury Department in the endeavor to help them to perform the extraordinary task which that bureau has been called upon to perform.

The amendment to the allotment law, which became effective October 6, 1917, also enabled commissioned officers and permanent civilian employees to make allotments of their pay, giving the officers the privilege that heretofore had been restricted to the enlisted men. Nearly one-third of the officers of the Army have taken advantage of this privilege.

The Army allotment law as now amended, allows officers and enlisted men of the United States Army to make allotments of their pay at any time, at any place, and for any legitimate purpose.

Over Million on File.

September 22, 1918, the total active allotments on file in the office of the central disbursing division, office of the Quartermaster General, which has the duty of making payment thereon, numbered 1,000,765. These allotments include all allotments for Liberty bonds. For the second Liberty loan, subscriptions were made by officers and enlisted men of the Army amounting to more than $90,000,000, of which $54,000,000 were allotted on the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. The Army subscriptions to the first, second, and third Liberty loans amounted to $122,000,000. Of this amount approximately $100,000,000 were paid for through the Army allotment system.

More than 1,200 clerks are engaged in the work of receiving, recording, and paying these allotments and conducting the necessary correspondence.

The total amount paid for allotments since January 1 is $18,305,406.75, this being exclusive of allotments for Liberty bonds.

Liberty Bond Deliveries.

The second Liberty bonds subscribed for by officers and enlisted men of the Army are now being delivered from the first floor of the Munsey Building, Washington, D. C. All subscribers for Liberty bonds through the Army allotment system were instructed to indicate on the allotment form used in making the subscription the name and address of the party to whom they wished the bond sent, and in making deliveries of these bonds the Quartermaster General's office is having some considerable trouble because of the change of address of the persons to whom bonds are to be sent. When bonds are returned for such reason the officer or soldier making the allotment is immediately communicated with and the proper address requested. The last payment on the second Liberty bonds was due in August from pay for the month of July, and bonds are being forwarded as soon as report is received from the field of completion of payment. All of these bonds are sent by registered mail, the post office having established a registry branch in the Munsey Building for the purpose of facilitating this work. Up to and including September 21, 1918, a total of 113,976 of these bonds were delivered to the members of families of officers and soldiers widely scattered throughout this country. Many of the officers and soldiers have requested that their bonds be held in trust until their return from service abroad, and this is being done, the bonds in these cases being cared for by the allotment branch of the central disbursing division, Quartermaster General's office. The daily delivery of these thousands of bonds going to widely scattered points in this country will necessarily have a most helpful bearing upon the fourth Liberty loan campaign.

Prisoners of War.

In connection with these allotments there has been considerable controversy in the papers as to whether or not they will be continued when the officers and soldiers who make the allotments are taken prisoners of war. The payment of the allotment is not dependent upon the fact of whether or not the officer or soldier has actually been paid. If payment is not made to the allotter for any period of months, provided he is still in active service and on the Army rolls, the allotment will be paid until discontinued by the allotter himself or because of his death or separation from the service. If a man has made an allotment, the fact that he has been made a prisoner will in no wise interfere with it. There have been several cases of officers and men, with dependents, who have been made prisoners who did not make allotments prior to their capture. In these cases no money can be paid to their families, but the Quartermaster General's office has entered into a working arrangement with the Red Cross, which has kindly volunteered to handle the matter through its representatives in Switzerland. Communication is established with the prisoner, and if, in any form whatever, he indicates his desire to make an allotment to the members of his family, payment is made on receipt of such indicated wish, no matter in what form it may be received. Payments are being made of allotments to dependents of men, the only authority in such cases being the statement in a letter to some member of the man's family that he has made or wishes to make an allotment of a certain amount of his pay for that purpose. Quite recently an officer who had been captured wrote through the Red Cross to the chaplain of his regiment that he desired to make an allotment, and the allotment is being paid to the officer's family on the strength of a letter received from the regimental chaplain, giving the facts in the case.

Red Cross Investigations.

In all cases where word is received from the dependents of officers and soldiers that no allotment has been received, but there is reason to believe that the officer or soldier intended to make the allotment, or had made it, the matter is taken up with the Red Cross, which investigates the condition of the family, and if it is a case of urgent need tenders a loan to meet the emergency until arrangements can be made with the officer or enlisted man to indicate his wishes in the matter so that the allotment check can be regularly forwarded and the loan made by the Red Cross repaid from the money thus received. No trivial technicalities are allowed in any way to interfere with carrying out the wishes of officers and soldiers. If they can be ascertained the family will receive the allotment. The Red Cross in this as in other matters has been exceedingly helpful, and has loyally and actively cooperated with the finance division of the Quartermaster General's office in meeting these various needs as they arise. When it is ascertained that help is needed by the family of an officer or soldier the help is invariably afforded.

Men Reported Missing.

Under the law no payments can be made of allotments to the families of those who are reported missing, and a provision has been drawn and submitted to Congress which, if it becomes a law, will enable payments to be made until such time as report is received showing the actual status of the allotter, provided that the allotment is being made for the support of family, relatives, or other dependents.

Payments of allotments are made by the central disbursing division, Office of the Quartermaster General, one of the two finance divisions of the Quartermaster General's office which are under the direction of Brig. Gen H. M. Lord.

The payment of allotments, however, is but one of the many important activities of the central disbursing division. In addition to the payment of allotment the central disbursing division pays all retired officers, all retired enlisted men, and during August paid the vouchers of 1,367 officers on duty overseas and the accounts of 4,883 officers on duty in this country.

Final Payments.

This office also settles the final pay of officers separated from the service, has the settlement of all militia pay rolls, and the payment of all enlisted men in and about the vicinity of Washington, some 8,000 in number, in the case of this enlisted personnel making settlement, also in addition to their pay of commutation of quarters, rations, heat, and light. It also has a mileage section which pays an average of 200 officers' mileage accounts daily. Some 5,000 civilian employees are also paid by this division, while the meal tickets of all the hundreds of thousands of drafted men are forwarded to the central disbursing division for settlement. The payment of all model B motor trucks and parts of motor vehicles of all kinds which were contracted for by the Motor Transport Service of the Quartermaster General's office is another of the activities of this division, while all transportation accounts including the travel of officers and men, and the movement of supplies of all descriptions both by freight and express, and the settlement of all cable and telegraph accounts of the Army are centered in this office. The total disbursement of this division for August was $42,242,970.25.

Pay System of the Army.

I do not know whether you gentlemen are interested or not, but I thought you might possibly be interested in knowing something about the pay system of the Army. I spoke to you about the supply system of the Army a few weeks ago, but the Quartermaster Department also runs a big financial institution; it handles the pay of the Army. We have effected a great improvement in the dates of payment of troops at the camps and cantonments; back in September, 1917, troops were usually paid around the 25th of the month following; now they are paid between the last day of the month and the 10th of the month following. For the month of August 21 out of 32 camps show an average payment of 4¾ days—that is, they were all paid before the 5th of the month. Now, we have no control over the payments in France, and for obvious reasons the payments over there are much more difficult than over here, but it is a separate problem and is handled by the American Expeditionary Force authorities over there. We turn over the money in lump and they have their own system of payment. The principal difficulty has been in regard to allotments, and there has been a great deal of complaint and misunderstanding about the whole system of allotments.

* * * * *

Q. Do you want to tell us the total amount of the pay roll?

A. I don't see why we shouldn't. For 1,000,000 officers and men in France it takes $40,000,000 per month. One million officers and men in this country would be 80 per cent of that, practically.

The average time required for completing the monthly payment of troops in camps and cantonments is less than six days. This statement is based upon actual reports from 28 out of 33 camps and cantonments. I think that would compare favorably with any of the commercial enterprises in the country. Putting in force this pay card which Gen. Lord has worked out will be of the greatest assistance in paying the individual soldier—there is where the principal difficulty has been; this service record has been mislaid until they got that service record, and that involved the organization commander; the organization might have gone abroad, or vice versa. With this pay card, which was put in force here some months ago, the soldier can draw his money before he leaves the post, even if it is before the first of the month; he is not interested in the war-service record—formerly he was.

Uniforms for Officers.

Q. On this question of uniforms for officers, which could be furnished at cost, they will be ready probably within the next two or three months?

A. We expect on the 15th of November.

Q. But if they are not ready the officers will be permitted to buy the standard cloth from tailors or will they have to buy it all through the department. So that if an officer comes and wants a uniform out of standard cloth he can get it from his tailor, if that is War Department regulation. Tailors are very much interested in the matter of furnishing this cloth.

A. If he can get standard cloth from an outside tailor he is at perfect liberty to do it. The chance is he can get the standard much cheaper through the department, unless the tailors have some cloth they bought a year ago.

NEW RED CROSS GENERAL MANAGER.

George E. Scott, who has been serving as acting general manager of the American Red Cross since the departure of Harvey D. Gibson to assume charge of the Red Cross work in France, has been appointed general manager by the war council.

RULES FOR ENROLLMENT OF STUDENTS IN NAVAL UNITS AND NAVAL SECTION OF STUDENT ARMY TRAINING CORPS

Secretary Daniels authorizes the following:

The Bureau of Navigation, Navy Department, has issued the following information regarding United States naval units and the naval section of the Student Army Training Corps:

To: All ships and stations.

Subject: United States naval units and naval section of the Student Army Training Corps.

1. Students subject to draft, desiring to enroll in the United States naval unit or naval section of the Student Army Training Corps, at certain specified institutions which have been assigned naval quotas, shall make application to the Navy Department representative, present at the institution, for entrance into the Navy.

2. Applications shall be considered in the order in which filed, and applicants shall, upon satisfactorily meeting the physical requirements for entry in the Navy, on October 1 be admitted into the Naval Reserve Force as apprentice seamen. An enrolling officer of the Navy will be present at the institution prior to October 1 for the purpose of perfecting arrangements for enrolling on or about October 1, 1918, in accordance with the regulations agreed upon by the War Department and Navy Department. The number accepted from any institution shall not exceed quota assigned to the institution, without the permission of the Navy Department.

On Active Duty Pay.

3. Students admitted into the Reserve Force shall be placed on active duty pay. The allowance to pay the cost of their lodging, subsistence, and tuition shall be at the same per diem rate as contained in the contract in existence between the institution and the War Department. The naval reservist students will make their own arrangements with the institution with regard to board, lodging, and tuition, as the Navy Department will not enter into contracts with the institutions.

4. Naval sections of the Student Army Training Corps having a naval officer as commandant will be known as the United States naval units.

5. Naval students shall wear the uniform of their rating in the Navy and shall be subject to the regulations and routine as established by the representative of the Navy Department.

6. The curricula for the United States naval units and the naval section students shall be based on a term of three months similar to that followed by the Student Army Training Corps. There shall be a preparatory course for the line and basic engineering courses to meet the engineering needs of the Navy. Instructions as to curricula will be issued by the Navy Department from time to time. Commandants of United States naval units shall, in conjunction with college authorities, arrange courses, subject to approval of Navy Department.

7. Members of the United States naval units and the naval section of the Student Army Training Corps will after a certain period be selected according to their performance and assigned to naval duty in a training camp.

Department's Representatives.

8. At institutions where no naval officer is on duty in command of the naval unit the commandant of the Student Army Training Corps will be the Navy Department's representative in command of the naval section of the Student Army Training Corps. All members of the naval section will be subject to the routine established by the commandant of the Student Army Training Corps, and they shall attend all military drills and exercises, subject to the orders of the commandant, who shall supervise the course of instruction, and shall submit such reports and recommendations as the Navy Department may request from time to time. In matters of discipline members of the navel section shall be subject to all orders of the commandant. Minor infractions of the regulations of the unit may be dealt with in the usual manner, by restriction of the privileges, etc. Offenses deserving legal disciplinary action shall be reported to the commandant of the naval district for action.

9. Prior to October 1 a special representative of the Navy Department will be present at the institution for the purpose of making the necessary arrangements with the commandant and the college authorities in order to be prepared to enroll the United States naval unit or the naval section on October 1. The mobilization division of the Bureau of Navigation will furnish the necessary special representatives of the Navy Department.

Instructions in Methods.

These representatives will be furnished instructions as to the methods of selecting and admitting students into the United States naval unit or the naval section. The accounts and service records shall be kept by the commandant of the naval district in which the institution is located. Students enrolled in the Navy will receive clothing outfits from the naval district commandant. The district commandant will handle this in a manner similar to the methods already in use for the care of men on detached duty. It is very desirable that United States naval unit and naval section students be outfitted as soon as possible. District commandants will take such action as is necessary to meet this unusual demand.

10. There are a few members of the Naval Reserve who, by former regulation, are permitted to continue their studies in college until graduation. These reservists are required to join the United States naval unit or the naval section of the Student Army Training Corps, and shall be subject to the same regulations promulgated for the control of students who enter the Navy on or about October 1. These men are not to be considered a part of the quota assigned to an institution.

11. The following institutions are assigned quotas for the strength of the United States Naval Unit or the Naval Section of the Student Army Training Corps, as indicated in Bunav Memorandum N98D FT–4827, a copy of which is appended hereto.

L. C. PALMER.

MEMORANDUM.

Subject: List of institutions at which a naval section of the Student Army Training Corps is to be established.

1. The following institutions are assigned quotas for the strength of the naval section of the Student Army Training Corps. As these institutions are selected and quotas assigned from estimates of the probable enrolled student body, it is evident that the list will have to be adjusted from time to time when reliable information becomes available.

ORDERS BY FUEL ADMINISTRATOR MODIFYING CERTAIN ORDERS RELATIVE TO SOFT COAL DISTRIBUTION IN DESIGNATED ZONES

UNITED STATES FUEL ADMINISTRATION,
Washington, D. C., September 16, 1918.

Modification No. 2 of order of June 8, 1918, relative to bituminous coal "zone M–3," modifying the provisions of said coal "zone M–3" with respect to the sale, shipment, distribution, and apportionment by the producers of bituminous coal operating in the high volatile coal producing districts of West Virginia and Kentucky in the Kenova and Thacker districts along the Norfolk & Western Railway and short-line connections:

It appearing to the United States Fuel Administrator that it is essential that the producers of bituminous coal located in the high volatile coal producing districts of West Virginia and Kentucky in the Kenova and Thacker districts along the Norfolk & Western Railway and short-line connections, be prohibited from making shipments of bituminous coal to certain sections included in "zone M–3" as described in the order of June 8, 1918, and that the apportionment of bituminous coal in that portion of the so-called "zoning system" covered by his "order relative to bituminous coal" will aid in the successful prosecution of the war.

The United States Fuel Administrator, acting under authority of an Executive order of the President of the United States, dated August 23, 1917, appointing said administrator, and of subsequent Executive orders, and in furtherance of the purpose of said orders and of the act of Congress therein referred to and approved August 10, 1917,

Hereby orders and directs that, until further or other order of the United States Fuel Administrator, and subject to revocation or modification by him from time to time and at any time hereafter, no producer (which term shall include every person, firm, corporation, or association operating as owner, lessee, or purchaser of the entire output of a mine) of bituminous coal in the high volatile coal producing districts of West Virginia and Kentucky in the Kenova and Thacker districts along the Norfolk & Western Railway and short-line connections, shall sell, ship, or distribute such coal to dealers and consumers for use and consumption within the following described section of the United States, viz:

All of the Lower Peninsula of Michigan.

Provided, however, That any such producer may ship into the territory last above described bituminous coal of special quality for use only in by-product and gas plants, and prepared sizes of bituminous coal to retail dealers for use only by domestic consumers, such shipments to be made subject to any rules and regulations which may be prescribed from time to time by the United States Fuel Administration and under the supervision of the district representative of the United States Fuel Administration in charge of the above-described producing field:

Provided, further, That this order shall not apply to bituminous coal shipped for use as railroad fuel.

This order hereby cancels the order dated September 4, 1918, entitled "Modification No. 1 of order of June 8, 1918, relative to bituminous coal 'zone M–3,' modifying the provisions of said coal 'zone M–3' with respect to the sale, shipment, distribution, and apportionment by the producers of bituminous coal operating in the high volatile coal-producing districts of West Virginia and Kentucky in the Kenova and Thacker districts along the Norfolk & Western Railway and short-line connections," from and after September 12, 1918.

This order shall be effective on and after September 17, 1918.

H. A. GARFIELD,
United States Fuel Administrator.

Washington, D. C., September 16, 1918.

Modification No. 2 of order of June 8, 1918, relative to bituminous coal "zone M—4" modifying the provisions of said coal "zone M–4" with respect to the sale, shipment, distribution, and apportionment by the producers of bituminous coal operating in the high volatile coal producing districts of Kentuky in the eastern Kentucky fields along the Chesapeake & Ohio and Sandy Valley & Elkhorn Railways and their short-line connections.

It appearing to the United States Fuel Administrator that it is essential that the producers of bituminous coal located in the high volatile coal producing districts of Kentucky in the eastern Kentucky fields along the Chesapeake & Ohio and Sandy Valley & Elkhorn Railways and their short-line connections be prohibited from making shipments of bituminous coal to certain sections included in "zone M—4" as described in the order of June 8, 1918, and that the apportionment of bituminous coal in that portion of the so-called "zoning system" covered by his "order relative to bituminous coal zone M–4" of June 8, 1918, will facilitate the movement of bituminous coal and will aid in the successful prosecution of the war,

The United States Fuel Administrator, acting under authority of an Executive order of the President of the United States, dated August 23, 1917, appointing said administrator, and of subsequent Executive orders, and in furtherance of the purpose of said orders and of the act of Congress therein referred to and approved August 10, 1917,

Hereby orders and directs that, until further or other order of the United States Fuel Administrator, and subject to revocation or modification by him from time to time and at any time hereafter, no producer (which term shall include every person, firm, corporation, or association operating as owner, lessee, or purchaser of the entire output of a mine) of bituminous coal in the high volatile coal producing districts of Kentucky in the eastern Kentucky fields along the Chesapeake & Ohio and Sandy Valley & Elkhorn Railways and their short-line connections shall sell, ship, or distribute such coal to dealers and consumers for use and consumption within the following-described section of the United States, viz:

All of the Lower Peninsula of Michigan.

Provided, however, That any such producer may ship into the territory last above described bituminous coal of special quality for use only in by-product and gas plants, and prepared sizes of bituminous coal to retail dealers for use only by domestic consumers, such shipments to be made subject to any rules and regulations which may be prescribed from time to time by the United States Fuel Administration and under the supervision of the district representative of the United States Fuel Administration in charge of the above described producing field: Provided further, That this order shall not apply to bituminous coal shipped for use as railroad fuel.

This order hereby cancels the order dated September 4, 1918, entitled "Modification No. 1 of order of June 8, 1918, relative to bituminous coal 'zone M–4,' modifying the provisions of said coal 'zone M—4' with respect to the sale, shipment, distribution, and apportionment by the producers of bituminous coal operating in the high volatile coal producing districts of Kentucky in the eastern Kentucky fields along the Chesapeake & Ohio and Sandy Valley & Elkhorn Railways and their short-line connections" from and after September 12, 1918.

Important Notice to U. S. Purchasing Agents

Purchasing agents for the various Government departments and the special United States war administrations are earnestly reminded to send to the Official U. S. Bulletin at the earliest possible moment all copy for bids to be advertised and purchase awards, in order that these may be promptly and correctly printed in the Bulletin in accordance with the orders of the Secretary of War and other heads of departments.

The task of preparing this copy for publication, with a view to absolute correctness and continuity, is a considerable one, but, with the cooperation of the purchasing agencies, should result in a great help, not only to the departments themselves, but to bidders throughout the country, all of whom, through the medium of the Official Bulletin, are desirous of keeping informed of the Government's needs.

One hundred and seventy deaths were reported for the day. Nearly all of these are the result of pneumonia following influenza.

NEW ORDER ON THE CENSORSHIP OF TELEGRAPH, TELEPHONE, AND SUBMARINE CABLES IS ISSUED

The Restrictions on Sending of Messages That Would Aid Enemy Are Extended.

Executive Order.

CENSORSHIP OF SUBMARINE CABLES, TELEGRAPH AND TELEPHONE LINES.

The Executive order of April 28, 1917, No. 2604, relating to the censorship of submarine cables, telegraph and telephone lines, is hereby amended to read as follows:

Whereas the existence of a state of war between the United States and the Imperial German Government makes it essential to the public safety that no communication of a character which would aid the enemy or its allies shall be had.

Therefore, by virtue of the power vested in me under the Constitution and by the joint resolution passed by Congress on April 6, 1917, declaring the existence of a state of war, it is ordered that all companies or other persons owning, controlling, or operating telegraph and telephone lines or submarine cables are hereby prohibited from transmitting messages to points without the United States or to points on or near the Mexican border through which messages may be dispatched for the purpose of evading the censorship herein provided and from delivering messages received from such points, except those permitted under rules and regulations to be established by the Secretary of War for telegraph and telephone lines, and by the Secretary of the Navy for submarine cables.

To these departments, respectively, is delegated the duty of preparing and enforcing rules and regulations under this order to accomplish the purpose mentioned.

This order shall take effect from date.

AMENDED REGULATION ALLOWS NEW FARM CONSTRUCTION WHEN COST DOES NOT EXCEED $1,000

LIST OF EXCEPTIONS ANNOUNCED

Highway Improvements, Extension of Buildings, and Other Work Permissible Without Special Permit of War Industries Board.

B. M. Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board, authorizes the following:

A new regulation controlling nonwar construction for the period of the war adopted by the War Industries Board authorizes new constructions for farm purposes without permit where the aggregate cost involved does not exceed $1,000.

Exceptions to General Rule.

The exceptions from the general regulation laid down by the priorities division of the War Industries Board that all nonwar construction shall be done on special permit include:

Structures, roads, and other construction projects falling within the following classification: Undertakings, cleared and approved by the War Industries Board, directly by or under contract with the War Department or the Navy Department, Shipping Board, Emergency Fleet Corporation, the Bureau of Industrial Housing and Transportation of the Department of Labor, or the United States Housing Corporation.

Repairs or Extensions.

Repairs of or extensions to existing buildings involving in the aggregate a cost not exceeding $2,500, and new construction for farm purposes involving in the aggregate a cost not exceeding $1,000.

Roadways, buildings, and other structures undertaken by or under contract with the Railroad Administration or a railroad operated by such administration.

Those directly connected with mines producing coal, metals, and ferroalloy minerals.

Public highway improvements and street pavements when expressly approved in writing by the United States Highway Council.

No building projects not falling within one of the foregoing classes shall be undertaken without a permit in writing issued by or under authority of the Chief of the Non-War Construction Section of the Priorities Division of the War Industries Board. A local representative of the Council of National Defense will report to the War Industries Board on each proposed project requiring permits.

While it is not the policy of the Government, says the War Industries Board, to interfere unnecessarily with any legitimate business, industry, or construction project it must be borne in mind that there is an imperative and constantly increasing demand for labor, material, and capital for the production and distribution of direct and indirect war needs, to satisfy which much nonwar construction must be deferred. Manufacturers and dealers may continue to supply materials for buildings or constructions started and partly completed.

RULING ON PRICES OF SOUTHERN OR YELLOW PINE LUMBER MADE

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

At a hearing of the manufacturers of southern or yellow pine lumber before the price-fixing committee of the War Industries Board on September 23, 1918, it was agreed that the ruling of June 14, 1918, fixing maximum f. o. b. mill prices on southern or yellow pine lumber should remain in effect from midnight September 23, to midnight December 23, 1918, inclusive.

It was also decided by the price-fixing committee and the representatives of Government departments that inclusive within these dates lumber prices on the lumber schedule should apply to all shipments to Government departments, including the Emergency Fleet Corporation.

It was decided by the price-fixing committee that the interpretation of the terms of sale should be as follows:

Usual Practices to Continue.

The usual trade practices shall continue, including 2 per cent off for cash within 10 days from date of invoice, to be applied to United States Government purchases as well as all others (except in special cases where former trade practice has well established net cash terms and except as to export shipments to foreign countries). In transactions, where purchasers do not avail themselves of cash discounts, the terms shall be 60 days net from date of invoice, and in such transactions the accounts may be converted into trade acceptances which do not bear interest before maturity.

As regards the requirement by the Railroad Administration that shippers shall bulkhead the ends of open freight cars, it was decided that an extra charge for lumber and labor for constructing bulkheads may be made by the shipper and invoiced to consignee, irrespective of whether or not for Government or civilian use.

Readjustment of Item Prices.

On the readjustment of item prices, it was decided that the director of lumber, in conference with the war service committee of the manufacturers, should have discretion to make certain minor changes and corrections in the item prices, which however, should not affect the average base price.

As to price concessions made by manufacturers to wholesale distributors, it was decided to incorporate in the present announcement a former statement, to wit:

That in cases where manufacturers make reductions from the maximum prices to wholesale dealers, the reductions should be considered in the nature of an allowance to cover the expense and profit of sales by wholesale dealers and should not be interpreted as constituting a general reduction in the market price of lumber to the trade.

Acting Chairman,
Price-Fixing Committee.

WOOL ADVISORY COMMITTEE ORGANIZATION IS COMPLETED

B. M. Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board, authorizes the following:

The woolens section of the War Industries Board has completed an organization with its wool advisory committee through which it is believed there will be assured the complete study and review of all angles of the wool and woolens situation and accurate knowledge in the War Industries Board to justify prompt action to meet all conditions that may arise in the wool or woolens industry.

Director Scott Chairman.

John W. Scott, director of the textile division of the War Industries Board, was made chairman of the new organization formed by the woolens section.

The wool advisory committee consists of representatives of the War Trade Board, Shipping Board, the section chiefs in the textile division interested in wool, and three members of the war service committee of the wool-manufacturing industry.

The woolens section, of which Herbert E. Peabody is chief, has in it representatives of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and the Emergency Fleet Corporation.

THE RELATION OF EXPORT FIRMS TO THE NATIONAL INTEREST

In answer to an inquiry made to Provost Marshal General Crowder concerning the importance of exporting firms as related to the national interest during the war, Mr. B. S. Cutler, Chief of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, has received the following letter:

"DEAR SIR: Receipt is hereby acknowledged of your letter of the 10th instant inquiring whether a firm engaged solely in exporting goods from this country to foreign countries could be in any way considered as necessary to 'the maintenance of the national interest during the emergency' in the sense that this phrase is used in the statement from this office published in the OFFICIAL UNITED STATES BULLETIN for Monday, September 9, 1918.

"Please be advised that district boards are charged with the duty of selecting the individuals whose engagement in industry, including agriculture, or whose occupations or employments are such as to require their continued service in civil life rather than in the Army.

REGISTRATION IN ALABAMA.

The War Department authorizes the following from the office of the Provost Marshal General:

Complete figures received from Alabama show that the registration in that State September 12 was 235,753, against an estimate previously made of 243,271.

ORDERS PHYSICAL EXAMINATION OF ALL CLASS 1 REGISTRANTS WITHOUT REGARD TO APPEALS

INSTRUCTIONS SENT LOCAL BOARDS

Actual Induction Into Service of Those Found Qualified, However, to Be by Order Numbers—Text of Provost Marshal's Telegram.

The War Department authorizes the following from the office of the Provost Marshal General:

As rapidly as registrants are placed in class 1 by their local boards they will be examined to determine their physical fitness for service. This is to be done regardless of any appeals they may have taken to their district board, unless there is also pending a claim for deferred classification on the ground of engagement in an industry, occupation, or employment, including agriculture, "necessary to the maintenance of the military establishment, or the effective operation of the military forces, or the maintenance of national interest during the emergency." Instructions to this effect have been sent out by the Provost Marshal General's office to all local boards throughout the country.

Induction by Order Numbers.

Actual induction into the military service of those found physically qualified, however, will be in accordance with their order numbers as determined by the drawing to be held in Washington, except in individual cases, where local boards receive orders for the voluntary induction of certain registrants at the request of the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps.

The telegram of instruction to the local boards follows:

"Immediately upon receipt of the second edition of the selective service regulations local boards will proceed forthwith to the physical examination of all registrants who have been placed in class 1, regardless of the pendency of an appeal to the district board, unless there is also pending a claim for deferred classification on the ground of engagement in industry, occupation, or employment, including agriculture, strictly in accordance with and subject to the limitations contained in amended section 122 and the notes thereto, as appearing in said second edition. In this connection the special attention of local boards should be directed to section 123 as amended and as appearing in the second edition, and to the fact that a registrant no longer has the right or privilege of applying to be sent to a medical advisory board."

Notice to Each Registrant.

Section 122, referred to above, provides for the mailing of a notice to each registrant of class 1 as to when and where he shall appear for physical examination, and specifies that the time shall be five days from the date of the mailing of the notice unless otherwise ordered by the Provost Marshal General. Whether the examining physician is in doubt or not as to the physical qualification of a registrant for military service, he must nevertheless report the registrant definitely as qualified or disqualified, and if he is in doubt he may request to have the registrant sent before a medical advisory board. On the other hand, section 123 provides that if the Government appeal agent or two members of the local board are dissatisfied with the findings of the examining physician, either may apply to have the registrant sent before the nearest medical advisory board, or any member or members thereof, for further examination. Moreover, if the registrant is found by the examining physician physically disqualified, the local board must send the registrant before the medical advisory board, or any member or members thereof, for further examination unless, by unanimous vote, the local board decides that there can be no doubt as to the physical disqualification of the registrant.

CALLS CANCELED FOR MEN TO START FOR ARMY CAMPS

The total number of cases of influenza reported from all camps to date is 35,146. The figure for pneumonia is 3,036.

Crest Passed at Camp Devens.

Reports from Camp Devens show that the crest of the influenza wave has passed, although the figure for pneumonia remains high, as does the number of deaths. Thursday's report shows 271 new cases of influenza, bringing its total to date up to 11,986. The number of new cases of pneumonia for the day was 309, making a grand total of 1,407. Eighty-three deaths were reported. The figures show that about 1 out of every 4 men in the camp has contracted influenza and about 10 per cent of these developed pneumonia.

The greatest number of new cases is reported from Camp Dix, with 1,007, which also reported 122 new cases of pneumonia. Camp Meade reported 663 cases, which brings its total to 1,094.

Precautions Being Taken.

Medical officers state that every possible precaution is being taken in all camps to check the spread of the disease. Additional physicians and nurses have been sent to the camps where the epidemics are greatest. It may reasonably be expected that despite all precautions the disease will spread to other camps and that pneumonia fatalities will follow.

Quartermaster Exhibits in Liberty Loan Campaign

The War Department authorizes the following:

Brig. Gen. R. E. Wood, Acting Quartermaster General and director of purchase and storage, has sent the following telegram to all depot quartermasters in the United States:

"You are directed to honor, as far as practical, requests of Liberty Loan Committee in your district to assist in the promotion of the fourth Liberty loan by furnishing displays of quartermaster supplies. It is suggested in order to show the economical operations of the department that reclamation supplies also be exhibited."

FOUR MINUTE MEN PREPARED FOR LIBERTY BOND CAMPAIGN

On the evening of Saturday, September 28, it is estimated that nearly 150,000 allied speakers will go into action in all parts of the United States, all speaking on the fourth Liberty loan, and all basing their speeches upon information contained in the latest bulletin published by the Four Minute Men of the Committee on Public Information.

A great many of these speakers will be ministers of all creeds, who have recently become affiliated with this organization of official spokesmen for the Government.

Between 40,000 and 50,000 of the total will be commissioned Four Minute Men who have already "carried the message" through at least three campaigns.

Material in Logical Order.

The bulletin of information for the use of Four Minute Men during the fourth loan drive is the product of more than a month's careful compilation of material from official sources, all of which has been checked over by responsible Government officials.

The material is arranged in logical order, opening with a comparison of the new loan with great loans of the past, demonstrating that this will break all previous world efforts.

A complete history of the Liberty loans to date follows, after which come the details of subscriptions to each loan by States, the quotas and percentage of the third loan being added.

A summary of United States war finance follows, appropriations and expenditures being balanced against income and estimated receipts. This section concludes with a comparison of American with German finance which may go far to cheer the faint hearted.

Where the money goes is the subject of the next section, interesting figures being brought out in relation to the comparative cost of the first draft and of former recruiting.

The cost of constructing cantonments is covered in this section, as also is the great mass of material included under the supervision of the Quartermaster Corps.

The American Army.

This latter part sustains the statement that the American Army is the best clothed, best fed, best paid, and healthiest Army in the world.

The artillery and general ordnance program is then gone into very thoroughly, the necessiey for vast expenditures in this branch of the business of war being explained.

Then, having raised the Army, called it to its cantonments, supplied, equipped and armed it, the question of the bridge of boats is answered very thoroughly and concisely.

Guarding this bridge—the work of the Navy—well deserves the attention it receives at this point; and so the bulletin brings the finished product of our Liberty loan dollars "over there."

An extremely interesting study in the costs of a general action along a 10-mile front follows, in which the need for adequate financial support is made very evident.

A suggestion to "hold your bonds" concludes this phase of the bulletin.

NO EXCEPTION TO "LIGHTLESS NIGHTS" FOR LOAN CAMPAIGN

The Fuel Administrations issues the following:

Interpreting the lightless night order in its application to the Liberty loan drive, H. A. Garfield, United States Fuel Administrator, rules that no exceptions should be made.

The people are backing the Government's efforts to raise money to finance the war. Just as whole-heartedly they are backing its efforts to send steel shells to Gen. Pershing for a swift and terrible drive into Germany, which will quicken the end of the war and shorten the list of casualties.

Shells and guns can not go over there unless there is coal to produce steel. To insure that coal, Mr. Garfield rules that not even to secure money for the war shall the lightless night order, estimated to save 250,000 tons of coal annually, be suspended.

Therefore the Government is applying its own rulings to its own activities. Many agencies have asked for exceptions, but the Fuel Administrator held that if such exceptions were made Government activities now cover such a wide range that very shortly the exceptions would be so numerous that the whole purpose of the order would be defeated.

APPOINTED TO LICENSE BOARD.

James H. Allport has been designated by Fuel Administrator Garfield as a member of the license board of the United States Fuel Administration to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Noah H. Swayne, 2d.

American Official Communiques on Operations of U. S. Forces

HEADQUARTERS, AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCES.
September 23, 1918.

Section B–1. The commander in chief has awarded the Distinguished Service Cross to the following-named officers and men of the A. E. F. for the acts of gallantry set forth after their names:

First Lieut. HERMAN MOYSE. Infantry. "For extraordinary heroism in action near Cierges, northeast of Chateau-Thierry, France, July 31, 1918. After advancing through five stages of artillery barrage and machine-gun fire, Lieut. Moyse lead a patrol of five men forward to capture two machine guns which were endangering the success of the operation. Although seriously wounded in the chest and foot by machine-gun fire, he would not consent to being taken to the rear until the guns had been captured."

Sergt. RANCY R. KAIN, Infantry. "For extraordinary heroism in action in the woods north of Cierges, France, August 1, 1918. In an attack on the woods occupied by the enemy north of Cierges, to clear out machine guns and snipers, Sergt Kain was in charge of a platoon. Seeing two machine-gun nests and no officer being present to take command, he directed his platoon in such a manner as to silence the machine guns, killing four of the enemy. Sergt. Kain also silenced another machine gun located in a tree and personally brought down the operator."

Sergt ORRIE THOMPSON, Infantry. "For extraordinary heroism in action in the woods north of Cierges, northeast of Chateau-Thierry, France, on August 1, 1918. After his company had entered the woods north of Cierges, Sergt. Thompson and another soldier maneuvered around a machine gun which was causing many casualties in the company and reached a shell hole after crossing an open space that was swept by hostile fire. From here they killed the crew of the machine gun, captured the gun and turned it on the enemy."

Corpl. GUSTAVE MICHALKA. Infantry. "For extraordinary heroism in action near Cierges, northeast of Chateau-Thierry, France, July 31, 1918. When his platoon advanced up the slope in front of the Bois les Jomdleti, it became necessary to put out of action an enemy machine gun that was cutting up the platoon. Corpl. Michalka grasped the situation and at the risk of his own life advanced upon the nest with two of his men, killed the operators and captured the gun."

Corpl. PAUL H. REDIKER, Infantry. "For extraordinary heroism in action near Sergy, northeast of Chateau-Thierry, France, July 31, 1918. Corpl. Rediker twice volunteered to carry messages from company headquarters to the battalion post of command through heavy machine-gun fire and artillery barrage. He assisted in gathering the elements of the company together after the assault. He volunteered for every dangerous duty and in broad daylight, in full sight of the enemy, dragged wounded to places of shelter."

Pvt. (First Class) WILFRED V. SEELEY, medical detachment, Infantry. "For extraordinary heroism in action southwest of Aismes, France, August 5, 1918. During the forward movement of the First Battalion, —— Infantry, a large number of the company to which Pvt. Seeley was attached were wounded while crossing an open field. PROCEEDINGS OF THE CONGRESS BRIEFLY TOLD

SENATE.

Consideration of the pending resolution for the submission to the States of the female suffrage constitutional amendment began in the Senate yesterday afternoon, but no action was taken. Chairman Jones, of the Suffrage Committee, expressed the conviction that a vote would be taken on the resolution by Saturday. Each side claimed they had enough votes either to adopt or reject the resolution according to their desires. The opponents of the resolution declared their readiness to vote but its advocates insisted upon delay until three Senators favorable to the resolution, who are now on their way to Washington, could arrive. The entire day was given over to debate. The galleries were well filled throughout the day. An agreement was reached before adjournment that the vote should be taken to-day on an amendment by John Sharp Williams which would insert the word "white" in the pending amendment, thereby restricting the right of suffrage to white women.

Before the Agricultural Committee, Chairman Colver, of the Federal Trade Commission, submitted testimony and documents intended to prove the interlocking of interests between members of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and the meat packers. His testimony was a reply to the statements recently made before the committee by Harry A. Wheeler, chairman of the committee of the chamber which made the recent report reflecting upon the commission's report on the packers. The papers submitted by Chairman Colver tended to show that a number of influential members of the chamber of commerce were directors or officers in banks that have made large loans to the packers. A number of other witnesses are yet to be heard.

Campaign Inquiry Postponed.

By a vote of 10 to 1 the Committee on Elections decided to postpone the proposed investigation into the campaign expenditures of the senatorial primaries in Michigan until after the regular elections next November. The resolution will again be considered by the committee on November 15. Similar action was taken with regard to the pending inquiry into the alleged disloyal utterances of Senator La Follette in his St. Paul speech in September of last year.

The Finance Committee was in session yesterday considering the war-revenue bill, but reached no conclusion on amendments. Representatives of the Shipping Board and other Government agencies were before the committee and discussed the subject of exemptions for contractors expending large sums for buildings needed at present for war work, but which will be wholly or partly useless after the war.

The nomination of Lot W. Reiff, of Reading, Pa., to be naval officer of customs in customs district No. 11, with headquarters at Philadelphia, was sent to the Senate yesterday afternoon. A favorable report was made by the Committee on Interstate Commerce on the nomination of Victor Murdock, of Kansas, to be a member of the Federal Trade Commission for another term.

HOUSE.

General debate ended on the emergency power bill and it came up to-day for consideration under the five-minute rule. An attack was made on one section of the measure which its opponents argued looked to permanent government ownership. Chairman Sims, of the committee, defended the section and the entire bill, explaining that the Nation's power facilities have fallen down and that it is necessary to have the Government take hold and develop more power for the war plants. The bill gives the President authority to build power plants, to install new machinery in existing plants, to advance loans to power companies, to take over private plants, to build transmission lines, to suspend existing contracts held by power companies, and to fix the compensation of all employees of any plant that may be taken over by the Government.

In a letter to Speaker Clark, Secretary Daniels urged immediate passage of the Senate bill providing for the collection of soldiers' and sailors' insurance. In his letter he said that "without some arrangement, many beneficiaries will be required to institute court action or await the termination of the war before they can secure the benefits of insurance policies."

Addressing the House yesterday afternoon, Mr. Fess, of Ohio, chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, denied charges made by Mr. Ferris, of Oklahoma, chairman of the Democratic Committee, that Republicans in Congress had been "obstructionists." He asserted that there had been no political division on the Republican side of Congress on any war measure.

REVISION OF COTTON PRICES IS POSTPONED UNTIL NOV. 16

War Industries Board, However, Announces Changes in Certain Parities.

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

PRICES OF COTTON PRODUCTS.

At a meeting of the price-fixing committee of the War Industries Board with the cotton manufacturing industry, on Wednesday, September 25, 1918, owing to the failure of a large number of cotton mills to submit their cost sheets within the period requested, the price-fixing committee felt compelled to postpone any revision of prices until November 16, 1918.

In readjusting certain parities, however, to make them conform more nearly to their basic relations, the following changes were made in maximum prices, taking effect October 1, 1918, and subject to revision with other cotton products on November 16, 1918:

Wide and sail duck, 37½ per cent discount from standard list.

Standard Army duck, 31½ per cent discount from standard list.

Hose and belting duck, 62¾ per cent per pound.

Ten-ounce hose duck, 64¾ per cent per pound.

Single-filling duck: Class A, 28½ cents per yard, card basis; Class B, 28 cents per yard, card basis; Class C, 27½ cents per yard, card basis.

Classifications Described.

These classifications are described as follows:

Class A.—To be duck made of white cotton without waste or strips, and counting not under 80 by 28. Also, qualities equal to Magnolia and Lindale to be in this class.

Class B.—To be duck of all clean cotton, and counting not under 72 by 28. This class is recognized as the standard grade of single-filling duck.

Class C.—To be duck made to count not under 72 by 28, and containing not over 25 per cent of waste or strips.

Double-filling duck.—Class A, counting not under 80 by 28, 30½ cents per yard, card basis. Class B.—Counting not under 72 by 28, 30 cents per yard, card basis.

As the stabilization of cotton is a vitally important factor in the stabilization of cotton products, it is hoped that the special committee appointed by the President for the purpose of stabilizing the raw material will greatly assist the solving of the cotton-products problems on November 16.

Gibson will have charge of all matters relating to the training of personnel, both enlisted and civilian, of the entire Ordnance Department and will make provisions for this training.

to which Pvt. Syrypicy was attached were wounded while crossing an open field. At this point the Artillery fire was very accurate and intense, but he disregarded all possibilities of personal injury and remained upon the field until he had administered first aid to all his fallen comrades."

Pvt. HAROLD J. DEVERAUX, Infantry. "For extraordinary heroism in action near Sergy, France, July 31, 1918. When his company had crossed the River Ourcq, and captured the Bois Selger, the corporal of his squad, fighting beside Pvt. Deveraux, was wounded by machine-gun fire. The enemy continued to fire on the wounded man, and Pvt. Deveraux, single-handed, with the fire of his rifle, attacked the machine gun and succeeded in putting it out of action."

Pvt. DAVID N. BINKLEY, Infantry. "For extraordinary heroism in action at Hill 212, near Sergy, northeast of Chateau-Thierry, France, July 29, 1918. Pvt. Binkley sought and obtained permission to go out in front of our lines and recover his corporal, who was lying, severely wounded, in the open. He crossed an open area that was swept for more than 50 yards by enemy machine guns, reached the corporal, and carried him safely back into our lines. Later he was wounded, but refused to go to the aid station until his company had won its objective."

First Lieut. FRANK L. WILLIAMS, Medical Corps. "For extraordinary heroism in action in Champagne, east of Rheims, July 15, 1918, and near the River Ourcq, northeast of Chateau Thierry, France, July 30, 1918. Lieut. Williams voluntarily left a dugout on the Champagne front and for more than two hours, all the time under shell fire, administered to the needs of wounded men who were lying in the open. During the advance across the River Ourcq he voluntarily remained in exposed positions under heavy shell fire, caring for and dressing the wounded until he was severely injured."

Maj. GUY M. WILSON, Infantry. "For extraordinary heroism in action while commanding the leading platoon in the successful advance from Courmont to Mont St. Martin, France, from July 30 to August 5, 1918, including the forced crossing of the Ourcq River and several engagements, and especially at Les Jzmblet', where he personally led the successful charge of his battalion."

Sergt. WILLIAM LUZINSKI, Infantry. "For extraordinary heroism in action northeast of Chateau Thierry, France, August 4, 1918. Shortly after the assault was launched he was wounded by shell fire. Pvt. JOHN J. ZELDAM, Infantry. "For extraordinary heroism in action north of Cierges, France, August 1, 1918. Following an assault in which he was wounded in the leg by a machine-gun bullet, and when further advance was impossible because of a barrage, he took refuge in a shell hole. From this shelter he observed a comrade who was seriously wounded and needed assistance. Despite heavy artillery and machine-gun fire, he crawled 20 yards through the open, reached the helpless man, and took him back to the shell hole. After the two had lain in the shell hole nearly the entire day, Pvt. Zoldam, leaving his canteen with his companion, crawled across the danger zone and obtained assistance to carry the other wounded man to a dressing station."

Corpl. MATT STEVENS, Infantry. "For extraordinary heroism throughout the advance across the River Ourcq and to Fismes, France, on the south bank of the Vesle River, July 31 to August 8, 1918, Corpl. Stevens, then a private, was a runner for his company, and was engaged day and night in carrying messages throughout machine-gun and artillery fire. He did his work without fear or hesitation, thereby keeping constant liaison with higher authority. During times not so occupied he administered aid to the wounded, crawling to stricken comrades, at imminent risk of his own life, through areas swept by machine-gun fire. Through disregard of danger he was the means of saving many wounded men."

Pvt. JACOB MASSON, Infantry. "For extraordinary heroism at Mont St. Martin, south of Fesmes, France, August 5, 1918. During the attack on Mont St. Martin Pvt. Masson was severely wounded in the neck and shoulder. He refused first aid and was determined to keep up with the attacking wave, which he did until he became too weak from loss of blood. By this remarkable display of courage he conveyed to his comrades the spirit of fearlessness."

"Pvt. WILLIAM McCFITHY (or McCARTHY), Infantry. "For extraordinary heroism in action at Ferme de Meurcy, near Villers Sur-Fere, France, July 29, 1918. He gave inspiration to the officers and men of the command by his extraordinary heroism throughout the operations south of Soissons, July 18 to 22, 1918, and especially at Berzy-Lee Gee, July 21, 1918, when he accompanied the first line and attended the wounded in the open under incessant machine-gun and artillery fire."

Pvt. (first class) ARTILLERY HORITIER, Infantry. "For extraordinary heroism in action on Hill 212, near Cierges, northeast of Chateau Thierry, France, July 31, 1918. ASKS ALL RAILROAD MEN TO "GO THE LIMIT ON BONDS"

Director General of Railroads McAdoo has sent the following message to all regional directors:

"Please bulletin the following message to all officers and employees:

"'The campaign for the fourth Liberty loan begins September 28 and ends October 19.

"'The Government must borrow from the people six billion dollars for which it gives its obligation in the form of Liberty bonds bearing interest at 4¼ per cent per annum.

"'The Government needs this money to enable our brave Army and the brave armies of our allies to keep up the push against the Germans now so auspiciously begun.

"'We can not lick the Kaiser without this money, and the sooner we get this money and the sooner we convert in into the necessary munitions and supplies for our heroic boys, who already have the Huns on the run, the sooner will they finish the dangerous job we have entrusted to them.

"'I earnestly urge every railroad officer and employee who loves his country to go the limit of his means to lend to the Government by purchasing Liberty bonds.'"

CANADIAN RAILWAYS ADOPT THE M'ADOO SHOP SCHEDULE

Consul E. Verne Richardson, at Moncton, New Brunswick, reports:

The management of the Canadian Government Railways, from its head offices in Moncton, announces that beginning September 16 shop employees will start to work under their new schedule, which is the same as the McAdoo schedule.

The men will go to work at 7.30 in the morning instead of 7 o'clock, and work until 12 noon, returning to work at 1 o'clock and work until 5, making 8½ hours for the day. The shop men are to have a Saturday half holiday all the year round, instead of in the summer months only, as has been the custom, making the work week one of 47 hours. It is understood the men are to receive back-time increase dated from the month of May, and are also to receive time and a half for the extra hour worked since August 1.

Under the new schedule all mechanics classed as first class are to receive 68 cents per hour; blacksmiths' helpers, boilermakers' helpers, and machinists' helpers will receive 45 cents per hour. Those classed as first class are machinists, blacksmiths, boilermakers, and electricians. Carpenters and painters are to receive 58 cents per hour. — Commerce Reports.

We are giving our work, our time, and our money, but "they" are giving their lives.

No Lasting World Peace Is to Be Obtained By Any Compromise With Central Powers, President Wilson Declares in Speech at the Opening of the Fourth Liberty Loan Campaign

Advertisement Written by the President For the Fourth Liberty Loan Campaign Asking the People to Subscribe Freely

The following is a copy of the text of an advertisement written by President Wilson for the fourth Liberty loan campaign, which began to-day:

AGAIN the Government comes to the people of the country with the request that they lend their money, and lend it upon a more liberal scale than ever before, in order that the great war for the rights of America and the liberation of the world may be prosecuted with ever increasing vigor to a victorious conclusion. And it makes the appeal with the greatest confidence because it knows that every day it is becoming clearer and clearer to thinking men throughout the Nation that the winning of the war is an essential investment.

THE MONEY that is held back now will be of little use or value if the war is not won and the selfish masters of Germany are permitted to dictate what America may and may not do. Men in America, besides, have from the first until now dedicated both their lives and their fortunes to the vindication and maintenance of the great principles and objects for which our Government was set up. They will not fail now to show the world for what their wealth was intended.

BATTERY NAMED FOR SOLDIER.

The War Department authorizes the following:

The 12-inch battery at Fort Crockett, Tex., has been named "Battery Leonard Hoskins," by order of the Secretary of War, in honor of Second Lieut. Leonard Hoskins, Coast Artillery Corps. Lieut. Hoskins was the son of Daniel F. Hoskins, 620 Washington Avenue, East Las Vegas, N. Mex. He was killed in action June 28, 1918.

WOMEN WAR WORKERS PARADE.

Women war workers in Washington are invited to take part in the parade being arranged for by the women's committee of the National Liberty Loan drive, and approved by the Secretary of the Treasury, on Saturday, October 5, at 2 p. m. Marchers will be required to wear white shirt waists, white skirts, and will be furnished with certain colors to wear. Government employees are requested to notify their chiefs whether they will march.

NO SPECIAL INTERESTS OF ANY COUNTRY OR ANY GROUP SHALL PREVAIL

TIME TO SPEAK PLAINLY

Must be a Common Standard for all Peoples and Those Who Sit at Peace Table Must Come Ready And Willing to Pay the Price—Germany Can Redeem Herself Only by Her Future Conduct

PRESIDENT WILSON in an address at the opening of the fourth Liberty loan campaign in New York, Friday night, September 27, said:

MY FELLOW CITIZENS:

I am not here to promote the loan. That will be done,—ably and enthusiastically done,—by the hundreds of thousands of loyal and tireless men and women who have undertaken to present it to you and to our fellow citizens throughout the country; and I have not the least doubt of their complete success; for I know their spirit and the spirit of the country. My confidence is confirmed, too, by the thoughtful and experienced cooperation of the bankers here and everywhere, who are lending their invaluable aid and guidance. I have come, rather, to seek an opportunity to present to you some thoughts which I trust will serve to give you, in perhaps fuller measure than before, a vivid sense of the great issues involved, in order that you may appreciate and accept with added enthusiasm the grave significance of the duty of supporting the Government by your men and your means to the utmost point of sacrifice and self-denial. No man or woman who has really taken in what this war means can hesitate to give to the very limit of what they have; and it is my mission here to-night to try to make it clear once more what the war really means. You will need no other stimulation or reminder of your duty.

"Germany Will Have to Redeem Her Character Not Only by What Happens at the Peace Table, But by What Follows"

"Fresh Consciousness Gained Of the Meaning of the War"

At every turn of the war we gain a fresh consciousness of what we mean to accomplish by it. When our hope and expectation are most excited we think more definitely than before of the issues that hang upon it and of the purposes which must be realized by means of it. For it has positive and well defined purposes which we did not determine and which we cannot alter. No statesman or assembly created them; no statesman or assembly can alter them. They have arisen out of the very nature and circumstances of the war. The most that statesmen or assemblies can do is to carry them out or be false to them. They were perhaps not clear at the outset; but they are clear now. The war has lasted more than four years and the whole world has been drawn into it. The common will of mankind has been substituted for the particular purposes of individual states. Individual statesmen may have started the conflict, but neither they nor their opponents can stop it as they please. It has become a peoples' war, and peoples of all sorts and races, of every degree of power and variety of fortune, are involved in its sweeping processes of change and settlement.

"Plain that No Nation Can Stand Aside and Be Indifferent"

We came into it when its character had become fully defined and it was plain that no nation could stand apart or be indifferent to its outcome. Its challenge drove to the heart of everything we cared for and lived for. The voice of the war had become clear and gripped out hearts. Our brothers from many lands, as well as our own murdered dead under the sea, were calling to us, and we responded, fiercely and of course.

The air was clear about us. We saw things in their full, convincing proportions as they were; and we have seen them with steady eyes and unchanging comprehension ever since. We accepted the issues of the war as facts, not as any group of men either here or elsewhere had defined them, and we can accept no outcome which does not squarely meet and settle them. Those issues are these:

Shall the military power of any nation or group of nations be suffered to determine the fortunes of peoples over whom they have no right to rule except the right of force?

Shall strong nations be free to wrong weak nations and make them subject to their purpose and interest?

Shall peoples be ruled and dominated, even in their own internal affairs, by arbitrary and irresponsible force or by their own will and choice?

Shall there be a common standard of right and privilege for all peoples and nations or shall the strong do as they will and the weak suffer without redress?

Shall the assertion of right be haphazard and by casual alliance, or shall there be a common concert to oblige the observance of common rights?

Issues of the War Accepted as Facts and Not as Men Made

No man, no group of men, chose these to be the issues of the struggle. They are the issues of it; and they must be settled,—by no arrangement or compromise or adjustment of interests, but definitely and once for all and with a full and unequivocal acceptance of the principle that the interest of the weakest is as sacred as the interest of the strongest.

This is what we mean when we speak of a permanent peace, if we speak sincerely, intelligently, and with a real knowledge and comprehension of the matter we deal with.

We are all agreed that there can be no peace obtained by any kind of bargain or compromise with the governments of the Central Empires, because we have dealt with them already and have seen them deal with other governments that were parties to this struggle, at Brest-Litovsk and Bucharest. They have convinced us that they are without honour and do not intend justice. They observe no covenants, accept no principle but force and their own interest. We cannot "come to terms" with them. They have made it impossible. The German people must by this time be fully aware that we cannot accept the word of those who forced this war upon us. We do not think the same thoughts or speak the same language of agreement.

No Peace Is to Be Obtained By Any Kind of Compromise

It is of capital importance that we should also be explicitly agreed that no peace shall be obtained by any kind of compromise or abatement of the principles we have avowed as the principles for which we are fighting. There should exist no doubt about that. I am, therefore, going to take the liberty of speaking with the utmost frankness about the practical implications that are involved in it.

If it be in deed and in truth the common object of the governments associated against Germany and of the nations whom they govern, as I believe it to be, to achieve by the coming settlements a secure and lasting peace, it will be necessary that all who sit down at the peace table shall come ready and willing to pay the price, the only price, that will procure it; and ready and willing, also, to create in some virile fashion the only instrumentality by which it can be made certain that the agreements of the peace will be honoured and fulfilled.

That price is impartial justice in every item of the settlement, no matter whose interest is crossed; and not only impartial justice but also the satisfaction of the several peoples whose fortunes are dealt with. That indispensable instrumentality is a League of Nations formed under covenants that will be efficacious. Without such an instrumentality, by which the peace of the world can be guaranteed, peace will rest in part upon the word of outlaws and only upon that word. For Germany will have to redeem her character, not by what happens at the peace table but by what follows.

Constitution of League of Nations Based on Guarantee of Peace

And, as I see it, the constitution of that League of Nations and the clear definition of its objects must be a part, is in a sense the most essential part, of the peace settlement itself. It cannot be formed now. If formed now, it would be merely a new alliance confined to the nations associated against a common enemy. It is not likely that it could be formed after the settlement. It is necessary to guarantee the peace; and the peace cannot be guaranteed as an afterthought. The reason, to speak in plain terms again, why it must be guaranteed is that there will be parties to the peace whose promises have proved untrustworthy, and means must be found in connection with the peace settlement itself to remove that source of insecurity. It would be folly to leave the guarantee to the subsequent voluntary action of the governments we have seen destroy Russia and deceive Roumania.

But these general terms do not disclose the whole matter. Some details are needed to make them sound less like a thesis and more like a practical programme. These, then, are some of the particulars, and I state them with the greater confidence because I can state them authoritatively as representing this Government's interpretation of its own duty with regard to peace:

Impartial Justice Meted Out Must Involve No Discrimination

First, the impartial justice meted out must involve no discrimination between those to whom we wish to be just and those to whom we do not wish to be just. It must be a justice that plays no favorites and knows no standard but the equal rights of the several peoples concerned;

Second, no special or separate interest of any single nation or any group of nations can be made the basis of any part of the settlement which is not consistent with the common interest of all;

Third, there can be no leagues or alliances or special covenants and understandings within the general and common family of the League of Nations;

Fourth, and more specifically, there can be no special, selfish economic combinations within the League and no employment of any form of economic boycott or exclusion except as the power of economic penalty by exclusion from the mark-

"Germany Finds That the World Does Not Want 'Terms'; It Wishes Only the Triumph of Justice and Fair Dealing"

ets of the world may be vested in the League of Nations itself as a means of discipline and control;

International Agreements and Treaties to be Open to the World

Fifth, all international agreements and treaties of every kind must be made known in their entirety to the rest of the world.

Special alliances and economic rivalries and hostilities have been the prolific source in the modern world of the plans and passions that produce war. It would be an insincere as well as an insecure peace that did not exclude them in definite and binding terms.

The confidence with which I venture to speak for our people in these matters does not spring from our traditions merely and the well known principles of international action which we have always professed and followed. In the same sentence in which I say that the United States will enter into no special arrangements or understandings with particular nations let me say also that the United States is prepared to assume its full share of responsibility for the maintenance of the common covenants and understandings upon which peace must henceforth rest. We still read Washington's immortal warning against "entangling alliances" with full comprehension and an answering purpose. But only special and limited alliances entangle; and we recognize and accept the duty of a new day in which we are permitted to hope for a general alliance which will avoid entanglements and clear the air of the world for common understandings and the maintenance of common rights.

Issues Standing Out Clearly Which No Man Can Pervert

I have made this analysis of the international situation which the war has created, not, of course, because I doubted whether the leaders of the great nations and peoples with whom we are associated were of the same mind and entertained a like purpose, but because the air every now and again gets darkened by mists and groundless doubtings and mischievous perversions of counsel and it is necessary once and again to sweep all the irresponsible talk about peace intrigues and weakening morale and doubtful purpose on the part of those in authority utterly, and if need be unceremoniously, aside and say things in the plainest words that can be found, even when it is only to say over again what has been said before, quite as plainly if in less unvarnished terms.

As I have said, neither I nor any other man in governmental authority created or gave form to the issues of this war. I have simply responded to them with such vision as I could command. But I have responded gladly and with a resolution that has grown warmer and more confident as the issues have grown clearer and clearer. It is now plain that they are issues which no man can pervert unless it be wilfully. I am bound to fight for them, and happy to fight for them as time and circumstance have revealed them to me as to all the world. Our enthusiasm for them grows more and more irresistable as they stand out in more and more vivid and unmistakable outline.

National Purposes Supplanted By Common Purposes of Mankind

And the forces that fight for them draw into closer and closer array, organize their millions into more and more unconquerable might, as they become more and more distinct to the thought and purpose of the peoples engaged. It is the peculiarity of this great war that while statesmen have seemed to cast about for definitions of their purpose and have sometimes seemed to shift their ground and their point of view, the thought of the mass of men. whom statesmen are supposed to instruct and lead, has grown more and more unclouded, more and more certain of what it is that they are fighting for. National purposes have fallen more and more into the background and the common purpose of enlightened mankind has taken their place. The counsels of plain men have become on all hands more simple and straightforward and more unified than the counsels of sophisticated men of affairs, who still retain the impression that they are playing a game of power and playing for high stakes. That is why I have said that this is a peoples' war, not a statesmen's. Statesmen must follow the clarified common thought or be broken.

Leaders of Governments Must Make Answer to the People

I take that to be the significance of the fact that assemblies and associations of many kinds made up of plain workaday people have demanded, almost every time they came together, and are still demanding, that the leaders of their governments declare to them plainly what it is, exactly what it is, that they were seeking in this war, and what they think the items of the final settlement should be. They are not yet satisfied with what they have been told. They still seem to fear that they are getting what they ask for only in statesmen's terms,—only in the terms of territorial arrangements and divisions of power, and not in terms of broad-visioned justice and mercy and peace and the satisfaction of those deep-seated longings of oppressed and distracted men and women and enslaved peoples that seem to them the only things worth fighting a war for that engulfs the world. Perhaps statesmen have not always recognized this changed aspect of the whole world of policy and action. Perhaps they have not always spoken in direct reply to the questions asked because they did not know how searching those questions were and what sort of answers they demanded.

Every Victory Bringing Nearer The Final Triumph of Justice

But I, for one, am glad to attempt the answer again and again, in the hope that I may make it clearer and clearer that my one thought is to satisfy those who struggle in the ranks and are, perhaps above all others, entitled to a reply whose meaning no one can have any excuse for misunderstanding, if he understands the language in which it is spoken or can get someone to translate it correctly into his own. And I belief that the leaders of the governments with which we are associated will speak, as they have occasion, as plainly as I have tried to speak. I hope that they will feel free to say whether they think that I am in any degree mistaken in my interpretation of the issues involved or in my purpose with regard to the means by which a satisfactory settlement of those issues may be obtained. Unity of purpose and of counsel are as imperatively necessary in this war as was unity of command in the battlefield; and with perfect unity of purpose and counsel will come assurance of complete victory. It can be had in no other way. "Peace drives" can be effectively neutralized and silenced only by showing that every victory of the nations associated against Germany brings the nations nearer the sort of peace which will bring security and reassurance to all peoples and make the recurrence of another such struggle of pitiless force and bloodshed forever impossible, and that nothing else can. Germany is constantly intimating the "terms" she will accept; and always finds that the world does not want terms. It wishes the final triumph of justice and fair dealing.

Two Large Flights of Army Pigeons Planned

The War Department authorizes the following statement:

Arrangements have been perfected for two large flights of pigeons, 1,000 and 3,000, respectively, from Washington to New York, a distance of approximately 220 miles. The first flight will take place Sunday, September 29, and the second a week later, Sunday, October 6.

Each flight will start from the baseball field east of the Union Station and opposite the Liberty Hut. The flights will start at 9 a. m. The pigeons will be liberated by a detachment of men from Washington Barracks, furnished through Gen. Abbot, of the Engineer Corps, and under the direction of Maj. Frank J. Griffin, head of the pigeon section of the United States Signal Corps.

The first flight, September 29, will be known as the "Futurity flight" and will include the liberation of about 1,000 young pigeons, all under 6 months of age. The purpose of these flights is to increase or exercise the "homing" instinct of these birds.

ARMY LIBERTY LOAN HEADQUARTERS.

The War Department authorizes the following:

Army headquarters for the fourth Liberty loan have been established in the new Army Building, Potomac Park, Washington. Brig. Gen. H. M. Lord, in charge of the Finance Divisions of the Quartermaster Corps, is the Army Liberty loan officer.

American Communique

American Official Communique, No. 135.

HEADQUARTERS, AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCES,
September 26, 1918.

Section A.—This morning, northwest of Verdun, the first army attacked the enemy on a front of 20 miles and penetrated his lines to an average depth of 7 miles.

Pennsylvania, Kansas, and Missouri troops serving in Maj. Gen. Liggett's corps stormed Varennes, Montblainville, Vauzuois, and Chappy after stubborn resistance. Troops of other corps, crossing the Forges brook, captured the Boisdeforges and wrested from the enemy the towns of Malancourt, Bethincourt, Montfaucon, Cuisy, Nantillois, Zeptzarges, Danneoux, and Gercourt-et-Drillancourt. The prisoners thus far reported number over 5,000.

Tent Hospital Planned for Camp Stuart, Virginia

The War Department authorizes the following statement:

For the purpose of establishing a tent hospital adjoining Camp Stuart at Newport News, the War Department has leased 10 acres of land from Mrs. Martha P. Taylor, at a monthly rental of $100 for the period of the war. The land is well suited for hospital purposes, it being high, and has a water frontage.

"DEFECTION OF BULGARIA" RESULT OF CONCENTRATION OF FORCES ON THE WESTERN FRONT, SAYS GEN. MARCH

"NEWS CONTINUOUSLY BETTER," HE SAYS

Germany Can Spare No Divisions to Aid Its Balkan Ally, says Chief of Staff—Latest Move, if Successful, Foreshadows Isolation of Turkey and Probable Reentrance into War of Roumania—Americans Have Taken 8,000 Prisoners in Latest Drive.

Press interview by Gen. March, September 28:

Last week I told you that the news during the week had been continuously good. This week it has been continuously better. The defection of Bulgaria, their desire for a separate peace, is not only important toward the conduct of the war, from the standpoint of diplomacy, and its general effect upon the grand strategy of the war, but it also illustrates to a striking degree the results of the present concentration of forces on the western front. Previous to this time whenever any part of the central empires' front was threatened it was possible for Germany to devote and divert some German divisions with German commanders to the threatened front, while they held the western front with a relatively smaller force. That day has gone past. By concentrating the entire American force on the western front, that force, together with the British and French armies, under Gen. Foch, holds the German Army there, and we see the result in Bulgaria demanding a separate peace. The obvious importance of this move, which would foreshadow, if it goes through, the isolation of Turkey and the probable reentrance of Roumania into the war, needs only to be mentioned. It is perfectly clear to everybody.

Fighting on Western Front.

Reverting to the western front, since I spoke to you last, during the first part of the week, the fighting was limited to local attacks by the allies for objectives along the Hindenburg line. Last Tuesday the British and French were closing in on St. Quentin and had come within 2 miles of the town on the nowthwest and southeast in spite of strong resistance. Vigorous counterattacks by the enemy in the region north of St. Quentin and at the west end of Chemin-des-Dames were repulsed.

On Thursday the Franco-American forces between Rheims and Verdun attacked on a front of 40 miles, as has been reported, Gen. Gourard's Fourth French Army on a 20-mile front in the Champagne, between the Suippe River and the Argonne Forest, and our Army east of it, on a 20-mile front reaching up to the Meuse River.

American Offensive.

The American attack was characterized by the sharpness and rapidity which has always marked the handling of our troops in France, and our advance on the first day was to a depth averaging perhaps 5 or 6 miles, while the advance of the French on the continuation of that line

WILL NOT RECOMMEND FIXED PRICE ON RAW COTTON NOW

Cotton Committee Gives Warning Against Unauthorized Reports and Rumors.

The following announcement is made by the Cotton Committee:

The public and in particular the cotton interests are warned against giving credence to unauthorized reports, rumors, and information purporting to come from the Cotton Committee or the Committee on Cotton Distribution. All authentic information will be published over the signature of Thomas Walker Page, chairman of the Cotton Committee, or Charles J. Brand, chairman of the Committee on Cotton Distribution.

The Cotton Committee now makes the following announcement:

1. The committee will not recommend that a price be fixed on raw cotton at the present time; nor will it so recommend in any event before sufficient time has elapsed to test the effect as a stabilizing influence of the work assigned to the Committee on Cotton Distribution, unless in the meantime unexpected changes occur in the cotton market of such violence as to threaten the welfare of legitimate interests.

2. The Committee on Cotton Distribution has been organized, and has been directed to effect as quickly as possible an equitable distribution of cotton as to quantity and also as to grade among both domestic and foreign manufacturers, with a special view to providing for the proper utilization of the surplus of grades below middling.

NOTE.—It is planned to accomplish this distribution by regulations applying to foreign and domestic manufacturers without interference with the usual trading between farmers and buyers or merchants.

3. All purchases both for foreign and for domestic consumption will continue to be made at market prices through the marketing and distributing agencies commonly used, unless and until the Cotton Committee shall determine and announce that a necessity has arisen for making a change.

In view of this announcement the Cotton Committee hopes that agencies engaged in the cotton industry will proceed in the normal transaction of business without uncertainty or hesitation.

THOMAS WALKER PAGE,
Chairman.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE CONGRESS BRIEFLY TOLD

SENATE.

All of yesterday was occupied by the Senate in the further discussion of the constitutional amendment for universal suffrage, and again without any action. Chairman Jones, of the Suffrage Committee, refused to agree to a motion to adjourn over until Monday, and intimated that notwithstanding the desire of several Senators to absent themselves to-day, he would press for a vote to-day. Several Senators among those opposed to suffrage have speaking engagements for the opening day of the Liberty loan campaign. When no arrangement for adjourning over could be reached, majority leader Martin and minority leader Lodge gave public notice to these Senators that they might proceed with their engagements, as they would undertake to see to it that no vote was taken during their absence.

Looking forward to the reconstruction days that must immediately follow the war, Senator Weeks yesterday introduced a resolution providing for the creation of a joint Congressional committee to study after-the-war problems and devise means of solving them. Problems affecting labor, capital and credit, public utilities, the demobilization of industrial and military war resources, foreign trade, new industries, the tariff, fuel production and distribution, housing, shipping, disposition of war legislation, "and in general all matters necessarily arising during the change from the activities of war to the pursuits of peace" would be taken up by this committee if created. Its membership would consist of six members of the Senate and House.

The subcommittee of the Judiciary Committee investigating the alleged political and propaganda activities of brewing interests yesterday requested Alien Property Custodian A. Mitchell Palmer and Attorney General Gregory to send to the committee all documents in their possession relating to any association or connection that might be shown between the brewers and the newspaper which is alleged to have been purchased through the aid of funds supplied by such brewers.

Fund to Fight Influenza.

A resolution was introduced by Senator Weeks yesterday appropriating $1,000,000 to be used by the Public Health Service in combating the Spanish influenza epidemic. In submitting the resolution Senator Weeks briefly referred to the spread of the disease through the various Army camps and among the civilian population. The resolution was submitted after a conference with the public health authorities.

Senator Kirby, Democrat, of Arkansas, was yesterday made chairman of the Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Agriculture. Senator Gerry, of Rhode Island, was assigned to the Committee on Rules, and Senator Ashurst, of Arizona, to the Committee on Privileges and Elections.

Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the Military Committee, introduced a bill to appropriate $7,800 to reimburse citizens of Colorado for firearms and ammunition taken from them during the labor troubles in that State in 1914.

Before the Finance Committee the Investment Bankers' Association of America filed an extended brief, in which a number of features of the war revenue bill was opposed. The brief declared that the principle of invested capital as defined by the House bill is "unsound" and urges an "adequate and uniform war profits tax that would make unnecessary the so-called alternative excess profits tax," and declares that "under the bill the Government would practically confiscate the income of one class of stockholders and give to the other class what it has taken unjustly from the first class."

HOUSE.

During consideration of the emergency power bill the House yesterday afternoon defeated a proposal to limit the measure to an authorization instead of a direct appropriation of $175,000,000. A provision was inserted in the measure forbidding expenditures under "cost plus" contracts.

House leaders have abandoned all plans for a recess between now and the November elections. Necessity for passing the next deficiency appropriation bill which will not be ready probably for another week, and the warning of many members that they would not agree to any unanimous consent recess plan put a stop to further serious discussion of a recess. There are a number of minor matters pending that members believe should be disposed of and the consensus of opinion among the leaders yesterday was that the House could be kept reasonably busy upon important matters.

The War Department has recommended to Congress an amendment to the Fiftieth article of war so as to give the commanding general in the field, department, or division power to mitigate or remit any sentence of death or dismissal instead of leaving it to the President. The change was requested by Gen. Pershing.

DRAWING OF SERIAL NUMBERS FOR ALL DRAFT REGISTRANTS TO BE HELD MONDAY, SEPT. 30

IN U. S. SENATE OFFICE BUILDING

About 17,000 Containers in Bowl To Be Drawn One at a Time—Impossible to Send Results by Wire, Gen. Crowder Explains.

Statement by Gen. Crowder to the newspaper correspondents Friday, September 27, 1918:

The drawing to determine the order of liability to military service of the men between the ages of 18 and 45 years, both inclusive, who registered on September 12, will be held in this city beginning at noon Monday, September 30, 1918.

Although this drawing will give to every man who registered an order number, registrants will be called in accordance with their order numbers within their respective classes, as shown by the classification list, and within the ages from time to time prescribed by the President as immediately liable to be called for classification and for military service.

Numbers in 17,000 Containers.

As heretofore, the drawing will be held in the Senate Office Building. It will be necessary this time to draw, one at a time, approximately 17,000 containers containing the serial numbers, and it has been estimated by the officers in charge of the preparations that whereas the first great drawing of July 20, 1917, consumed 16½ hours, it will require this time approximately 26 hours of uninterrupted drawing to complete the task.

Because of the time and the mass of figures involved, the press associations of the country have united in informing me that it will be impossible for them to undertake the sending of the numbers over their wires as they did on the occasion of the first and second drawings. They have agreed upon, and proposed to me, a plan whereby copies of the "master list," as determined by the drawing, will be sent as promptly as possible direct from this office to the 154 district boards, which will be instructed to make them available immediately upon receipt to the newspapers within the area of their jurisdiction. This plan I have approved upon representation from the responsible heads of these associations that they have individually canvassed the opinion of their respective clients and have found them all, with possibly one exception, favorable to the idea of not attempting to handle them by wire.

Request to Newspapers.

I take this occasion, therefore, to request of the newspapers of the country that none of them individually attempt to carry these numbers from Washington, but will withhold publication of the list until it has been released to them by the district board having jurisdiction in the area in which the respective newspapers are located. I make this request in order, as far as possible, to place the newspapers in the several localities of the country on an equal footing as far as

Fifty Enemy Airplanes and Seven Balloons Downed by U. S. Airmen With British Forces July 1 to August 25

The War Department authorizes the following statement:

Fifty enemy airplanes and seven enemy balloons were brought down by American aviators with the British forces in the period from July 1 to August 25, according to a summary of British Royal Air Force reports just received here.

The Americans mentioned are the early graduates from flying cadets sent to England in the first months of the war before American flying fields, training planes, and instructional forces could be got ready to train the hundreds of men on hand to meet the enlarged aerial program. They, like other cadets sent to French and Italian schools, were afforded the best advantages of the fully developed training systems abroad, and were later sent to the front attached to active squadrons for final training over the lines and until such time as they could be incorporated into complete American units.

The acceleration in speed and the enlargement in numbers of the American aerial program made possible by this whole-hearted cooperation by the allies is a matter of grateful acknowledgment at this time.

Contests Specifically Mentioned.

The following contests of American airmen were specifically mentioned:

"Lieut M. L. Campbell and Lieut. L. A. Hamilton encountered 5 enemy airplanes over Armentieres. Lieut. Campbell shot 2 of these down, which were both seen to crash by other pilots. Lieut. Hamilton also accounted for 1.

"Lieut. R. G. Landis, after a combat with a hostile machine which he sent down in a cloud of smoke, attacked a hostile balloon, but, observing an enemy two-seater near, diving east, engaged and shot it down. Returning to the balloon, he fired into it at very close range, whereupon it went down in flames.

"Lieut. J. A. Keating and Second Lieut. Simpson, on returning from a bomb raid were attacked by two large formations of the enemy scouts. The first enemy airplane to attack at close range was shot down in flames by Lieut. Simpson. A little later, a second enemy airplane which was attacking from the rear was also shot down in flames, and during the course of the combat two more hostile machines were seen to spin down and crash, all of which had been fired at by the observer. Lieut. Keating's machine had been very badly shot about and he was obliged to land soon after crossing our lines.

Raid by Squadron.

"A raid was carried out by ——— American Squadron on ——— aerodrome, in conjunction with squadrons of the 5th Group. After the first two squadrons had dropped their bombs from a low height, machines of ——— American Squadron dived to within 200 feet of the ground and released their bombs, then proceeded to shoot at hangars and huts on the aerodrome, and a chateau on the northeast corner of the aerodrome was also attacked with machine-gun fire. The following damage was observed to be caused by this combined operation: A dump of petrol and oil was set on fire, which appeared to set fire to an ammunition dump; six Fokker biplanes were set on fire on the ground, and two destroyed by direct hits from bombs; one large Gotha hangar was set on fire and another one half demolished; a living hut was set on fire and several hangars were seen to be smouldering as the result of phosphorous bombs having fallen on them. In spite of most of the machines taking part being hit at one time or another, all returned safely, favorable ground targets being attacked on the way home; ——— Squadrons bombed the aerodrome after the low flying attack was over, and demolished the chateau previously referred to.

"Lieut. R. G. Landis, in a general engagement with enemy scouts, shot down a Fokker biplane, which crashed near La Bassee. He then attacked a triplane, which was on the tail of a Bristol fighter whose observer was apparently hit, and getting below its tail brought down this machine also.

"Lieut. Williams, ——— American Squadron, was hit in the back and his petrol tank pierced by machine gunfire. In spite of his wound, he came back with his finger stopping the hole in the petrol tank, and landed successfully after having engaged transport (i. e., attacked a supply train) from a height of 100 feet.

Fatalities at Flying Fields in Past Week

The War Department authorizes the following:

Herewith is a summary of deaths due to aviation accidents in training at flying fields in this country for the week ending September 21, 1918:

Place at which fatality occurred.	No. of fatalities.
Dorr Field, Arcadia	1
Ellington Field, Houston, Tex	2
Love Field, Dallas, Tex	2
Souther Field, Americus, Ga	1
Taliaferro Field, Fort Worth, Tex	1
Total	7

The seven deaths during the week ending September 21 represent 1 fatality for every 2,129 hours flown, or 171,320 miles air travel. At 22 flying fields other than those mentioned above there were no fatalities.

THREE NEW LIBERTY THEATERS.

The War Department authorizes the following statement:

The construction division has been authorized to construct Liberty theaters at Camp Wheeler, Ga.; Camp Wadsworth, S. C.; and Camp Hancock, Ga. Each of these buildings will cost $38,700. The buildings will be similar to the theaters erected in other camps. Work will begin at once.

RED CROSS HOME SERVICE

Information for Soldiers' and Sailors' Families, Issued by Department of Civilian Relief.

Information for Men About to Start for Training Camps.

The department of civilian relief of the American Red Cross has prepared a booklet entitled "Before You Go——," which will be distributed by each home-service section to men who have been selected and called by their draft boards to report for military duty. An effort has been made to present in this booklet in brief and simple form a synopsis of the important information in reference to allotments, allowances, compensation, insurance, the civil-relief act, legal advice, and Red Cross home service, which the men should talk over with their families before they go.

The booklet has been approved by the Provost Marshal General's office, which will officially distribute 15,000 copies to members of boards of instruction throughout the country for their information. Soldiers and sailors and their relatives and others to whom this booklet may be of use may obtain copies from the nearest home-service section of the Red Cross.

The introductory portion of the booklet is printed below and also the paragraphs in reference to allotments and allowances which contain in simple language the minimum information on these subjects which every soldier and his family should understand before he leaves for camp.

To selected men:

You have been selected to serve your country. We who remain behind depend upon your courage and efficiency to help win this war. We owe you a debt of gratitude which we cannot repay, and which you are not worrying about. But you will fight better for knowing that while you are gone your folks at home need lack for nothing in times of emergency and anxiety which friendly interest and ample resources can supply. The Red Cross can not take your place; but we who put this book in your hands can be depended upon to do many things for your family that they can not do for themselves and which you can not provide for during your absence. We may need only to supply information of some kind. But that will be given promptly and accurately. Whatever it may be that we shall have opportunity to do, we shall gladly do through the Home Service Section of the Red Cross.

Before You Go, Talk These Things Over With Your Family.

Here are some things which you will wish to talk over with your family before you leave and about which you and they may obtain further information from the home-service section.

Every soldier's family needs information about the war-risk insurance law and other legislation or regulations for the benefit of soldiers and their relatives. Your home folks will want to know what to do if the Government allotment is delayed; how to apply for a family allowance if they are entitled to one and it is not received; whether they should receive a Government policy if you have taken out Government insurance; what to do if the Liberty bond for which you have subscribed is not delivered; how to correctly address a letter to you when you are in France, etc. It is not necessary for them to write to Washington to learn these things. Washington sends the latest information on these points and many more to our home-service section for the use of your family. Tell them to take their inquiries to the Red Cross, where they will be answered accurately and promptly.

Compulsory Allotment Forms Provided Each Man at Camp.

You and they need to know that when you get to camp you will be furnished with a printed form upon which to make an allotment of your pay to your family. Your officers will give you detailed instructions as to filling out this form, but there are certain points which you and your family should mutually understand before you leave home. You will be required to allot $15 a month from your pay to your wife, if you have one, or to your child or children, if you have children and your wife is not living. The amount of this compulsory allotment will not change if your pay is increased.

Family Allowance to Wife and Children.

To this sum the Government will add a family allowance of $15 to your wife or $25 if you have a wife and child; $32.50 if you have a wife and two children and $5 more for each additional child. If you have children but your wife is not living, the amount which the Government will add to the compulsory allotment is $5 for one child; $12.50 for two children; $20 for three children; $30 for four children, and $5 more for each additional child.

The Voluntary Allotment to Dependent Parents, Brothers, Sisters, Grandparents or Grandchildren.

You do not have to make any allotment of your pay to your parents, brothers, sisters, grandparents, or grandchildren, but unless you do they will not receive the family allowance from the Government. To get this allowance for them you must allot $15 a month from your pay if you are not making a compulsory allotment, or $5 a month if you are already making a compulsory allotment to your wife or child. You may allot this sum to several of them collectively, and the Government will divide it among them.

The Family Allowance to Dependent Parents, Brothers, Sisters, Grandparents or Grandchildren.

Even if you do make this allotment from your pay to these relatives they will not receive the family allowance unless they are dependent upon you for support. In asking for the allowance for them you will have to state how much you have been contributing to them. Talk over with them just how much this has been. Estimate not only the average amount of money you have given them each week, but the value of what they have given you in return in the way of board, for instance. It is the difference, or the net amount that you contributed, which will determine whether you can secure an allowance for them and how much that allowance will be.

The Government will add to the allotment which you make from your pay $10 a month to your dependent mother or father, or $20 if both of them are dependent on you, and also $5 a month for each dependent brother, sister, grandchild, or grandparent. If you have no dependent parents but have dependent grandparents the latter will receive $10 each.

The Government will not pay these sums unless the amount which you formerly contributed to these relatives was as much as the proposed allotment and allowance put together.

Be Sure to Name All Who Are Dependent Upon You.

In filling out the form which will be given you when you get to camp, be sure you name all of your brothers, sisters, and parents who are dependent upon you, and for whom you wish to secure the family allowance. Only those you specifically name will get it. You can apportion your allotment or the Government will divide your allotment among this group and also pay to each member of the group the family allowance to which such member is entitled. However, the total of all the family allowances which will be paid to your relatives, including your wife and children, is limited to $50. If any of these dependent relatives to whom you have allotted part of your pay do not receive the family allowance, they may learn at the home service section how they themselves may apply for it. If any one of these relatives becomes dependent upon you after you leave home, the home service section will advise under what circumstances and how that person may secure a family allowance.

The allotments and allowances discussed above are paid by the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, which is a branch of the United States Treasury Department.

Voluntary Allotments to Other Persons.

If you wish to allot a portion of your pay to some relative who is not dependent upon you, or to your fiance, or to some friend, or to any other person, or to a bank, you may do so upon another form which will be furnished you by your commanding officer. The amount which you allot is discretionary with you. The Government will not pay any allowance to such persons. These allotments will be

EXAMINATIONS OUT OF TURN OF CIVIL LIFE REGISTRANTS APPLYING FOR COMMISSIONS

ORDERS SENT LOCAL DRAFT BOARDS

Directed to Proceed to Classification According to Regular Procedure on Presentation of a Certificate Showing Candidacy.

The War Department authorizes the following from the office of the Provost Marshal General:

Instructions have been sent out by this office to local boards throughout the country providing for the classification and physical examination, out of their turn, of registrants in civil life who have made application for commissions in the Staff Corps of the Army.

These instructions direct that the local boards "shall proceed to the classification and physical examination, according to the regular procedure, of any registrant within the ages of 18 and 45, inclusive, immediately upon his presenting to his local board a certificate from the chief of a corps or department of the Army to the effect that he is a candidate for a commission."

Those Included in the Order.

The orders apply both to the registrant who may be appointed to his commission direct from civil life and to those whose appointment as officers, under the terms of the recent order of the War Department, dated September 23, would immediately follow their induction into the military service.

The advanced classification and physical examination of such registrants will be for the purpose of determining their status in order that the Army may consider them for commissions; and in order that certain registrants may be voluntarily inducted at the request of the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps.

Text of Instructions.

WAR DEPARTMENT.
OFFICE OF PROVOST MARSHAL GENERAL.
Washington, September 25, 1918.

From: Office of the Provost Marshal General.
To: Draft executives in all States.
Subject: Advancing the classification and physical examination of certain registrants of the class of September, 1918.

1. My general telegram B 3400 of the 16th instant directed that registrants between the ages of 19 and 36, inclusive, be immediately classified; and my general telegram B 3670 of this date directs that physical examinations be begun in accordance with section 122, S. S. R., as soon as local boards receive the new Regulations and place registrants in class 1.

2. The following order of the War Department was issued under date of September 23:

From: The Adjutant General of the Army.
To: The Provost Marshal General, Washington, D. C.
Subject: Appointment of officers from civil life.

The Secretary of War directs that instructions substantially as follows be issued to all concerned. These instructions supersede similar instructions of September 15 and 16, 1918.

1. The memorandum from The Adjutant General's Office, dated August 14, 1918, prohibiting consideration of application for appointment from civil life between the ages of 18 and 45, inclusive, is hereby revoked so far as concerns Staff Corps, but subject to the conditions and restrictions stated below.

(a) Qualified men, between the ages of 18 and 45, placed in class 1 for general military service or who would be placed in class 1 for such general military service except for industry, occupation, or employment, including agriculture, must be first inducted into the service before consideration will be given to their appointment as officers.

(b) Qualified men, between the ages of 18 and 45, placed in class 1, meeting the physical requirements for limited or special military service only (included in what is known as group C, Medical Regulations Form 65), or who would be placed in class 1 for such special or limited military service except for industry, occupation, or employment, including agriculture, and qualified men between the ages of 18 and 45 placed in deferred classifications on grounds other than industry, occupation, or employment, including agriculture, may be commissioned direct from civil life by the usual procedure.

(c) A qualified registrant who does not fall within the foregoing rules because he has not been finally classified or examined physically may have his classification or physical examination advanced upon presentation to his local board of a certificate from the chief of a corps or department of the Army setting forth that he is a candidate for a commission.

2. For those who are not required to go through the officers' training camps arrangements will be perfected whereby the appointment as officers will immediately follow induction into the service. All Staff Corps will be required hereafter to submit their recommendations for appointments from civil life to commissions in the Army to the personnel branch of the operations division of the General Staff before action by The Adjutant General. All such recommendations will be accompanied by a list or abstract showing name, grade, age, education, qualifications, and physical condition of applicant, his selective service classification, and a brief statement as to why it is desirable to appoint from civil life.

HARRY DAVIS,
Adjutant General.

3. The individual inductions required by this order and certain others hereinafter noted can not wait upon the completion of the classification and physical examination of all registrants, and it will be necessary to classify and examine out of their turn certain registrants of all ages for the two following purposes:

(a) To determine the status of the registrant in order that the Army may consider him for a commission.

(b) In order that certain registrants may be voluntarily inducted at the request of the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps.

(1) REGISTRANTS SEEKING COMMISSIONS.

4. In order to carry the foregoing order into effect, the local boards shall proceed to the classification and physical examination, according to the regular procedure, of any registrant within the ages of 18 and 45, inclusive, immediately upon his presenting to his local board a certificate from the chief of a corps or department of the Army to the effect that he is a candidate for a commission.

(2) INDIVIDUAL VOLUNTARY INDUCTIONS.

5. Whenever a local board receives Form 2007 authorizing the individual voluntary induction of a registrant, between the ages of 18 and 45, inclusive, it shall proceed forthwith to the classification and physical examination of such registrant according to the regular procedure and shall induct such registrant in accordance with the provisions of section 158 F, Selective Service Regulations (second edition), complying also with the provisions of section 150. Nothing contained in this paragraph shall be construed as changing the arrangements outlined in my letter of September 5, 1918, concerning the individual induction of registrants into the Students' Army Training Corps.

PERMITS TO DEPART FROM THE UNITED STATES.

6. The attention of local boards is especially directed to section 156, Selective Service Regulations (second edition), concerning the procedure to be followed upon application for a permit to depart from the United States, particularly to those portions of the section which relate to the procedure to be followed when the request for permit is presented by or on behalf of a registrant who has not been finally classified and physically examined.

LIMITATIONS OF THESE INSTRUCTIONS.

7. Nothing in this letter shall be construed as affecting the procedure concerning the classification or physical examination out of regular order of any registrant who does not fall within the express provisions of these instructions. No registrant shall be involuntarily inducted into the military or naval service until his age group and class and order number are reached in regular course.

8. When inquiries are made of the local boards for information concerning individual induction of registrants, the local boards should direct inquirers not to write to the Provost Marshal General concerning the same, but to apply directly to the chief of the corps or department of the Army, to the Mobilization Division, Bureau of Navigation, Navy Department, or to headquarters, United States Marine Corps, all at Washington, D. C., as the case may be.

E. H. CROWDER,
Provost Marshal General.

paid through the office of the Quartermaster General.

When you arrive at the camp your name and a great deal of other information about you will be recorded by the officers in charge. Be very careful that your full name is given and is spelled correctly. When you tell your officer in charge what your name is he may write it down just the way it sounds, although it may not be spelled that way. Watch how he writes it and call his attention to it if it is wrong. This is very important. If your name or the names of your relatives are wrongly recorded, the check which the Government sends to your family will be wrongly made out and they may be unable to cash it or the Post Office Department may be unable to deliver the letter containing the check because they can not find anybody of that name.

How Soon to Expect the Allotment.

After you have made out a form allotting part of your pay to members of your family, arrangement must be made to take this sum from your pay and the form will be sent to Washington. Your family should not expect to receive a check a few days after you leave for camp. It generally takes six weeks to two months after the form is made out in camp before a check from Washington is received by the family. If no check is received in two months, your relatives should seek the advice of the home service section.

Health Conditions at Army Camps Within the United States as Reported to the Surgeon General for Week Ending Sept. 20

The War Department authorizes the following:

[illegible] is a detailed report on the health conditions at camps in the United States (including those abroad) for the week ending September 20. The report of the Division of Sanitation to the Acting Surgeon General of the Army for that week is as follows:

1. General: All sick rates are much higher than last week. The admission rate for disease is 1,464 and the noneffective rate 45, as compared with 1,007 and 35, respectively, for the preceding week. The death rate for disease (4.4) is nearly double that of the preceding week (2.3). The outstanding cause of the higher rates is prevalence of epidemic influenza, together with pneumonia as a frequent complication, in many camps and stations. The disease is at present chiefly prevalent near the Atlantic seaboard, but may be expected to sweep westward and involve other stations in its course. Mortality and morbidity rates may be expected to show a continued increase in the next few weeks as the disease spreads to other camps in the South and West. The number of new cases of special diseases reported follows:

	This week.	Last week.
Influenza	15,265	Not reported.
Pneumonia	778	332
Measles	612	539
Meningitis	11	11
Malaria	142	154
Venereal diseases	4,639	9,512

2. Divisional camps: Only two camps of this group (Camps Syracuse and Logan) report epidemic influenza. Camp Syracuse reports 269 cases and Camp Logan 77. There were 136 new cases of pneumonia reported from camps of this group, of which 60 are charged to Camp Wheeler and 25 to Camp Syracuse. Out of a total of 166 new cases of measles in camps of this group, 42 are reported from Camp McClellan, 35 from Camp Sheridan, and 30 from Camp Shelby. A few cases of malaria are reported from Camps Sevier, Beauregard, McClellan, Logan, and Shelby.

3. Cantonments: Sick rates for this group, as a whole, are nearly double those of last week, due to the high incidence of epidemic influenza at Camps Devens (8,653), Dix (1,569), Upton (929), Lee (900), Gordon (879), and Jackson (561). The number of new cases in each camp is indicated in brackets above. In several of the camps of this group sick rates are normal. Five hundred and fifty-nine new cases of pneumonia are reported from camps of this group against 254 last week. Camp Devens leads in the number of new cases with 267, Camp Dix is second with 85; Camp Taylor, 41; Camp Travis, 27; and Camp Lewis, 25. Camp Las Casas reports 101 new cases of measles out of a total of 446 cases for all camps of this group. Camps Funston, Taylor, and Gordon report 72, 56, and 47 new cases, respectively.

4. Departmental and other troops: Influenza prevails at Camp Merritt, but in other stations of this group had not appeared in any considerable number of cases up to date covered by this report. The Southeastern Department is charged with 24 new cases of pneumonia out of a total of 63 for all stations of this group.

The figure in [illegible] each were contracted during the week by men in that camp's command [illegible] The difference, therefore, is the number of cases first reported during the week which were either (a) cases brought from civilian life by recruits, or (b) cases brought by men transferred from other [illegible] which the cases are reported, or (c) old cases which have previously evaded detection. An interrogation point signifies that the report from that camp did not segregate cases contracted at the camp from [illegible].

ADVISORY COMMITTEE REPORT TO THE FOOD ADMINISTRATION CONCERNING PRICES OF HOGS

MARKET AND FEEDING CONDITIONS

Effort to Stabilize Costs and Avoid Both Extremely High and Low Prices Should Be Made—Demand for Pork After War.

The Agricultural Advisory Committee has made the following recommendation to the United States Food Administration:

The following members of the subcommittee of the National Agricultural Advisory Committee on Live Stock, to wit, Messrs. F. J. Hagenbarth, Spencer, Idaho; H. C. Stuart, Elk Garden, Va.; Eugene Funk, Bloomington, Ill.; N. H. Gentry, Sedalia, Mo.; W. L. Brown, Kingman, Kans.; Isaac Lincoln, Aberdeen, S. Dak.; John Grattan, Broomfield, Colo.; C. W. Hunt, Logan, Iowa, and together with the following gentlemen, invited by the chairman, Mr. H. C. Stuart, to sit with them, to wit, Messrs. J. H. Crockett, Wytheville, Va.; J. H. Mercer, State House, Topeka, Kans.; W. H. Tomhave, State College, Pa.; J. G. Brown, Monon, Ind.; J. C. Crawley, Lawson, Mo.; Prof. J. H. Skinner, LaFayette, Ind.; S. P. Houston, Malta Bend, Mo.; A. Sykes, Ida Grove, Iowa, and Prof. John Evvard, Ames, Iowa, offer the following report:

The Price of Hogs.

The committee has been asked by the Agricultural Advisory Board to meet in conference with the Food Administration in consideration of the commercial methods to be pursued by the administration in the interpretation of the policy outlined on November 3, 1917, with regard to the price of hogs, which was as follows:

"The prices so far as we can effect them will not go below a minimum of about $15.50 per hundredweight for the average of packers' droves on the Chicago market until further notice. * * * As to the hogs farrowed next spring (1918), we will try to stablize the price so that the farmer can count on getting for each 100 pounds of hog ready for market 13 times the average cost per bushel of corn fed into the hogs. Let there be no misunderstanding of this statement. It is not a guarantee backed by money. It is not a promise by the packers. It is a statement of the intention and policy of the Food Administration which means to do justice to the farmer."

Recommendations of Committee.

The recommendations of the committee were:

(1) It is recognized that the Food Administration has no power to fix the price of hogs or corn, and can only influence the hog price so far as the volume of controlled orders for the Army, Navy, allies, and export trade will absorb the surplus production. If prices should go so high as to curtail consumption at home and abroad, then in this event the stablization of prices during the next winter would be likely to fail, with disaster to the producer. On the other hand, it must be recognized that the costs of production are necessarily greatly increased, and that to maintain production fair returns must be assured to the farmer. It is, therefore, in the fundamental interest of the producer and consumer that both extreme high and low prices should be guarded against.

Definite Price Basis.

(2) In order to effectually carry out the above policy of the Food Administration, it is recommended that in dealing with the packer in respect to the coordinated purchase of pork products that directions should if necessary include a definite price basis in advance from month to month for the packers' purchase of hogs, upon which such orders will be based.

(3) It is recommended by the committee that the "average cost per bushel of corn" for the purpose of determining the price of hogs be considered as the average "farm value of corn," or the average selling price of corn at local railroad stations, as determined by the Department of Agriculture, and that the general corn figures be arrived at by taking these averages and weighting them according to production over the eight leading hog and corn producing States for a period of five months preceding the month the hogs are marketed, or prior to the month for which directions are given to the packers. The price of hogs should be calculated on the average of packers' droves at Chicago.

Fair Price Interpretation.

(4) To illustrate: Based upon the prices of corn figured on the above basis during the last five months, and a general survey of market and consumption conditions, it was agreed that a fair price interpretation of the ratio for the month of October would be an average price, for the average of packers' droves, of about $18.50 per hundred pounds at Chicago. It cannot be expected that the day-to-day market prices, with the fluctuating flow of demand and supply, can be maintained at any fixed and definite figures, but that it should be the aim to maintain about an average during the month.

(5) The indication of war demands are that the supply of pork products for the future should be kept up to the present level of production.

Response by Producers.

The producers have responded magnificently and are placing at the hands of the Government the hogs with which to carry over the allied and domestic necessities for the next twelve months. It is obvious that after peace the world demand for pork products will be greatly increased over the present large war demands. The Food Administration should endeavor during the war to maintain prices for hogs that will be profitable to the producer and fair to the consumer, and to give this assurance to the producer, the committee recommends that the Food Administration should at once announce its intention to maintain the minimum price of not less than $15.50 continuously during the war.

Increase In Earnings and No Congestion Reported for Railroad Lines in South

Director General McAdoo has made public the following report from B. L. Winchell, Regional Director of Railroads for the Southern Region:

September 3, 1918.

Hon. W. G. McAdoo,
Director General of Railroads,
Washington.

Dear Sir: Conditions in the Southern Region are somewhat more satisfactory.

Final figures as to the earnings for July are not in for all lines, but those received show the following increases:

In gross revenue	$12,442,161
In expenses	7,557,748
In net revenue from railroad operation	4,884,413

The largest actual increase in net so far reported is by the Southern Railroad, $2,388,042. The Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis road reports more than 200 per cent increase in net ($549,463).

We still have a heavy lumber traffic in sight and can turn it into earnings as car supply permits. One hundred and thirty-five southern mills report as balance of orders on their books more than 24,000 car loads unshipped.

In order to reduce pressure on our consolidated city ticket offices, and to better accommodate the traveling public, we have established inexpensive tickets agencies at the following military camps: Wadsworth, near Spartansburg; Greene, near Charlotte; Jackson, near Columbia; Gordon, near Atlanta; Johnston, near Jacksonville, and at the marine camp at Paris Island, S. C.

In a general way, we have no congestion down here; most of our lines can handle more business, although some are close on power, but I am insisting upon better engine-miles per day.

Our principal roads are loading more coal than ever before; they can load still more with better return of coal cars from connections (which matter is in hand), with some enlargement of facilities at a few points of restriction (which work is in hand, or is beng planned), and with better car-miles per day, which essential is being followed insistently.

We must soon have more coaches for our regular trains or less travel. The coach demand for military service is overtaxing our southern lines' possibilities, and the demands for extra equipment for regular trains necessary to meet the public convenience can not always be met.

The crop prospects generally are excellent; we will surely have more cotton east of the Mississippi than a year ago.

B. L. Winchell.

DEFECTION OF BULGARIA DISCUSSED BY GEN. MARCH

reached a depth of 3 to 5 miles. The official reports indicate that the number of prisoners taken by each Army is practically the same, our Army now having 8,000 prisoners and the French 7,000—about 15,000 in all.

The American advance has proceeded entirely beyond the Hindenburg line and is now facing what they call the Kreimhild line.

On Friday the British advanced in the vicinity of Cambrai. They attacked on a 15-mile front, crossed the Canal du Nord, and this morning they were within 3 miles of the town on the northwest and west. Ten thousand prisoners and 200 guns have been reported captured at this point.

Balkan Drive Tremendous.

A glance at the positions marked on the map of the Balkan front reveals the situation there so clearly that I do not need to add anything to it. That is a tremendous drive, and carried out by relatively small forces. The distance measured to the apex of the salient north of Ishtib. In this quick advance the Serbs crossed two rivers—the Czerna and the Vardar Rivers—and captured the railroads which follow the valleys of the two rivers, and which have been the main lines of supply for the Bulgarians on either side, as well as their chief lines of escape. The result has been a general disorganization of the retreating forces, particularly those caught betwen the Vardar River and the mountains of Albania which sought too late to get out to Veles and Uskub. The British and Greek forces are cooperating. East of the Vardar they have crossed the mountains leading into Bulgaria, and have captured Strumpitsa, the chief town of that region.

The picturesque movement of the British in Palestine has also been a feature of the week, resulting in very large captures of troops and the whole movement being conspicuous by the flight of the German commander in chief, who apparently got out in advance.

Questions and Answers.

Q. Has the 84th Division arrived safely in France?

A. Practically all of it has arrived.

Q. What is the location of the 56th Pioneer Regiment?

A. We have no separate report on that oragnization.

Q. It was reported that Gen. Covell was relieved from command of 126th Regiment, 32d Division, American Expeditionary Forces, and it is now reported that he has been assigned or returned to command. What is his status?

A. According to our file of special orders from the American Expeditionary Forces Gen. Covell was relieved from the 63d Infantry and ordered to report to the commanding officer of the Army Schools for duty.

Q. We hear that Col. Kemp and Col. Brown, 110th Regiment, Pennsylvania National Guard, have been relieved of their commands and that Regular Army men have succeeded them. Can you please verify or deny?

A. We have no report whatever on this. I can now announce that the commanding officer of the American troops at Archangel is Col. Stewart. The American force is under the command of Gen. Poole of the British Army, who is commander-in-chief of all forces in that vicinity. The American Ambassador, Mr. Francis, is there, and we are in daily communication with those people on phases of the problem that arise in that vicinity.

DRAWING OF SERIAL NUMBERS TO BEGIN MONDAY, SEPT. 30

taining the list is concerned. This is not intended, however, to debar correspondents, in writing their accounts of the drawing, from using the first 100 numbers drawn.

Apart from this the procedure of the drawing will be practically identical with that followed on the two previous occasions. The numbers will be drawn from a glass bowl by officers blindfolded. These numbers have been printed on small slips, and rolled up before being inserted in the containers in such way that only the reverse side of the slip, which is of blue, will be visible from the outside.

The Serial Numbers.

The serial numbers within the individual containers will run from 1 to 17,000, the latter representing the highest possible number of registrants in any single local board jurisdiction, with an excess to cover future registrants. The numbering of the slips has been done by machine to prevent the possibility of duplication or omission, and, as a further check, the sealed containers have been counted twice by hundreds and again by thousands to make sure that the total number is correct. The sealed containers are locked up in a safe awaiting the day of the drawing.

I could not announce the date for the drawing until I had made certain, by inquiry and telegraphic reply, that each one of the 4,557 local boards throughout the country had assigned to the registrants within its jurisdiction the individual serial numbers of these registrants. You may assume, therefore, that this has been done.

Safeguard Against "Juggling."

This is a necessary safeguard against the possibility of any juggling of serial numbers in the interest of favored registrants after the order in which these numbers were drawn in the lottery here in Washington has been announced. The regulations require not only that the serial numbers shall be assigned registrants before the drawing is held, but that each board, having so assigned them, has posted them opposite the names of the registrants in a conspicuous manner in the offices of the board.

When the 17,000 serial numbers shall all have been drawn from the bowl, or rather during the process of the drawing, a "master list" will be printed. This master list, containing all 17,000 numbers in the order in which they were drawn, will be sent to each of the local boards. On receiving it each board will cross out all the numbers on the list above the highest number of registrants under its jurisdiction. What is left will be the serial numbers of the registrants in that board's jurisdiction in the order in which these numbers were drawn at Washington. In this form, with the name of a registrant beside each number, the list will be posted. And it will be the duty of the individual registrant to find his number on this list and note the order in which it appears.

Example of Master List.

As the number of registrants in the various jurisdictions vary so will vary the final appearance of the list at each board's headquarters. For example, let us assume that the following represent the first 12 numbers drawn at Washington in the order in which they are drawn: 12258, 67, 5, 798, 3, 144, 2375, 9002, 4432, 889, 13371, 329, and 24. The local board having not more than 3,500 registrants under its jurisdiction would have assigned serial numbers running only from 1 to 3500. Therefore this board, on receiving the "master list," will strike out all numbers above 3500, leaving the following sequence of serial numbers to represent the order in which its registrants would be liable: 67, 3, 144, 2375, 889, 329, and 24. It is estimated that the average local board would have between 2,800 and 3,000 registrants, which means that the average board will strike out all numbers of the "master list" above, say, 3000.

Original Glass Bowl to Be Used.

Fortunately for the historical aspects of the drawing, we have been able to secure for the occasion the same glass bowl that was used at the first drawing of July 20, 1917. This bowl, the property of Capt. Charles R. Morris, of this office, was presented by him after the first lottery to Independence Hall in Philadelphia. The custodian of Independence Hall has contributed for the occasion a wooden ladle made from the original rafters of Independence Hall. Around the edges of the table upon which the bowl will stand will be a wooden frame made from the timbers of the old frigate Constitution.

Method of the Drawing.

The officers and enlisted men who will handle the drawing will work in three relays of one hour on and two off in order that there may be no interruption in the drawing. Cots will be provided for those off duty, as well as food. One officer, blindfolded, will draw the numbers from the bowl. Four others, receiving them from him in rotation, will break open the containers, open up the slip containing the serial number, and will call out the number to the three officers manning the tally sheets and to the one who records the numbers on the blackboards. After a teller has called out a number, he passes it to another officer who verifies it and strings it on a thin wire in the order in which it had been drawn. It is impossible for any mistake to be made that can not be checked for correction.

Rules for Publishers of Farm Journals Issued to Promote the Saving of Paper

B. M. Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board, authorizes the following:

Agricultural periodicals must reduce their consumption of print paper 15 per cent before January October 1 next, under regulations for the conservation of news print paper adopted by the War Industries Board.

The pulp and paper section of the War Industries Board, of which Thomas E. Donnelley is chief, has agreed with a committee representing the publishers that the saving should come out of the industry as a whole and has accepted recommendations to that end made by the committee.

Use of Lighter Paper.

Included in these recommendations are use of lighter body paper, discontinuance of subscriptions in arrears, free exchanges to be cut off and free copies to advertisers and advertising agencies to be restricted, abandonment of sales at nominal or exceedingly low price, of prize contests for subscriptions and special or holiday numbers, except such as have been regularly isued in the past.

Establishment of new papers during the war is prohibited unless the necessity for them can be shown, and combinations of two or more agriculture periodicals must be reported to the pulp and paper section for a ruling as to paper tonnage that will be allowed.

List of the Regulations.

Following is a full text of the regulations issued:

To publishers of agricultural periodicals.

The priorities board of the War Industries Board has listed paper mills as an essential industry, and has rated them in fourth class for priority for coal, on the distinct understanding that the greatest possible economy in the use of paper be exercised, and that the reduction in the use of paper by the agricultural periodicals shall be 15 per cent.

Each paper mill will be put upon the priority list for coal, conditional upon their signing a pledge that they will furnish no paper to any consumer who will not also sign a pledge in duplicate that he will exercise the greatest possible economy in the use of paper, and will observe all rules and regulations of the conservation division and of the pulp and paper section of the War Industries Board.

Out of Industry as a Whole.

The war committee of agricultural periodical publishers feels that the necessary saving of 15 per cent should come out of the industry as a whole, and in order to accomplish this purpose made the following recommendations, which have been accepted by the pulp and paper section of the War Industries Board and are to be effective October 1, 1918. Should, on November 2, it be apparent that these recommendations do not accomplish the desired reductions, further consideration will be given to the question at that time.

The period upon which the combined tonnage of all agricultural periodicals will be figured is the year July 1, 1917, to June 30, 1918. Any periodical publications combined between the dates of July 1, 1917, and August 31, 1918, shall take as the annual tonnage of the combined publication the average monthly consumption prior to August 31, multiplied by twelve.

The individual publisher will fulfill the present demands of the pulp and paper section of the War Industries Board if he follows the regulations printed below and makes the reports promptly as from time to time required by this section.

Wasteful Practices to Be Eliminated.

1. No publisher shall use for body stock paper heavier than supercalendered, 25 by 38 inches, 50 pounds; machine finish, 25 by 38 inches, 45 pounds; news print, 24 by 36 inches, 36 pounds. For cover stock no paper heavier than has been used during the past year. All stock on hand may be used regardless of weight.

2. Discontinue all subscriptions in arrears as follows: After October 2, all subscriptions in arrears over six months; after November 2, all subscriptions in arrears over five months; after December 2, all subscriptions in arrears over four months; and after January 2 and thereafter, all subscriptions in arrears over three months.

3. No publisher may give free copies of his periodical except for actual service rendered, except to camp libraries and huts or canteens of organizations recognized by the Government, such as the Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., or Knights of Columbus; except to the Library of Congress and other libraries which will agree to bind for permanent keeping; except for Government departmental libraries which use said publications in their work; and except to agricultural institutions, experimental stations, employees of national and State departments of agriculture, and then only when said publications are for public service.

4. Discontinue free copies to advertisers or advertising agencies except one copy for checking purposes.

Stop to All Exchanges.

5. Discontinue all free exchanges.

6. Discontinue printing or circulating free copies except for the above purposes and except for advertising or subscription purposes. The total number of free copies for all purposes shall not exceed the quantity so used during the past year, and under no circumstances shall exceed more than 5 per cent of the paid-up circulation. (The paid-up circulation includes only cash sales and subscriptions that are not in arrears at all.)

7. Discontinue selling publications at an exceedingly low or nominal rate.

8. Discontinue selling publications to anyone below the subscription price except in subscription clubs or when clubbed with other publications, when in either case the price shall not be less than 75 per cent of the regular price.

9. Discontinue selling premiums with subscriptions for periodicals unless a price is put upon the premium for sale separately and the combined price is at least the full price of the premium and 75 per cent of the published subscription price of the periodical.

10. No new prize contests for subscriptions shall be started hereafter.

11. Discontinue issuing holiday and other special numbers except as have been regularly issued in the past.

Additional Regulations.

Discontinue selling advertising with a guaranty of circulation requiring a rebate if circulation falls below the guaranteed amount.

Because of the absolute necessity of curtailing the use of paper no new publications may be established during the period of the war unless it can be shown that such publication is an absolute necessity.

Any contemplated combination of two or more agricultural publications after August 31, 1918, must be referred to the pulp and paper section of the War Industries Board for a ruling as to the tonnage that will be allowed.

Publishers shall as far as possible procure paper and all their materials from the nearest available source of supply, provided it is consistent with the price, quality, and service.

A sworn statement will be required each month, giving tonnage and circulation figures. Blanks will be sent from this office.

Chief Pulp and and Paper Section.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has issued the following:

To carriers by water, owned or controlled by railroad companies:

The President, by proclamation of December 26, 1917, having taken possession and assumed control of "each and every system of transportation and the appurtenances thereof located wholly or in part within the boundaries of the continental United States and consisting of railroads and owned or controlled systems of coastwise and inland transportation"; and this commission, by the provisions of section 1 of "An act to provide for the operation of transportation systems while under Federal control, for just compensation of their owners, and for other purposes," approved March 21, 1918, being required to ascertain and certify to the President the average annual railway operating income for the three-year period ended June 30, 1917, as in the said act defined, for each of such systems of transportation making returns to it;

It is ordered, That each carrier by water owned or controlled by railroad companies located wholly or partly within the boundaries of the continental United States shall prepare and file with this commission, not later than November 1, 1918, a statement showing separately for each of the three years ended June 30, 1915, 1916, and 1917, respectively;

Item No.	Account No.
1	WI 1.—Water-line operations—Revenues	———
2	WI 14.—Water-line operations—Expenses	———
3	Net revenue (deficit in red) from water-line operations	———
4	WI 16.—Water-line tax accruals	———
5	Water-line operating income, exclusive of auxiliary operations	———

In addition thereto each carrier will compute and show upon the face of the statement, using the figures returned, which are to be exclusive of revenues and expenses arising from auxiliary operations, its average annual water-line operating income for the three-year period ended June 30, 1917.

The account, "Water-line tax accruals," for the year ended June 30, 1917, should include one-half the war taxes, assessed under the act approved October 3, 1917, against the income from operations for the calendar year 1917.

It is not intended that the returns here ordered to be made shall include a statement of special matters on which carriers may expect to base a claim for exceptional treatment as to the amount of compensation. Such claims should be presented to the Director General of Railroads.

The respondent shall also submit a statement showing all substantial changes in the quantity of, and investment in, its property and facilities used in earning its water-line operating income, as reported, for each of the three years ended June 30, 1915, 1916, and 1917.

(a) If the through export bill of lading is issued and signed on or before the expiration date of the license and subsequent to October 9, 1917; or

(b) If the ocean bill of lading is dated on or before the expiration date of the license; or

(c) If the dock receipt is dated on or before the expiration date of the license and the ocean bill of lading covering the same shipment is dated not later than 30 days after the expiration date of the license; or

(d) If the railroad notice of arrival issued at the port of exportation is dated on or before the expiration date of the license and if the ocean bill of lading covering the same shipment is dated not later than 10 days after the expiration date of the license, provided that the provisions of this paragraph (d) shall apply only when the merchandise is exported on vessels loaded at railroad docks, where dock receipts as provided in paragraph (b) cannot be issued by the vessel or its agents; or

The railroad agent issuing a through export bill of lading (combination rail and steamship bill covering goods to destination) will forward to the Bureau of Exports, War Trade Board, Washington, D. C., one copy of such bill of lading after there has been noted thereon the port of exit through which the shipment will pass.

These regulations supersede those announced in W. T. B. R. 152, made public June 29, 1918.

Program for Paper Box Manufacturers According to Industries Board Plan

B. M. Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board, authorizes the following:

Paper and cardboard box manufacturers will enforce a new program in connection with their business as a result of the placing on the preference list by the priorities division of the War Industries Board of paper and board mills with the distinct understanding that the greatest possible economy in the use of board and paper be exercised.

The war service committee of the set-up box manufacturers presented to the pulp and paper section of the War Industries Board plans of curtailment and conservation for the industry, which are accepted, to become effective, unless otherwise stated, Monday, September 16.

Scope of the Plans.

Stocks on hand on that date are not covered by the plans, but such stocks shall be used wherever practicable in conformity with the regulations, which include:

Box makers shall reduce the number of colors and grades of cover papers to the lowest possible point. Box makers shall discourage the making of small orders, particularly where varied colors and special sizes are involved. Where a customer demands of the box manufacturer, unusually small orders, particularly in varied colors and special sizes, he shall furnish, in writing, satisfactory reason for demanding same.

From September 16 to December 31, 1918, box makers shall not use paper lace to the extent of over 30 per cent of the amount used by them in the corresponding three and a half months of 1917, and beginning January 1, 1919, box makers shall not use over 15 per cent of the amount used during the year 1918. No lace whatsoever shall be furnished by box makers unless customers shall give, in writing, satisfactory reason for demanding same.

From September 16 to December 31, 1918, box makers shall not use tapes to the extent of over 50 per cent of the amount used by them in the corresponding three and a half months of 1917, and on and after January 1, 1919, there shall be used not over 30 per cent of the amount used in 1918. No tape whatsoever shall be furnished unless customers give, in writing, satisfactory reason for demanding same.

Effective September 16, 1918, there shall be eliminated the use of flies and bottom papers. This regulation shall not refer to S. and S. work, where it is clearly demonstrated that such work is handled with the greatest consideration for conservation. There shall further be exempted from the above bottoms which are less than 25 square inches, the purpose being not to interfere with the work of automatic machines in combination bottom and top processes.

Effective September 16, 1918, all boxes more than 3 inches deep shall be end-set style or molded or set-in bottom, except where special machinery has already been installed for other methods of manufacture, and same can not be discontinued without serious economic loss.

Effective September 16, 1918, all numbers below 70, basis 26 by 38, shall be eliminated except Nos. 30, 35, 40, 45, 50, 55, 60, and 65. Where intermediate numbers were previously used, the next lighter board above mentioned shall be used. The war service committee of the set-up box manufacturers has agreed that wherever practical, manufacturers now using numbers above referred to will shift to board five numbers lighter.

Trimming Papers Eliminated.

Trimming papers shall be eliminated wherever used entirely for decorative purposes, except where material is distinctly a by-product and would otherwise be wasted.

Box makers shall discourage the use of all interior parts of boxes requiring use of box board or other material to cover dead space, except in instances where special machine methods are in use and can not be eliminated without serious economic loss.

All lined board for boxes shall be eliminated where practical and plainboard substituted for same, and box makers shall make every effort to bring about such substitution.

All ribbons used for decorative purposes shall be eliminated.

The war service committee of the set-up box industry has pledged itself to use every effort with its members to report to Washington any case where a customer unduly demands boxes of such a character as to conflict with the spirit of the above regulations.

13TH REGIMENT U. S. MARINES REPORTED ARRIVED IN FRANCE

With their regimental song, "Onward, Christian Soldiers," the 13th Regiment of United States Marines has arrived in France. Word of their arrival reached the Navy Department in a cablegram on Thursday.

In connection with its departure, the number "13" played an important part. The regiment left the overseas depot at Quantico, Va., on Friday, September 13, with many of the men using the number as a lucky omen. Numbers of them shook hands with each other 13 times, said goodbye to comrades 13 times, and sang 13 songs on their departure. One marine made an effort to take along 13 black cats, but was unable to carry out his ambition. Word of their arrival in France came 13 days after their departure, on a date twice 13, September 26.

The Thirteenth Regiment is rated as one of the crack units of the Marine Corps. A record of efficiency was attained by it in marksmanship shortly before leaving Quantico. Of the entire regiment consisting of 3,850 officers and enlisted men, 3,653 or 95 per cent now hold the right to medals won on the rifle range. This is one of the nearest percentages that ever has been made to a perfect marksman, sharpshooter, and expert rifleman personnel.

Theoretical perfection in shooting calls for one-seventh of a given unit to qualify as expert riflemen, two-sevenths to qualify as sharpshooters and four-sevenths to qualify as marksmen. This equation held good almost to the man throughout the 95 per cent of the Thirteenth Regiment of Marines. Of the total of 3,653 who qualified, 506 won expert riflemen's medals, 951 qualified as sharpshooters and 2,196 as marksmen.

Nor were the members of the Thirteenth chosen for their shooting ability. The personnel consists of the usual material of a Marine regiment and their qualification is a testimonial to the excellent training that is being given the men, combined with the natural intelligence of the Marine recruit.

UNLOAD COAL CARS PROMPTLY, FUEL ADMINISTRATION WARNS

The United States Fuel Administration issues the following:

It appearing to the United States Fuel Administrator that certain concerns at whose request and for whom coal and coke is obtained by the United States Fuel Administration are failing to accept and unload such coal and coke promptly upon arrival, and that as a result of this practice the railroad equipment containing such coal and coke is kept out of operation,

The United States Fuel Administrator, acting under authority of an Executive order of the President of the United States, dated August 23, 1917, appointing said administrator, and of subsequent Executive orders, and in furtherance of the purpose of said orders, and of the act of Congress therein referred to and approved August 10, 1917,

Hereby makes and establishes the following regulation, effective September 20, 1918, at 7 a. m. until further or other order in the premises:

Regulation Requiring the Prompt Acceptance and Unloading of Coal or Coke Shipped Under Orders of the United States Fuel Administration.

SECTION 1. Every person, firm, association, or corporation for whom coal or coke has been requisitioned, diverted, or reconsigned by the United States Fuel Administrator or by his representatives in Washington in control of distribution and apportionment of coal and coke, or by any district representative of the Fuel Administration now or hereafter appointed by the United States Fuel Administrator as his representative in any coal or coke producing district, or by any State fuel administrator, shall accept and unload such coal or coke promptly upon receiving notice of its arrival at destination and shall also promptly assume and pay all transportation charges accrued thereon.

SEC. 2. Whoever knowingly violates or refuses to conform to section 1 of this regulation will be subject to the penalties prescribed in the food and fuel control act.

The above regulation promulgated this 19th day of September, 1918.

H. A. GARFIELD,
United States Fuel Administrator.

MANY TRADERS DISCIPLINED BY THE FOOD ADMINISTRATION

The Food Administration issues the following:

Miner, Read & Tullock, wholesale grocers, of New Haven, Conn., have contributed $5,000 to the Red Cross, the largest amount so contributed to that organization in their State, for averaging selling prices in such a way as to net excessive profits. Revocation of license and closing the firm's doors would have interfered too seriously with necessary food distribution, the Food Administration decided.

A member of the firm, in a communication to Federal Food Administrator Scoville, said that the company was glad to make amends, that he believed the contribution was greater than the extra profit the firm had made, and gave assurance that salesmen had been instructed to obey Food Administration regulations in future.

Because the New Cie Co., Greenville, Tex., violated the regulation forbidding a dealer to pay more for cotton seed in one district than another, they have contributed $400 to the Texas branch of the Council of National Defense, in lieu of a more drastic penalty.

Pleaded Ignorance of Rule.

The company pleaded ignorance of this rule and said that it believed it had the right, before the recent stabilization of cotton prices, to pay prevailing local prices at its several plants in Texas. This plan was not accepted because the rule requiring uniform payments has been in effect for a long time, and is not dependent upon the stabilization of cottonseed prices for this season's product.

The offer to make the contribution was accepted, instead of enforcing a revocation of license, because of the extreme hardship which the closing of any of the company's plants would inflict upon producers at the already crowded gins at Greenville, Caddo Mills, Royse, and Cumby, where the company's plants are situated.

Indian Trader Contributes.

Sever Simonson, an Indian trader at Pryor Crow Reservation, Mont., has been permitted by the Food Administration to contribute $100 to the Red Cross, in lieu of a more drastic penalty, because, as he admitted to the Federal food administrator for his State, he had paid little attention to the regulations of the Food Administration concerning the wheat-substitute rule, believing that his isolation among the Indians justified his slackness. It was pointed out to him, however, that half his trade is with white farmers and that he runs a mess hall at Pryor.

Various Bakers Penalized.

Various bakers have been penalized for violation of baking regulations by order to cease turning out products other than bread and rolls during the periods designated: Townley Baking Co., Long Branch, N. J., four days; Buckley & Co., San Francisco, two weeks; N. Kuz, K. Moll, San Francisco, two weeks; Cheyenne Steam Bakery, Cheyenne, Wyo., 60 days.

Wheat conservation will not be permitted to go by the board, even though the harvest is large.

EXTENSION OF SUFFRAGE TO WOMEN IS VITAL TO WINNING THE WAR, PRESIDENT TELLS SENATE

URGES THE IMMEDIATE PASSAGE OF MEASURE GIVING THEM THE VOTE

WOMAN'S HELP NEEDED NOW AND AFTER WAR

Verification of Our Professions of Democracy Necessary to Convince the World of Our Leadership. Appeals for "Spiritual" Help to Lighten the Burden of Executive Tasks Resting Upon Him.

The President, addressing the Senate at 1 o'clock this afternoon, said:

GENTLEMEN OF THE SENATE:

The unusual circumstances of a world war in which we stand and are judged in the view not only of our own people and our own consciences but also in the view of all nations and peoples will, I hope, justify in your thought, as it does in mine, the message I have come to bring you. I regard the concurrence of the Senate in the constitutional amendment proposing the extension of the suffrage to women as vitally essential to the successful prosecution of the great war of humanity in which we are engaged. I have come to urge upon you the considerations which have led me to that conclusion. It is not only my privilege, it is also my duty to apprise you of every circumstance and element involved in this momentous struggle which seems to me to affect its very processes and its outcome. It is my duty to win the war and to ask you to remove every obstacle that stands in the way of winning it.

I had assumed that the Senate would concur in the amendment because no disputable principle is in-

ROUT OF TURKS IN PALESTINE REPORTED BY U. S. DIPLOMAT

German Units Included in 50,000 Prisoners Taken by British in Seven Days.

The Department of State is in receipt of a telegram from the diplomatic agent at Cairo stating that 50,000 prisoners have been taken by Gen. Allenby in the last seven days. He has also blocked the last line of escape, annihilated west of the Jordan two Turkish armies, and captured over 300 guns. He has captured all of their food and medical supplies, rolling stock and baggage, ammunition, guns, horse and mechanical transport.

German Commander General Leman von Sanders narrowly escaped capture. Several German units and battalions were taken. As there is no rolling stock available, the Turkish Army east of the Jordan is in full retreat, following the line of the Hadjez Railway in order to reach Damascus. Communication has been cut off with Medina by the Arab forces holding the railway between Maan and Jordan and the New Zealand Cavalry holding the same railway at Amman. On September 25 Tibiras and Samakh were taken.

The British losses are quite small, the wounded being received at Cairo. The Moslem population of Egypt is now losing faith in Germany and Turkey by this victory. Because of the new territory taken and the new refugees, there will probably be great demands in Palestine on the American relief funds, American Zionist medical unit, and American Red Cross.

U. S. BATTLESHIP HITS MINE.

Minnesota in Dry Dock After Injuries off Delaware Breakwater.

Secretary Daniels authorizes the following:

The Navy Department is informed that the battleship Minnesota, which struck a mine off the Delaware Breakwater, arrived in port Sunday night at 7.45 and is now in dry dock for repairs. The Minnesota struck the mine on her starboard bow. The explosion tore a big hole, beginning at a point about 45 feet from the ram and extending aft about 40 feet. The width of the hole is from the bottom of the arm or belt practically to the keel, the bulge extending inward to the center of the ship.

No one was injured.

PRESIDENT DRAWS FIRST NUMBER, 322, IN LOTTERY TO FIX LIABILITY TO WAR SERVICE OF 18-45 CLASSES

VICE PRESIDENT SECOND

Drawing of 17,000 Numbers Begins in Senate Office Building with High Officials Participating—Probably will Take 26 Hours to Complete Task.

President Wilson opened to-day the drawing to determine the order of liability to military service of the approximately 13,000,000 men between the ages of 18 and 20 inclusive and 32 and 45 inclusive, who registered September 12, 1918.

In the majority caucus room in the Senate office building in the presence of a crowd that packed the room, the President drew the first number in the great lottery. It was No. 322. Because of the lowness of the number it is certain to apply to a man in every one of the 4,557 local boards.

Others in the Drawing.

Mrs. Wilson was also present. Others who followed the President in the drawing of the first 17 numbers, with the numbers they drew, were:

The Vice President of the United States, Hon. Thomas R. Marshall, No. 7277.

The President pro tempore of the Senate, Hon. Willard Saulsbury, of Delaware, No. 6708.

The Speaker of the House of Representatives, Hon. Champ Clark, No. 1027.

The Secretary of the Navy, Hon. Josephus Daniels, No. 16169.

The Acting Secretary of War, Hon. Benedict Crowell, No. 8366.

Senator George E. Chamberlain, of Oregon, chairman of the Senate Military Affairs Committee, No. 5366.

Senator Francis E. Warren, of Wyoming, ranking minority member of the Senate Military Affairs Committee, No. 1697.

Col. J. H. Wigmore, Provost Marshal General's Office, No. 1523.

17,000 Numbers to Be Drawn.

The first number was drawn by the President at noon. A total of 17,000 numbers are to be drawn, and it is estimated that approximately 26 hours will be consumed in the undertaking. Three shifts of officers and enlisted men are handling the operation. The serial numbers were contained in sealed gelatin capsules.

Although the drawing will give an order number to each of the 13,000,000 who registered, registrants will be called in accordance with their order numbers with their respective classes, as shown by the classification list, and within the ages from time to time prescribed by the President as immediately liable to be called for classification and for military service.

Regulations Sent Out.

Printed copies of the regulations governing the drawing, prepared by Col. Charles B. Warren, senior officer in the office of the Provost Marshal General, have been sent out to all local boards. These regulations include rules to be followed by the local boards in using the "master list" to determine the order numbers of the registrants within their respective jurisdictions who registered September 12, 1918, and also in assigning order numbers to those who shall have registered subsequently.

Agreement Between U. S. and Germany on Pay for Officers Held Prisoners

The War Department authorizes the following:

Under the terms of an agreement between the Government of the United States and the Imperial Government of Germany, officers held as prisoners of war are paid as follows:

a. At the rate of 350 marks, or $83.35 per month. German Army: First Lieutenants. Lieutenants. Feldwebelleutants. United States Army: First Lieutenants. Second Lieutenants.

b. At the rate of 400 marks, or $95.25 per month. German Army: Captains, rittmeister, and higher grades of officers. United States Army: Captains and officers of higher grades.

c. Until further decision is rendered grades not included in a and b will be allowed two-thirds of that allowed for classes in a.

This provision does not authorize payments to persons other than commissioned officers of the Army.

The rates of pay agreed upon shall apply without regard to whether officers are active officers, officers of the reserve grade, officers of disposition or retired, or whether they are retired officers of disposition. The rates apply also to the same class of officers who are interned as civilian prisoners and whose rank is certified by the Government of the United States or the Imperial Government of Germany.

Payment shall be made at the rate prescribed for the full time an officer has been imprisoned.

LIBERTY LOAN CAMPAIGN OPENS; ALASKA FIRST TO FILL QUOTA

The Treasury Department issues the following:

Patriotic Americans are buckling down to work on the $6,000,000,000 Fourth Liberty Loan campaign. The drive opened officially Saturday, but the opening day, with its attendant half holiday in many cities, and the festivities that open every loan, was not a sales day in the fullest meaning of the term. But to-day the biggest army of salesmen that ever participated in any loan—upward of a million, it is estimated—are going out filled with a determination to begin turning a golden stream into Uncle Sam's Treasury that will set a new record for volume and speed of receipt.

Average of $315,000,000 a Day.

Everywhere it is recognized that the task of making the Fourth Liberty loan a success is much greater than it has been in any previous loan, because its size is 50 per cent larger than any ever sought before, and also that the canvassing time has been cut one-third. Briefly, the problem that faces the country is obtaining an average of slightly more than $315,000,000, in subscriptions during every one of the 19 working days of the campaign.

Only one district committee, New York, has attempted unofficially to estimate its sales for Saturday. It is believed in New York, and the belief is backed by actual pledges, that $200,000,000 worth of bonds, or one-ninth of that district's quota was sold.

Alaska First to Fill Quota.

To the Territory of Alaska goes the first honors of having its total quota subscribed. Shortly after the opening of the loan the Alaska Packers' Association of San Francisco announced that it had subscribed the entire loan allotment for every town, village, and fishing camp in the Territory, for a total of $1,370,000.

President Urges Senate to Pass Suffrage Amendment; No Party Issue Involved; Measure Necessary to Win War

volved but only a question of the method by which the suffrage is to be extended to women. There is and can be no party issue involved in it. Both of our great national parties are pledged, explicitly pledged, to equality of suffrage for the women of the country. Neither party, therefore, it seems to me, can justify hesitation as to the method of obtaining it, can rightfully hesitate to substitute federal initiative for state initiative, if the early adoption of this measure is necessary to the successful prosecution of the war and if the method of state action proposed in the party platforms of 1916 is impracticable within any reasonable length of time, if practicable at all. And its adoption is, in my judgment, clearly necessary to the successful prosecution of the war and the successful realization of the objects for which the war is being fought.

Professions Not Sufficient.

That judgment I take the liberty of urging upon you with solemn earnestness for reasons which I shall state very frankly and which I shall hope will seem as conclusive to you as they seem to me.

This is a peoples' war and the peoples' thinking constitutes its atmosphere and morale, not the predilections of the drawing room or the political considerations of the caucus. If we be indeed democrats and wish to lead the world to democracy, we can ask other peoples to accept in proof of our sincerity and our ability to lead them whither they wish to be led nothing less persuasive and convincing than our actions. Our professions will not suffice. Verification must be forthcoming when verification is asked for. And in this case verification is asked for,—asked for in this particular matter. You ask by whom? Not through diplomatic channels; not by Foreign Ministers. Not by the intimation of parliaments. It is asked for by the anxious, expectant, suffering peoples with whom we are dealing and who are willing to put their destinies in some measure in our hands, if they are sure that we wish the same things that they do. I do not speak by conjecture.

It is not alone the voices of statesmen and of newspapers that reach me, and the voices of foolish and intemperate agitators do not reach me at all. Through many, many channels I have been made aware what the plain, struggling, workaday folk are thinking upon whom the chief terror and suffering of this tragic war falls. They are looking to the great, powerful, famous Democracy of the West to lead them to the new day for which they have so long waited; and they think, in their logical simplicity, that democracy means that women shall play their part in affairs alongside men and upon an equal footing with them. If we reject measures like this, in ignorance or defiance of what a new age has brought forth, of what they have seen but we have not, they will cease to believe in us; they will cease to follow or to trust us. They have seen their own governments accept this interpretation of democracy—seen old governments like that of Great Britain, which did not profess to be democratic, promise readily and as of course this justice to women, though they had before refused it, the strange revelations of this war having made many things new and plain, to governments as well as to peoples.

Women Partners in the War.

Are we alone to refuse to learn the lesson? Are we alone to ask and take the utmost that our women can give,—service and sacrifice of every kind,—and still say we do not see what title that gives them to stand by our sides in the guidance of the affairs of their Nation and ours? We have made partners of the women in this war; shall we admit them only to a partnership of suffering and sacrifice and toil and not to a partnership of privilege and right? This war could not have been fought, either by the other nations engaged or by America, if it had not been for the services of the women,—services rendered in every sphere,—not merely in the fields of effort in which we have been accustomed to see them work, but wherever men have worked and upon the very skirts and edges of the battle itself. We shall not only be distrusted but shall deserve to be distrusted if we do not enfranchise them with the fullest possible enfranchisement, as it is now certain that the other great free nations will enfranchise them. We can not isolate our thought and action in such a matter from the thought of the rest of the world. We must either conform or deliberately reject what they propose and resign the leadership of liberal minds to others.

Will Not Be Slackers."

The women of America are too noble and too intelligent and too devoted to be slackers whether you give or withhold this thing that is mere justice; but I know the magic it will work in their thoughts and spirits if you give it them. I propose it as I would propose to admit soldiers to the suffrage, the men fighting in the field for our liberties and the liberties of the world, were they excluded. The tasks of the women lie at the very heart of the war, and I know how much stronger that heart will beat if you do this just thing and show our women that you trust them as much as you in fact and of necessity depend upon them.

" Vital to the Winning of the War."

Have I said that the passage of this amendment is a vitally necessary war measure, and do you need further proof? Do you stand in need of the trust of other peoples and of the trust of our own women? Is that trust an asset or is it not? I tell you plainly, as the Commander in Chief of our armies and of the gallant men in our fleets, as the present spokesman of this people in our dealings with the men and women throughout the world who are now our partners, as the responsible head of a great Government which stands and is questioned day by day as to its purposes, its principles, its hopes, whether they be serviceable to men everywhere or only to itself, and who must himself answer these questionings or be shamed, as the guide and director of forces caught in the grip of war and by the same token in need of every material and spiritual resource this great Nation possesses—I tell you plainly that this measure which I urge upon you is vital to the winning of the war and to the energies alike of preparation and of battle.

Needed After the War.

And not to the winning of the war only. It is vital to the right solution of the great problems which we must settle, and settle immediately, when

SUSPENSION OF AUTOMOBILE AND MOTOR RACES REQUESTED

A request that all automobile, motorcycle, and motor-boat racing and speed contests be suspended for the period of the war is made by United States Fuel Administrator Garfield.

The request comes as a result of the growing need for the conservation of gasoline and because of the demand for skilled automobile drivers and mechanics for war service. A strict compliance with the request is earnestly desired.

Auto Association Cooperating.

The American Automobile Association is cooperating in the movement and has assured the Fuel Administration that it is prepared to observe the request. Chairman Richard Kennerdell, of the Association's Contest Board, reports that he has practically suspended operations and will issue no more sanctions for race meets or speed contests.

Sanctions have been previously given, however, for races to be held at Trenton, N. J., Danbury, Conn., Tucson and Phoenix, Ariz., and at Los Angeles, Cal., within the next 2 months, but it is expected that the promoters of these contests will call the events off in order to comply with the wishes of the Fuel Administration.

Saving of Gasoline.

Besides the saving of gasoline the cessation of race meets will serve to supply expert operators and mechanics for service in the Army Transport and Aeronautic branches of the Army.

HEADQUARTERS, AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCES,
September 27.

Section A.—Northwest of Verdun the first army continued its attack begun yesterday. The towns of Charpentry, Very, Epinonville, and Ivoiry were taken. Repeated hostile counterattacks on Maj. Gen. Cameron's corps were thrown back by troops from Ohio, New Jersey, Maryland, and Virginia, and from Oregon, Washington, Colorado, Wyoming, and Montana. The captured material includes over 100 guns, of which 12 are of heavy caliber, many trench mortars, and hundreds of machine guns. The number of prisoners has risen to over 8,000, including 125 officers.

Section B.—The commander in chief has awarded the distinguished service cross posthumously to the following officers and men of the A. E. F., killed in action, for the acts of gallantry set forth after their names:

Sergt. JOHN S. SIMPSON, Infantry. Emergency address, Sergt. J. S. Simpson, 54th Infantry; Marion E. Simpson, Manchester, Kans.; Sergt. J. S. Simpson, 9th Infantry; Mrs. Mary Simpson, mother, Ready, Ky. "For extraordinary heroism in action in the Soissons sector, France, July 18, 1918. During the assault near Soissons, Sergt. Simpson, although severely wounded, continued in action for several hours, leading a group of men beyond and back of an enemy machine-gun emplacement, in order to flank it and make the infantry advance at this point possible. He succeeded, but while engaged in this courageous duty he was killed."

Maj. ARTHUR E. BOULTON, Infantry. Emergency address, no record. "For extraordinary heroism in action near Soissons, France, July 18, 1918. His exhibition of dash and courage in leading an assaulting line against enemy machine-gun nests under terrific artillery fire, and the successful protection of his left flank, which became exposed when liaison was broken, aided materially the success of the whole attack. He was killed by shell fire while leading his battalion in the assault."

First Lieut. Isaac V. Goltra, Infantry. Mrs. H. D. Willett, sister, Blue Mound, Ill. "For extraordinary heroism in action in the Chateau-Thierry section, France, June 6 and 7, 1918. Lieut. Goltra exhibited exceptional self-sacrifice and courage in the face of heavy machine-gun fire, promptly taking command of his platoon when its leader was killed and fearlessly leading its advance. The second day of the attack he was killed while directing his platoon through a heavy German barrage."

Pvt. (first class) EMERY MAHAFEY, Medical Department, Infantry (James Mahafey, brother, 216 McDonough Road, Atlanta, Ga.). On May 28 and 29, 1918, at Cantigny, France, he did more than his duty under violent fire in the open to relieve sufferings of the wounded. On his way to a machine-gun emplacement to succor men who had been injured there, he stopped to give first aid to Pvt. Jay Ler Antes, who lay mortally wounded and exposed to machine-gun fire, and while performing this heroic act was killed.

First Lieut. JUDSON P. GALLOWAY, Infantry (Mrs. J. P. Galloway, wife, 153 Grand Street, Newburgh, N. Y.). For extraordinary heroism in action in the Chateau Thierry sector, France, June 6, 1918. Lieut. Galloway exhibited exceptional courage and leadership when, after being mortally wounded, he continued to direct the steady advance of his platoon in the face of heavy machine-gun fire until struck a second time and killed.

Second Lieut. FRED H. BECKER, United States Marine Corps (no address given). For extraordinary heroism in action near Vierzy, France, July 18, 1918, Lieut. Becker went forward in advance of his platoon and destroyed a machine-gun nest, thereby preventing the death or injury of many men of his command. His self-sacrificing courage permitted his platoon to advance, but as he completed the performance of this noble work he himself was killed.

Second Lieut. LOWELL H. RILEY, Infantry (Mrs. A. M. Riley, mother, 36 William Street, Orange, N. Y.) For extraordinary heroism in action at Villa Savoie, northeast of Chateau Thierry, France, August 7, 1918. Lieut. Riley maintained an observing station for his battalion commander for two days, although subjected during the whole of this time to intense artillery bombardment. He obtained valuable information as to the movements of the enemy, which was used in directing artillery fire. While engaged in this very important and hazardous work he was killed by shell fire.

Corpl. ROBERT E. CRAIDGE, Infantry. Eleanor Craidge, 611 Polk Street, Bay City Mich. "For extraordinary heroism in action at Hill 212 near Cierges, northeast of Chateau Thierry, France, July 31, 1918. Corpl. Craidge was in charge of an advanced Chauchat rifle position while his company was exposed to severe machine-gun fire from the front and right flank. After three of his men had been killed and the other totally blinded by shell fire, Corpl. Craidge remained at his post and kept his gun in operation until he was killed. This brave act inspired the members of his organization who were eyewitnesses."

Pvt. EDWARD C. COXE, Infantry. Mrs. M. J. Coxe, 156 West Eleventh Street, New York City, N. Y. "For extraordinary heroism in action at Ferme de Meurcy, near Villers-Sur-Fere, France, July 26 1918. He continued to care for the wounded under heavy shell, machine-gun and artillery fire after he himself was severely injured. He has since died as a result of the wounds received in action."

Pvt. CHAS. R. BURKS, Infantry. J. H. Burks, father, Malvern, Iowa. "For extraordinary heroism in action near Sergy, northeast of Chateau Thierry, France, July 30, 1918. During the midday attack on Sergy, after all the runners had been killed or wounded, Pvt. Burks volunteered to take a message to a neighboring unit through violent bombardment and machine-gun fire. He was killed by a machine-gun bullet while on his way with the message."

Pvt. HARRY OLLRICH, Infantry. Henry Ollrich, father, Mount Clemens, Mich. "For extraordinary heroism in action during the advance across the river Ourcq and from Cierges to Fismes, France, July 31 to August 4, 1918. Many times daily during this advance, Pvt. Ollrich displayed an entire disregard of personal danger in the carrying of messages through enemy barrages. Later, in the fighting near Fismes, when it became necessary to send an important message to the commanding officer of the battalion, although Pvt. Ollrich had been on constant duty night and day for four days, he attempted to deliver the message, but was killed while crossing a shell-swept zone."

Pvt. GEORGE McFARLING, Infantry. Ada Lane McFarling, mother, 824 Leith Street, Flint, Mich. "For extraordinary heroism in action near Cierges, northeast of Chateau Thierry, France, July 31 1918. Although he was himself severely wounded, Pvt. McFarling crawled over to an exposed and dangerous place to render first aid to a seriously wounded comrade, and while doing so received a fatal wound."

WORK OF CONGRESS BRIEFLY TOLD

SENATE.

Practically without discussion the Senate late Saturday afternoon passed the resolution already adopted in the House appropriating $1,600,000 for the Public Health Service to be used in fighting Spanish influenza, which has become epidemic in many camps and in a number of sections of the country.

The woman suffrage constitutional amendment resolution was again under consideration all of Saturday and went over until to-day without action. The friends of the measure admitted they had not the votes at present to put the resolution through. Conferences were held Saturday afternoon and again this morning with a view to reaching a conclusion of what had best be done under the circumstances. Two Senators who had been expected to support the resolution announced their purpose of voting against it on the ground that each State should be permitted to determine for itself who should vote therein.

Senate conferees on the food emergency agricultural appropriation bill reached a partial agreement Saturday afternoon but are still far apart on many of the important amendments. The Senate amendment designed to prevent rent profiteering was discussed but action thereon was postponed until the next session. War-time prohibition, which is an amendment to this measure, is not in dispute, as the House by a vote adopted the Senate's amendment to the original House proposal. A partial agreement was reached under which the Senate tentatively agreed to recede from an amendment giving the Secretary of the interior the right to lease for the government mineral lands located on Indian lands. The House managers objected to the Senate amendment changing the War Finance corporation act so as to increase authority for loaning money to farmers, but Senate conferees stood out for acceptance of this amendment.

The annual agricultural appropriation bill carrying a total of $28,000,000 was repassed late Saturday afternoon. This is the bill vetoed by the President because it contained a provision increasing the guaranteed price of wheat for the 1918 crop. As repassed the objectionable item was eliminated.

Appearing before the Agricultural committee, Elliott H. Goodwin, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, explained the financial assistance given to the chamber by the meat packers. He said that since the organization of the chamber in 1912 the meat packers had contributed a total of only $9,000. Chairman William Colver, of the Federal Trade Commission, charged that the packers in their national advertising campaign had so distorted the statement of the Federal Trade Commission relative to the industry that the public had derived a wrong impression concerning that fact.

Saturday afternoon the Senate adopted the conference report on the mineral control bill, which provides for Government stimulation of production and distribution of certain minerals needed in war work. The report has been adopted by the House, and the measure now goes to the President. It provides for a revolving fund of $50,000,000, and the Executive is given authority to create one or more corporations to develop or aid in mining and distribution.

When the nomination of Victor Murdock, of Kansas, to be a member of the Federal Trade Commission was reached in the Executive calendar Saturday afternoon, Senators Smoot, of Utah, and Sherman, of Illinois, both Republicans, asked that the question of confirmation go over temporarily, stating that they desired to discuss it. The nomination of Mark Storen, of Indianapolis, to be United States Marshal for the district of Indiana was confirmed.

HOUSE.

Debate continued throughout all of Saturday afternoon on the emergency power bill, with no time determined upon for the final vote. Chairman Sims hopes to finally pass the measure by to-morrow.

The bill authorizing the creation of a two-platoon system in the Fire Department of the District of Columbia was sent to conference. By an act previously passed, the funds for the payment of the additional firemen made necessary by this system have been appropriated.

PRESIDENT URGES THE SENATE TO PASS SUFFRAGE MEASURE

the war is over. We shall need then in our vision of affairs, as we have never needed them before, the sympathy and insight and clear moral instinct of the women of the world. The problems of that time will strike to the roots of many things that we have not hitherto questioned, and I for one believe that our safety in those questioning days, as well as our comprehension of matters that touch society to the quick, will depend upon the direct and authoritative participation of women in our counsels. We shall need their moral sense to preserve what is right and fine and worthy in our system of life, as well as to discover just what it is that ought to be purified and reformed. Without their counsellings we shall be only half wise.

Spiritual Help Needed.

That is my case. This is my appeal. Many may deny its validity, if they choose, but no one can brush aside or answer the arguments upon which it is based. The executive tasks of this war rest upon me. I ask that you lighten them and place in my hands instruments, spiritual instruments, which I do not now possess, which I sorely need, and which I have daily to apologize for not being able to employ.

INSTRUCTIONS TO NAVY'S BEEF INSPECTOR REGARDING WEIGHTS

Admiral Benson, Acting Secretary of the Navy, authorizes the following:

The following telegraphic instructions were issued September 25, 1918, by Admiral McGowan, Paymaster General of the Navy, and sent to the Navy inspector of beef at Chicago:

"Maj. Roy has received instructions to make all Navy allotment promptly upon his return to Chicago Friday morning.

"Navy has not lowered and will not lower its minimum weight specifications of 575 pounds per carcass of beef, but has agreed with the Army and allies that after the Food Administration has preempted for and allotted to the fighting forces of America and the allies all beef possibly obtainable which weighs 575 pounds up to 850 pounds if there then be a deficiency of this weight beef the deficiency may be filled by accepting specification quality beef lighter than but as near as possible to 575 pounds minimum, this lighter beef to be divided pro rata on the basis of total demands of Army and Navy and allied fighting forces, no beef weighing 575 pounds to 850 pounds to be diverted to the civilian population either here or abroad. The Navy's consent to accepting any beef weighing less than 575 pounds was only a temporary expedient as last resort in case of actual emergency and for time being only.

"Act in conjunction with Army and allies and Maj. Roy and inspect beef on this basis. Instruct allottees regarding stock upkeep at branch houses. Advise supply officers regarding allotment at earliest possible moment and Sanda of number and weight of any carcasses accepted weighing less than 575 pounds and percentage this number bears to total accepted. Full instructions follow."

LEGAL ADVISERS READY TO AID FOREIGN-BORN REGISTRANTS

Provost Marshal Gen. Crowder authorizes the following statement:

The attention of all foreign-born registrants is called to the fact that in every community legal advisory boards, appointed by the President on recommendation of the Governors of the various States under regulations of this office, stand ready to aid the individual registrant in filling out his questionnaire and in acquainting him with his duties and his rights under the selective service law.

Should Answer Questions Fully.

In order that the local and district boards, in classifying registrants, may act fairly and intelligently on all claims which the registrant feels he is entitled to make, it is essential that the registrant shall answer promptly and fully all the questions contained in the questionnaire, and shall be prepared to file with his questionnaire all the necessary affidavits and supplemental information. It is to enable him to do this that the legal advisory boards have been created.

These boards have at their command the services of most of the lawyers in their respective communities, including those able to speak the various languages of the foreign-born citizens of the country.

Advice Available to All.

Their advice and assistance is available to all registrants free of cost. Also affidavits may be sworn to before them without payment of any fees. They can not forecast the decisions of local or district boards upon individual cases. They can merely advise generally and aid the registrant in preparing his papers in a conscientious effort to put all the facts before the local or district board in an intelligent way, so that a proper decision may be reached.

One Member Always Present.

There is at least one member of the legal advisory board in attendance where a local board is sitting during the time that the questionnaires are required to be filled out and filed.

You are urged to consult them freely and with confidence that their aid is entirely disinterested.

RESTRICTIONS ANNOUNCED ON SOLID RUBBER TIRE STYLES

B. M. Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board, authorizes the following:

The War Industries Board has issued instructions to manufacturers of solid automobile tires to restrict at once their production of such tires to 40 sizes and types. There are now more than 100 such sizes and types. There will be a further elimination of 4 of these 40 sizes and types on November 1, and a gradual reduction during the next 2 years to 14 sizes and types. The use of caustic soda by the manufacturers of rubber of all types is to be discontinued at once.

Conservation of Rubber.

The Conservation Division of the War Industries Board, which prepared the solid automobile tire schedule with the cooperation of representatives of the industry, points out that the conservation of rubber is very necessary to aid in carrying on the war program. It believes this can be brought about through the standardization of sizes and types because such standardization enables the maximum quantity of finished products to be made with the minimum amount of labor and materials. It likewise reduces capital and material represented in excess manufacturers' and dealers' stocks.

The Standardization Program.

Following is the standardization program:

Class A.—Hard base, pressed on, and all removable types of tires: 32 by 3, 32 by 3½, 32 by 4, 36 by 4, 36 by 5, 40 by 5, 36 by 6, 40 by 6, 36 by 7, 36 by 8, 36 by 10, 40 by 10, 40 by 12, 40 by 14. The manufacture of the types and sizes of tires included in Class A to be continued.

Class B.—Hard base, pressed on, and all removable types of tires: 34 by 3, 34 by 3½, 36 by 3½, 34 by 4, 34 by 5, 40 by 7, 30 by 3½. The manufacture of the types and sizes of tires included in Class B to be discontinued not later than November 1, 1920.

Class C.—Hard base, pressed on, and all removable types of tires: 32 by 2½, 36 by 3, 38 by 4, 38 by 5, 34 by 6, 38 by 6. Cushion tires to fit standard clincher rims: 30 by 3, 34 by 4, 32 by 4, 34 by 4½, 36 by 4. Side wire, for International Harvester Co. trucks: 38 by 2½, 42 by 2½. Clincher flange type for International Harvester Co. trucks: 38 by 2½, 38 by 3. The manufacture of the types and sizes of tires included in Class C to be discontinued not later than November 1, 1919.

Class D.—Hard base, pressed on, and all removable types of tires: 42 x 5, 42 x 6. Cushion tires to fit standard clincher rims: 34 by 3½, 38 x 4½. The manufacture of the types and sizes of tires included in Class D to be discontinued not later than November 1, 1918.

Class E.—All other types and sizes. The manufacture of the types and sizes of tires included in Class E to be discontinued at once.

LABOR POLICIES BOARD'S VIEWS AS TO PRICES AND PRODUCTION OF THE NECESSARIES OF LIFE

Chairman Felix Frankfurter of the War Labor Policies Board authorizes the following statement:

Various branches of the Government are vigorously bending their efforts toward a just control of the prices of the necessaries of life. Labor is especially concerned in the maintenance of a fair level of prices. The subject, therefore, naturally forced itself upon the attention of the War Labor Policies Board representing as it does the industrial agencies of the war administration.

Realizes Great Difficulties.

The Policies Board in common with all who have considered the problem appreciates fully the great public benefits which have already resulted from the activities of the War Industries Board, the Fuel Administration, the Food Administration, and the Department of Agriculture. Above all it realizes the tremendous difficulties inherent in undertaking price control, but, like other great problems presented by the war, this undertaking must be pursued because the successful enforcement of labor policies is inextricably bound up with all those conditions, usually called the cost of living.

The Policies Board, therefore, felt impelled to place at the disposal of the price-controlling agencies the needs of the situation as seen by the agencies responsible for dealing with labor matters.

Resolutions.

Whereas the War Labor Policies Board in its task of formulating labor policies during the war recognizes the intimate relation of the cost of the necessities of life to the success of a labor policy, and the influence of a belief that profits in these commodities are excessive in causing industrial unrest,

Whereas the successful formulation of a practical labor policy depends upon large production of the necessities of life, price stabilization, and the elimination of inequitable profits; therefore be it

Resolved, That the War Industries Board, the Food Administration, the Department of Agriculture, and the Fuel Administration be requested to proceed as rapidly as possible with the formulation and enforcement of plans for the increase in production of the necessities of life for the stabilization of the prices of food, textiles, clothing, and other necessities, and for the equitable limitation of profits.

LABOR-SAVING DEVICES IN MINES.

A committee has been formed consisting of Grant Hamilton, representing the Department of Labor; George J. Salmon, Bureau of Mines; and S. A. Taylor, representing the Fuel Administration, to investigate mechanical labor-saving devices relating to mining.

The War Trade Board announces, in a new ruling (W. T. B. R. 224), the issuance of a new general import license, to be known as P. B. F. No. 27, which will be effective for shipments made on or after October 1, 1918. This license covers the importation into the United States from the United Kingdom, France, and Italy, or their European or Mediterranean African possessions or protectorates, of all commodities, except those hereinafter enumerated, provided the specific goods sought to be imported originated in said countries or in said possessions or protectorates.

American Consuls Instructed.

American consuls in the countries affected by this new general import license have been instructed to certify invoices for all shipments included within the terms of this general license without further official instructions or official notification of individual import license numbers. The consuls will, however, indorse on all such invoices covered by this general license "P B F No. 27," in the same manner as is now done in the case of commodities covered by other general licenses.

The list of commodities above enumerated is a tentative one. A detailed list, classified according to the tariff paragraphs, is being prepared and will be announced shortly.

This new general license purposes to include commodities whose importation from Europe has been entirely unrestricted and whose distribution in this country has not been controlled; also, with certain exceptions, those commodities whose importation has heretofore been allowed under the back-haul privilege from convenient European and Mediterranean African ports.

Commodities covered by this new general license will not, therefore, require an individual import license, and it will not be necessary for the War Trade Board to cable officially regarding such shipments.

SAYS NAVY OFFICERS DO NOT ASK INCOME TAX EXEMPTION

Secretary Daniels has sent the following letter to Senator Simmons, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, under date of September 26, 1918:

MY DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN:

I notice that a suggestion has been made, or an amendment offered, to the pending revenue measure, under which those naval officers serving abroad would be exempted from the income tax. I am writing to express the view of the department and of the officers of the Navy, protesting against such discrimination. The naval officers under the law must render the service to which they are assigned, and the exigencies of the service require a transfer from shore to sea service and from service in this country to Europe. Constant interchange of orders would make it very difficult to determine who should be exempted under the proposed exemption if it should be incorporated in the bill. Most officers who go abroad do not remain a year, and their places are taken by other officers who have been doing important shore duty. If the bill should name a particular date when the officers should be exempted from the payment of the income tax, the officer who secured such exemption would not be entitled to it nearly so much as the officers who have been abroad for 10 months and who have been ordered home to America on that particular date.

Asks No Discrimination.

If it shall be the policy of Congress to exempt naval officers from the income tax I shall urge that the exemption include all without discrimination, for those officers remaining in America are not doing so by choice, but are anxious to be sent for service abroad.

The last session of Congress departed from the policy that has heretofore prevailed and gave commutation of quarters to officers on foreign duty, which added quite a sum to the incomes of these officers, and, as you know, all officers on foreign duty got the advantage of an additional 10 per cent on their pay. To exempt them from the income tax would give them an advantage over their brother officers which I do not think they should have. I venture to suggest that in the framing of the new revenue measure, in so far as it affects the Navy, no exemptions whatever be given. Most naval officers regard it as a privilege in this emergency to pay their income tax, and I would not like to see a precedent established of exempting from this tax the men who are rendering this high service.

Not Asked by Officers.

Congress has enacted legislation which has resulted in the promotion of most officers of the Navy, and, of course, this promotion has carried an addition in salary and an addition in commutation of quarters. Further promotions will come with the increase of the Navy, and there is no sound reason for exemption from the income tax. Naval officers have not asked it; the department does not ask it; and I feel it my duty to communicate this information to your committee.

If I may be permitted to express an opinion upon the matter, it is my judgment that the income tax should be paid alike by everyone—those in the naval service and all other military service, as well as those in civilian walks of life.

Sincerely, yours,

JOSEPHUS DANIELS.

REGISTRATION IN MAINE.

The War Department authorizes the following from the office of the Provost Marshal General:

Complete returns from Maine show that the registration in that State on September 12 was 87,687, as against a previous estimate of 80,770.

DISTRICT DRAFT BOARDS ASKED TO EXPEDITE CLASSIFICATION

The War Department authorizes the following from the office of the Provost Marshal General:

Provost Marshal General has sent the following to members of district boards:

A heavy task faces the district boards in connection with the classification of the men who registered on September 12.

It is with a full responsibility of this burden and responsibility that I rely upon you to assist us in the work of expediting the classification to the fullest possible extent consistent with the great importance of the task.

Jurisdiction Extended.

As you are aware, the district boards in dependency cases are, generally speaking, the courts of last resort. In occupational cases the original responsibility is yours. In the latter field your jurisdiction has been extended by the recent act of Congress, extending the age limits of the Selective Service, to cover deferment of persons engaged in all occupations or employments as well as in industries, including agriculture, which you may find to be necessary to the maintenance of the Military Establishment, or the effective operation of the military forces, or the maintenance of the national interest in the emergency. Thus, at a time when the exigencies of the military situation make it imperative to speed up the entire machinery of the Selective Service, the number of cases which you will be called upon to handle is likely to be largely increased.

Necessity for Prompt Handling.

These cases you must handle under the double obligation of satisfying the vital man-power needs of the Army but not impairing the economic structure of the country, the efficiency of whose functions, in many instances, is vital to the support of the Army. As to your ability to solve this problem to the best interests of the Nation and the cause for which it fights, I have not the slightest doubt. It is to the necessity for the prompt handling of all cases as they come before you that I desire particularly to direct your attention.

Until the classification of the new registrants has been completed, there will, of course, exist considerable and widespread uncertainty and unrest among the registrants, which, in the case of those employed in necessary occupations, will tend to retard production. Thus the national interest demands that there be no unnecessary delays in determining the status of these individuals.

Program Requires Haste.

On the other hand, the military program requires that Class I men under the new registration be made available for military training within 90 days—some almost immediately.

It is upon my faith in your ability to meet the situation that I have built my pledge to have the men ready when called for.

Copies of letters to governors and to local boards generally are inclosed herewith.

(Signed) E. H. CROWDER,
Provost Marshal General.

KEROSENE OIL PRODUCERS URGED TO INCREASE OUTPUT

Refiners Are Warned by Fuel Administration of Impending Shortage This Winter.

As a precautionary measure to forestall an impending shortage of kerosene during the coming winter, the Oil Division of the United States Fuel Administration has issued the following letter to all refineries throughout the country:

Should Increase Production.

"I am convinced it is absolutely necessary that the kerosene production of the country should be materially increased. Statistically, kerosene is in a more unsatisfactory position than gasoline or fuel oil. We have not heretofore felt the acuteness of this situation because of the summer season through which we have just passed. Now, however, we are approaching the season of maximum kerosene consumption and unless steps are taken immediately to provide increased supply we shall undoubtedly this winter face a shortage much more acute than we have as yet experienced in any of the petroleum products.

Decrease in Output.

The statistics now in the hands of your subcommittee show clearly the decrease in the percentage output of kerosene by practically all refineries. The situation as a whole shows decrease in barrels produced and a very large increase in domestic consumption which fortunately has been offset by decrease in exports due to lack of tonnage for overseas movement. This export movement is now increasing, and the winter will soon be upon us. I request, therefore, that you communicate with each refinery, forwarding them a copy of this letter, and urge upon them the absolute necessity of increasing their kerosene production to the fullest extent possible, at least to a percentage amount equal to that of last year.

Detailed Reports Asked.

Will you please act upon this promptly, and forward me a detailed report as to the replies you receive?

Yours, very truly,

M. L. REQUA,
General Director, Oil Division,
United States Fuel Administration.

NO "NOV. 1 COAL ORDER" ISSUED BY THE FUEL ADMINISTRATION

United States Fuel Administrator Garfield said:

"Neither the United States Fuel Administrator nor the Federal fuel administrator for New York has issued any order that coal be not used for domestic heating before November 1. We are advised that a letter has been sent out over the name of the National Retail Coal Merchants' Association asking consumers to refrain from using coal in furnaces or stoves at least until November 1.

Asks Nothing Unreasonable.

"It is recognized that during the coming winter every reasonable effort must be made to conserve fuel if the available supply is to meet the necessary needs. While the Fuel Administration strongly urges conservation and bespeaks the cooperation of the public, it does not insist upon unreasonable requirements or that its request for conservation be complied with when compliance would be unreasonable or would result in sickness or injury to health."

ATTITUDE OF LABOR POLICIES BOARD TOWARD EMPLOYMENT OF CHILDREN IN WAR INDUSTRY

Chairman Felix Frankfurter, of the War Labor Policies Board, authorizes the following statement concerning the board's attitude toward the employment of children in war industry:

"The imperative need for a maximum production of the materials of war requires that all available reservoirs of labor be drawn upon. The exigencies of the national situation are such that recurrent suggestions that child labor be utilized have been heard. In view of this fact and in view of the probable increasing demands that children be included in the industrial mobilization for war, the policy of the war production agencies of the government should be clearly kept in mind.

Antichild-Labor Regulations.

"The War Labor Policies Board, which is the voice of all the industrial agencies of the Government, has in part defined this policy by anti-child-labor regulations contained in the contracts made by the war administration.

"1. No child under 14 years of age shall be employed on war work.

"2. No child between 14 and 16 years of age shall be employed more than 8 hours a day, nor before 6 a. m., nor after 7 p. m., nor more than 6 days a week on war materials.

"The prohibition of the employment of children below certain ages does not mean that the employment of children above those ages is favored. To recruit children of 14 or 16 years of age for industry is ignoring their future value as trained workers. Neither the patriotic desire to serve immediately, nor the attraction of high wages should draw children from school to work.

Sacrifice Not Yet Necessary.

"Children above the minimum ages of permitted employment must still be considered as potential citizens, and not merely as present producers. The sacrifice involved in the premature labor of children is not yet necessary. The curtailment of nonessential industry, and the employment of men and women not now productively engaged, will undoubtedly prove sufficient to care for the requirements of the conduct of the war.

"In order to satisfy the claims of the future, the maintenance of present educational and child-labor standards is indispensable. The formative years of youth should be safeguarded by purposeful training of developed usefulness in the Nation. The time is not yet in sight when the defense of the Nation must be assumed by children. The men and women of America are competent to the task."

AMERICAN OFFICIAL COMMUNIQUES

Mich. "For extraordinary heroism in action north of Jaul Conne, near Sergy, France, July 31, 1918. Although exposed to artillery and machine-gun and rifle fire, Corpl. Stuart attempted to carry a wounded man from within 100 feet of the German line. He was killed while crawling toward his own lines with his wounded comrade on his back."

Sergt. CARL L. PAYSON, Infantry, [illegible], Mich. "For extraordinary heroism in action at Cierges, northeast of Chateau-Thierry, France, August, 1918. During the attack made by the company on the village of Cierges, Sergt. Payson was mortally wounded in the head by a machine-gun bullet. He succeeded in keeping on his feet, however, and with the attacking wave, encouraging his men, and by his strong will power he instilled in them all the spirit of fearlessness."

Pvt. MARCUS ARMIJO, Infantry. Mrs. Maria Salasa Armigo, wife, 905 South Virginia Street, El Paso, Tex. "For extraordinary heroism in action north of Mont. St. Martin, south of the Vesle River bar Fismes, France, August 5, 1918. While his company was under a heavy barrage fire, Pvt. Armijo was hit by a shell and both his legs blown off. Pvt. Armijo lifted himself upon his elbow and rolled and smoked cigarettes. By this display of nerve Pvt. Armijo conveyed to his comrades an unconquerable spirit of fearless pluck and will power."

HEADQUARTERS AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCES,
September 28, 1918.

Section A.—The attack begun on September 26 continues to develop successfully. To-day our troops, advancing in the face of heavy infantry, artillery, and machine-gun fire, have reached the outskirts of Brieulles and Exermont. More than 20 towns and enormous quantities of material have fallen into our hands. The number of prisoners continues to increase. American aviators have kept command of the air. They have brought down 12 balloons and more than 60 enemy planes, while less than a third of that number of our planes are missing. In conjunction with French and British aviators they have, notwithstanding unfavorable weather, rendered valuable service and successfully executed many missions.

Section B.—The following extract is from a German soldier's letter found in the Woevre September 22: "Americans are in front of us. To the right of us Indians of the Sioux tribe were identified in one of the last attacks. After the war Karl May can write another book about his war experiences with his dear Indians."

American Official Communique No. 138.

HEADQUARTERS, AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCES,
September 29, 1918.

Section A.—Our troops have continued to meet with determined resistance on the part of the enemy, who has been forced hastily to bring up and engage divisions from other parts of the front. Between Cierges and the Valley of the Aire we have met and repulsed heavy counter-attacks.

The War Department authorizes the following part of Communique No. 135.

The commander in chief of the American Expeditionary Forces has awarded the Distinguished Service Cross to the following-named officers and men in the Marine Corps of the American Expeditionary Forces for the acts of gallantry set forth after their names:

Pvt. ALBERT A. TAUBERT, United States Marine Corps. Carl Taubert, father, 535 West Mifflin Street, Madison, Wis. "For extraordinary heroism in the Villers Cotterets Forest, south of Soissons, France, July 18, 1918. Pvt. Taubert went out in advance of the line of his company into the fire of a machine gun that was shooting at him and captured the gun and its crew."

Pvt. FRANK J. BARCZYKOWSKI, United States Marine Corps. Frank Barcsykowski, father, 18 Klaus Street, Buffalo, N. Y. "For extraordinary heroism in action near Vierzy, France, July 19, 1918. He displayed exceptional bravery in charging three machine guns with the aid of a small detachment of his comrades, killing the crews and capturing the guns, which were immediately turned on the Germans, thereby opening the line for the advance of his company, which had been held up by the enemy's fire."

Pvt. ALBERT H. BARROWS, United States Marine Corps. Mrs. Mary A. Barrows, mother, 714 Summer Street, Lynn, Mass. "For extraordinary heroism in action near Vierzy, France, July 19, 1918. He displayed exceptional bravery in charging three machine guns with the aid of a small detachment of his comrades, killing the crews and capturing the guns, which were immediately turned on the Germans, thereby opening the line for the advance of his company, which had been held up by the enemy's fire."

Pvt. PAUL T. HURLEY, United States Marine Corps. Joseph D. Hurley, father, 21 Cricket Street, Ardmore, Pa. "For extraordinary heroism in action near Vierzy, France, July 19, 1918. He displayed exceptional bravery in charging three machine guns with the aid of a small detachment of his comrades, killing the crews and capturing the guns, which were immediately turned on the Germans, thereby opening the line for advance of his company, which had been held up by the enemy's fire."

Second Lieut. JOSEPH B. CARHART, United States Marine Corps. George Carhart, brother, 152 West Fifteenth Street, New York City. "For extraordinary heroism in action near Vierzy, France, July 19, 1918. He displayed exceptional bravery in charging three machine guns with a small detachment of his men, killing the crews and capturing the guns, which were immediately turned on the Germans, thereby opening the line for the advance of his company, which had been held up by the enemy's fire."

Sergt. LOUIS CUKELA, United States Marine Corps. Sam Cukela, father, box 24, Joyce, Washington. "For extraordinary heroism in action in the forest De Retz, near Villers Commetres, France, July 18, 1918. Sergt. Cukela advanced alone against an enemy strong point that was holding up his line, worked his way to its rear and by use of German hand grenades attacked and captured two machine guns and four men."

Gunnery Sergt. JNO. NAGAZYNA, United States Marine Corps. Stephen Nagazyna, father, Babylon, L. I., N. Y. "For extraordinary heroism in the attack on Tigney, France, July 19, 1918. During a critical time in the assault against Tigney, when his company had suffered heavy losses, Sergt. Nagasyna set such an example of personal bravery and determination as to inspire his men to success. At a time when it seemed impossible to advance any farther, his fearlessness in moving up and down his line to steady his men, encouraged them to go forward against heavy odds and take and hold their objective."

Pvt. ROYAL H. C. SHEPHERD, United States Marine Corps. John S. Shepherd, father, Route No. 1, box 153J, Houston, Tex. "For extraordinary heroism in action near Tigney, France, July 19, 1918. Shepherd entered the action with a badly burned foot, which fact he concealed from his officers. Shot through the shoulder early in the advance, and unable to hold his position in the firing line, he carried wounded men to shelter for six hours, all the time under heavy fire of the enemy, and yielded to treatment himself only when he had become exhausted from the effects of his injury."

Corpl. WILLIAM H. FAGA. Mary Faga, mother, 1134 North Franklin Street, Chicago, Ill. "For extraordinary heroism in action near Vierzy, France, July 19, 1918. He attacked and captured a machine gun that was inflicting losses on the American lines. In addition, he volunteered and successfully delivered messages of great importance to his battalion commander through a machine-gun and artillery barrage."

Pvt. WALTER E. FURR, United States Marine Corps. Mr. M. F. Furr, father, Concord, N. C. "For extraordinary heroism in action near Vierzy, France, July 19, 1918. Unaided, Pvt. Furr crept forward in advance of his line, searched an underground tunnel, captured five Germans and brought them safely back through heavy machine-gun and shell fire."

Corpl. HUGH C. VAN AMBURGH, United States Marine Corps. Roxie Thurmond, mother, R. F. D. No. 2, box 209, Milwaukee, Oreg. "For extraordinary heroism in action near Vierzy, France, July 19, 1918. As a motorcycle-dispatch rider, Corpl. Van Amburgh made repeated trips along shell-swept roads and in a gassed area before and during the capture of Vierzy. When Vierzy was still in German hands, he dismounted from his motorcycle in front of the town, and with great coolness and disregard of personal safety, crawled into it and brought back information of great value to his brigade commander."

Corpl. JOSEPH L. HOPTA, United States Marine Corps. John Hopta, father, 491 Mulberry Street, Newark, N. J. "For extraordinary heroism in action near Vierzy, France, July 18, 1918. Corpl. Hopta captured an enemy machine gun and its crew single handed under a heavily concentrated machine-gun fire."

Corpl. BERNARD W. MONTAG, United States Marine Corps. Bernard C. Montag, father, 1825 Simpson Street, Oshkosh, Wis.

Pvt. W. M. McINTYRE, United States Marine Corps. (Not identified).

Pvt. ELIAS J. MESSINGER, United States Marine Corps. Elmiria Messinger, mother, 417 Jefferson Street, Boise, Idaho, and

Pvt. DOLPH WOOD, United States Marine Corps. Alice Wood, mother, Madison, Ill. "For extraordinary heroism in action near Vierzy, France, July 19, 1918. Corpl. Montag and Pvts. McIntyre, Messinger, and Wood, captured a machine gun which was holding up the company of Marines, killing the entire crew. To accomplish this hazardous and daring work it was necessary for them to expose themselves to the fire of this gun. Even though Corpl. Montag and Pvts. McIntyre and Messinger were wounded during the advance, the party continued forward and succeeded."

ASSIGNED TO EIGHTY-SIXTH INFANTRY.
